Growth Plan Talks Collapse In Novato

Supervisors Exit At Beginning Of Meeting

By FRANK FARRARA

Talks between the Novato City Council and Marin County Board of Supervisors on coordinating growth control collapsed at the outset last night.

The meeting, described as a fiasco and "shocking," disintegrated in the opening minutes after councilman George C. Quesada called for city control.

After mentioning existing animosity and mutual distrust between cities in Marin and supervisors, Quesada moved that "the city planning commission become the area planning commission and accept full responsibility for the North Marin planning area."

"I am absolutely shocked to face a predetermined position by the city council," Giacomini said. "It is pointless to continue. I feel we have been had and I will not be a party."

Arrigoni said supervisors had "come in good faith" to discuss a proposed growth control ordinance and instead were "subjected to a political forum."

Quesada offered to withdraw his motion, but Giacomini replied, "The spirit of the motion is very clear," and he left.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste said he was "taken aback" by the motion since he had believed the session was simply to discuss various planning approaches. "I didn't realize the city council had predetermined the issue, especially when we haven't had any public hearings," Baptiste said.

Quesada's proposal of an area planning commission and that the city's commission be designated was counter to the county's proposal for a residential development review board, to be appointed by the council and the supervisors.

The joint City-County Control Board was envisioned as a forerunner to other joint city-county boards in Marin.

Arrigoni commented he had never said he wanted to get out of urban planning in the eastern corridor, an attitude attributed to him last Thursday by Quesada.

Quesada said later he wouldn't have made his proposal "if I hadn't been led down what I believe was the primrose path," hearing that supervisors wanted to get out of urban planning.

Councilman David Price Jones, trying to pull the meeting back together, said Quesada's motion was "out of order" and asked for a return to the "spirit of cooperation."

He said he didn't know the motion was going to be made, and said "the relationship between the city and the county has been good."

Arrigoni said perhaps discussions could continue "at some other meeting," since the "tenor now is not conducive to working in harmony."

Councilman F. Wayne Sartain urged cooperation and deplored that "here we are at odds."

"I'm very disappointed," said Baptiste. He said, "We had intended a workshop session on joint efforts to affect growth

County Hiring Of Ex-Felons Hit

By JEFF GREER

Revelations that two former convicts have been hired as future staff for the county Department of Corrections honor farm today stirred new controversy over the strife-ridden project.

The new department is to take over from the sheriff Jan. 1 in operating the honor farm at Santa Venetia —but a judge said today that he won't sentence anyone to the farm and a criminal justice planning official called the hiring policy "appalling."

Municipal Court Presiding Judge Robert A. Smallman criticized what he said was secret hiring of the two ex-convicts among the nine persons hired to staff the farm.

Smallman said he told Ralph Merola, head of the Department of Corrections:

"In that case, from now on every sentence I hand out in court will specify that time must be served in the county jail and not at the honor farm."

Merola told the Independent-Journal that the hirings were neither "secret" nor did they set any precedent. He said Sonoma and San Mateo counties, the federal parole office in San Francisco and numerous other correctional programs hire "ex-offenders" as qualified professionals to do criminal rehabilitation work.

"I'm not about to use the honor farm unless the public and the board of supervisors are aware the situation exists . . . and approve of it," Smallman said. He voiced concern that supervision by former felons could be harmful to youths serving sentences for traffic and other minor violations, or to work furlough and weekend inmates.

Smallman said he will send a letter to all of Marin's municipal and superior court judges and the board of supervisors outlining his opinions.

Merola said he wrote all the county's judges in October, seeking to meet with them to discuss his plans for the honor farm including hiring policies, "but I got no response."

Merola also said Bella Aaron, administrator of the Criminal Justice Planning Agency for the county, "thought it was a great idea when I advised her in August" of his plans to hire ex-convicts.

Mrs. Aaron said Merola was lying. "I knew nothing at all about it," Mrs. Aaron told the I-J today. "I think it's appalling. Is that the kind of security they're going to have at the honor farm?"

Mrs. Aaron stressed that Merola's designation by the supervisors to take over the honor farm from the sheriff's department hasn't yet been confirmed by the state Council for Criminal Justice, which must approve the switch. Until then, she declared, Merola is paid not as a department head but as an employee of a local rehabilitation project approved and financed through the criminal justice program.

Both Mrs. Aaron and Merola agreed that the original top contender for corrections chief was a man with a criminal

Conferees Moving On Energy Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate conferees agreed today to give President Nixon a relatively free hand until March 1 to take emergency actions to cope with the energy crisis.

The details, and whether the agreement included gasoline rationing, remained to be worked out by negotiators seeking to come up with a compromise energy emergency bill.

Leaders of both the Senate and House groups said their agreement was "on the concept" so far and that they were still at odds over details.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., sponsors of the differing House and Senate bills, provided evidence of the disagreements following a conference meeting.

First, Jackson told newsmen Congress would have veto powers over presidential actions until June 30, but after March 1 the exercise of that power would be limited.

Both then agreed more work needed to be done.

William J. Van Ness, chief counsel of the Senate Interior Committee, explained to newsmen that agreement "in concept" was to allow the President to do things authorized by the emergency bill until March 1, and that there would be some congressional oversight.

Charles B. Curtis of the House Commerce Committee staff, said, "The authority would be permitted to take effect without congressional approval for a period, in order to deal with the immediate emergency."

The Egyptian ambassador to the United States expressed hope today that the embargo by Arab countries on oil shipments to the United States might be relaxed soon.

Ashraf Ghorbal, who has been in charge of Egyptian affairs in Washington for some months and was elevated to ambassador when the two countries restored diplomatic relations last month, linked an end of the oil embargo to Mideast peace prospects.

As did Saudi Arabia's oil minister a few days ago, Ghorbal said an easing of the oil cutoff could come if the United States would "guarantee" Israeli withdrawal from Arab lands.

Hijackers Surrender After Freeing Hostages

KUWAIT (UPI) — Palestinian guerrillas freed their hostages and surrendered to authorities in this Persian Gulf sheikhdom tonight to end a two-day saga of death and terror that began with an attack on a U.S. jetliner at the Rome Airport.

"It all ended with the surrender at 8:30 p.m. (12:30 p.m EST)," an airport official said.

In Frankfurt, Germany, a spokesman for Lufthansa airlines said the guerillas released the plane's crew and hostages in return for safe passage out of Kuwait.

"We do not yet have any exact numbers of hostages who have come off the plane, but all of the crew are alive and well," the spokesman said.

Police who boarded the plane after the hijackers and the hostages left it found no bodies aboard, the official said. During an overnight stop at Athens airport, the pilot reported the hijackers had shot five of the estimated 14 hostages. But Kuwait officials said it may have been a hoax to pressure Greek authorities to release two guerrillas jailed in Athens.

Officials did not say where the hijackers were taken from the airport, but they said an Italian plane was en route to pick the hostages up and fly

Nissen Appointed Planner By Council In San Rafael

Donn E. Nissen, president of the Terra Linda Homeowners Association and Las Gallinas Valley Presidents Council, was appointed last night to the San Rafael Planning Commission by the city council.

DONN E. NISSEN
San Rafael post

The 47-year-old Nissen was unanimously tapped from among eight applicants for the seat vacated by the firing of Jorgen V. Lunding.

Councilman Jack G. Nixon, who moved Nissen's appointment last night, commented that critics might view the action as a political reward since Nissen was cochairman of the Nixon council election campaign last April.

But Nixon, saying all eight candidates were capable, declared that Nissen was the best and had demonstrated "objectivity and a willingness to give everyone a fair hearing" in his homeowner's posts.

Nissen graduated from the University of Washington with a bachelor's degree in forestry. He is a sales representative for Olincraft, Inc.

Nissen served four years on the Dixie Finance Committee and on the Terra Linda High Booster Club, and is a former president of both groups.

In a bid for a planning commission seat last May, Nissen described the agency as a "private club" with a "public be damned" attitude.

He urged then that all major development in the city be halted until the city general plan is completed, called for creation of an architectural review board, more comprehensive site and landscape planning, and a program whereby developers present plans to local homeowners before appearing before the commission.

A 13-year resident of the city, Nissen lives at 607 Tamarack Drive with his wife, Thelma May. The couple has a son and a daughter.

Corte Madera Voting Reported Light In Selecting Councilmen

Voters turned out in smaller numbers this morning to name three new Corte Madera town councilmen than they did in September to recall three councilmen.

After three hours of voting, 462 of 4,973 eligible voters had cast ballots.

In the recall election in September, 560 of 4,931 registered voters cast ballots during the first three hours. Fifty-six per cent of the registered voters cast ballots in that election.

Polls will remain open until 8 o'clock tonight at Holy Innocents Episcopal Parish, Corte Madera Recreation Center, Neil Cummins School, San Clemente School and Granada School.

"I know my precinct, I've been here 15 years, and voting just seems slow," said Elryne Davis, inspector at the recreation center. "The cold weather may have had something to do with it," she said.

"It has been steady but I don't think it's as heavy as it was on the recall," said Irving W. Hall, voting inspector at Holy Innocents.

They are seeking the seats of Mayor Holmes S. Norville and councilmen Edward W. Colthurst and Harold B. Wagstaff.

Councilmen selected today will serve only until municipal elections March 5 as the terms of all three recalled councilmen were to expire then.

Nofziger Quits Reinecke's Staff

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lyn Nofziger, chief professional strategist for Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke's bid for governor, has quit abruptly over differences on running the election campaign.

Reinecke, who announced the surprise resignation yesterday, said he will campaign for the Republican nomination on the basis of "frankness and honesty" and "will be a governor that puts people first, and politics second."

Nofziger, who managed President Nixon's California reelection campaign and whose name popped up in the Senate Watergate hearings, told Reinecke in a "Dear Ed" letter that "you and I just are not on the same wave length."

LYN NOFZIGER
Different wave length

At separate news conferences, the two men refused to discuss specific issues of contention but Reinecke said the differences were "not significant" and he didn't ask Nofziger to resign.

Nofziger said he was hired 11 months ago as "campaign director" and that the two men "just had a different approach" to running the operation.

Reinecke said Nofziger was hired on a one-year contract as "public relations consultant." Nofziger said the contract had another year to run.

In a "Dear Lyn" letter, the lieutenant governor said the "time has come to shift from a public relations concept of campaigning to one of campaign management and to, as well, alleviate fundamental differences between the two of us."

While declining to discuss specifics, Nofziger said he believed the financing of the Reinecke campaign and the actual campaign operations should be separate instead of combined.

Nofziger, an aide to Nixon from July 1969 to February 1971, was mentioned in Watergate testimony as a contributor to the White House political "enemies list" and as a go-between in an unsuccessful attempt to disqualify the American Independent Party in California with $10,000 from the Nixon re-election campaign

Kissinger Says Thanks For Portugal's Support

LISBON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger wound up talks today with an ally that stood by America during the Middle East war and prepared to meet one that balked at backing the United States in the conflict.

Kissinger flew to Portugal yesterday after his latest round of Middle East talks and thanked the government in Lisbon for letting American supply planes land in the Azores during the massive arms airlift to Israel.

"On this trip through the Middle East, I was reminded of the fact that Portugal stood by its ally in the recent difficulty, and the United States is extremely grateful for this," the secretary of state said last night.

Kissinger was scheduled to leave Portugal in late afternoon for a one-day trip to Spain, which refused to let U.S. cargo planes taking part in the airlift use America's big Torrejon air base outside Madrid.

He met with President Americo Thomas, Prime Minister Marcello Caetano and Foreign Minister Rui Patricio last night, promising future American backing for Portugal.

Taxpayers Still Pay For Agnew

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who resigned in disgrace Oct. 10, has since cost the taxpayers a minimum of almost $100,000, according to a General Accounting Office (GAO) report.

The cost, however, is certainly much more because GAO, the congressional watchdog agency, said it could not obtain any data on the money spent giving Agnew round-the-clock Secret Service protection.

In a preliminary report, the GAO estimated $95,406 has been spent through Dec. 4 to provide Agnew with offices, 18 aides, free mailing privileges and office supplies.

Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats, in a letter to Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., said the investigation showed no legal basis for assigning agents to Agnew and questioned the funds used to pay aides.

Staats also said attempts to elicit more information on Agnew's staff were blocked by the White House and the Secret Service has refused to answer a request for detailed data.

Moss, who requested the investigation, said the GAO had to check the White House and several federal agencies and "has not had their cooperation and has had every kind of rebuff from those who are supposed to give the information."

"He (Staats) has not had cooperation in any area in seeking answers to my questions," Moss said.

He added that the help being given Agnew "appears to have been done under the specific order of the President."

After Agnew resigned Nixon ordered continued Secret Service protection for an unspecified time and made available offices across Lafayette Park from the White House for Agnew to put his papers in order.

GAO said it was "not aware of any specific authority of law for providing Secret Service protection for former vice presidents."

The preliminary report said that from Oct. 10 to Dec. 4 salaries for personnel assigned to Agnew totaled $89,132.75; free mailing costs, $287.12; office supplies, $877.61. It said $960 was spent to move various files from his old office in the Executive Office Building.

The report said that the office expenditures were valid if the activities benefited the government, not Agnew.

As for staff funds, the report said, "...in our opinion, the appropriation would not be available for expenditures for staff to assist the former Vice President to perform tasks unrelated to his previously assigned functions."

Garrison's Defeat To Be Probed

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Asst. Dist. Atty. John Volz, who acts as a spokesman for Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison, said yesterday the election which Garrison apparently lost will be investigated.

Garrison

"It may be normal, but it doesn't appear to be normal," Volz said.

"There may be nothing wrong with it," he said. "But I think these are areas that we will look into, and say that from the candidate's point of view, not from an official D.A.'s position, understand.

"What investigation will be done primarily will be done by the Jim Garrison candidacy," Volz said.

Unofficial returns indicated Garrison, the pipe-smoking 6-foot-6 district attorney who became famous for his bizarre investigation into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, barely lost Saturday's election to Harry F. Connick, a man Garrison defeated four years ago.

London Bombing

LONDON (UPI) — A car bomb exploded on a street outside a cluster of government offices in central London today, injuring several persons and causing major damage, police said.

A spokesman at nearby Westminster Hospital said 15 persons had been admitted and more were coming in, some of them badly hurt."

Buildings in the area were heavily damaged, authorities said.

Police sealed off the area around a home office building near Lambeth Bridge over the Thames River. The area where the blast occurred halfway between the Tate Gallery and New Scotland Yard is crowded with government offices.

Island Slaying

CHRISTIANSER, Virgin Islands (UPI) — A 21-year-old man was found shot to death by a gunman who fired from a speeding car last night. It was the 12th slaying on the island of St. Croix this year.

Police said Ivan Williams was shot in the head, neck and shoulder by an unknown assailant from a cream-colored automobile which sped past as Williams was walking on a downtown street.

The murder of Williams came at a time when this tourist-dependent Caribbean island appeared to have emerged from an outbreak of killings which had destroyed its vacation image.

Energy Search

HOUSTON (UPI) — Putting aside a dispute over whether they have grown taller in space, the Skylab 3 astronauts awoke two hours early today to search the western United States and Mexico for underground "hot spots" that could be used to generate electricity.

Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue rose to make the 21-minute earth resources pass. Special heat sensing instruments were trained earthward from their 270 mile high observatory.

The search had to be made before dawn since daylight heat might have fouled up the readings, and the lab's normal orbit would not sent it over the desired area for some time.

After Trucks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Saying a "crisis exists," a judge today asked Gov. John J. Gilligan to have National Guard troops clear a truck stop jammed by 100 trucks.

Since Friday, drivers have ignored an injunction issued by Lawrence County Common Pleas Court Judge Kenneth B. Ater ordering them to leave the Ashland Plaza truck stop. Some trucks managed to leave the stop early today under Ohio Highway Patrol escort.

The truck drivers are asking for lower fuel prices, higher speed limits and a standardization of load limits.

Pilots To Protest

CHICAGO (UPI) — Airline pilots, contending the fuel shortage has fallen unfairly on airline employees, plan to protest federal cutbacks in fuel allocations for commercial airlines with a demonstration at O'Hare International Airport Friday.

An Air Line Pilots Association spokesman said yesterday the pilots would post informational pickets" at O'Hare, and the demonstration would coincide with similar protests by pilots in Los Angeles, Dallas, New York City, and San Francisco.

Egypt Says Israel Will Block Talks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt accused Israel today of planning to obstruct the coming Middle East peace talks. Israel agreed to attend the Geneva conference Friday, but refused to sit down with Syria until Damascus officials hand over a list of war prisoners.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi said his nation was "going to the conference to prove to the world again that it is the Israelis who obstruct peace."

"As a diplomat I have to be optimistic, but our experience with the Israelis does not afford us the luxury of being optimistic," Fahmi said in remarks released by the Middle East News Agency.

Fahmi said the Egyptians "are not afraid of peace" but predicted "the Israelis will revert to their maneuvering" to tie up the talks.

Nixon Yields Ground On Documents Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has yielded some important ground to the Senate Watergate committee in its struggle to gain access to presidential tape recordings and documents.

The President allowed a bill to become law at 12:01 a.m. today, giving the committee power to subpoena such materials.

He said "I strongly disagree with this legislation" and said it would "weaken" the American judicial system. But he said Congress and the American people would misinterpret his motives if he vetoed it.

He neither signed nor vetoed the bill, and it automatically became law 10 days after Congress passed it.

The legislation puts the Watergate committee on a legal par with prosecutors to obtain access to presidential tapes and documents.

So far only the prosecutors have obtained those materials, following court rulings which the President decided not to test in the Supreme Court. But Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ruled Oct. 17 that there was no specific legislation giving him jurisdiction to require that they also be given to the committee.

The new legislation, introduced by Committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., gives Sirica jurisdiction to rule on the subpoena. It presumably leaves Nixon free if he chooses to oppose the subpoena on its merits in Sirica's court.

"The intent of this legislation is to circumvent the established judicial processes by making the court a vehicle for congressional actions not envisaged by the Constitution," the President said in a statement issued yesterday evening.

He said "control of litigation" should be a function of the executive branch.

Nofziger Quits Reinecke's Staff

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lyn Nofziger, chief professional strategist for Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke's bid for governor, has quit abruptly over differences on running the election campaign.

Reinecke, who announced the surprise resignation yesterday, said he will campaign for the Republican nomination on the basis of "frankness and honesty" and "will be a governor that puts people first, and politics second."

Nofziger, who managed President Nixon's California reelection campaign and whose name popped up in the Senate Watergate hearings, told Reinecke in a "Dear Ed" letter that "you and I just are not on the same wave length."

LYN NOFZIGER
Different wave length

At separate news conferences, the two men refused to discuss specific issues of contention but Reinecke said the differences were "not significant" and he didn't ask Nofziger to resign.

Nofziger said he was hired 11 months ago as "campaign director" and that the two men "just had a different approach" to running the operation.

Reinecke said Nofziger was hired on a one-year contract as "public relations consultant." Nofziger said the contract had another year to run.

In a "Dear Lyn" letter, the lieutenant governor said the "time has come to shift from a public relations concept of campaigning to one of campaign management and to, as well, alleviate fundamental differences between the two of us."

While declining to discuss specifics, Nofziger said he believed the financing of the Reinecke campaign and the actual campaign operations should be separate instead of combined.

Nofziger, an aide to Nixon from July 1969 to February 1971, was mentioned in Watergate testimony as a contributor to the White House political "enemies list" and as a gobetween in an unsuccessful attempt to disqualify the American Independent Party in California with $10,000 from the Nixon re-election campaign

Kissinger Says Thanks For Portugal's Support

LISBON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger wound up talks today with an ally that stood by America during the Middle East war and prepared to meet one that balked at backing the United States in the conflict.

Kissinger flew to Portugal yesterday after his latest round of Middle East talks and thanked the government in Lisbon for letting American supply planes land in the Azores during the massive arms airlift to Israel.

"On this trip through the Middle East, I was reminded of the fact that Portugal stood by its ally in the recent difficulty, and the United States is extremely grateful for this," the secretary of state said last night.

Kissinger was scheduled to leave Portugal in late afternoon for a one-day trip to Spain, which refused to let U.S. cargo planes taking part in the airlift use America's big Torrejon air base outside Madrid.

He met with President Americo Thomas, Prime Minister Marcello Caetano and Foreign Minister Rui Patricio last night, promising future American backing for Portugal.

Limit Eyed On Tourist Businesses

An ordinance designed to limit the number of tourist type businesses which can set up shop in Mill Valley was introduced last night before the city council.

Councilmen said they agreed with the principle of the new regulations, amended them to make them more strict and sent them to the planning commission for final polishing.

"Our intent is to control the growth of the types of businesses that appeal to tourists more than to residents," said Councilman Robert E. Burton.

The regulations would define businesses considered tourist oriented and require these to apply for a permit from the planning commission.

For example, a dressmaking shop, a drugstore, a barber shop or a clothing store could still open without applying for a use permit. But pottery or ceramics stores, jewelry or leather goods dealers would have to go to the planning commission for approval.

Under Burton's urging, the council also included the proviso that if a business did not have a separate street entrance apart from other businesses around it, it would also need a conditional use permit.

Burton said this measure would mean that the city could limit the growth of collective boutiques such as Old Brown's Store and the Port which have aroused some criticism recently for being too tourist-oriented.

The council asked the planning commission to report back with the finished ordinance on Jan. 14.

Tanker Port Is Approved

SANTA CRUZ (AP) — An offshore port for 50,000-ton oil tankers at Moss Landing was approved yesterday for the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. plant at Moss Landing by the Central Coast Zone Conservation Commission.

The new construction will be an expansion of the present facilities which can accommodate tankers of 30,000 tons.

The permit requires that new oil storage tanks behind the power generating facility be built to withstand a moderate earthquake. The commission requires PG&E to burn only low sulfur oil.

Oakland-San Jose Flights Requested

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Air California has asked the State Public Utilities Commission for certification to fly passengers and freight between the Oakland and San Jose Airports.

The company yesterday proposed one-way fares of $6 for the service, which would be part of its scheduled flights between the San Jose and Oakland airports and Palm Springs, Ontario, Orange County and San Diego.

Mill Valley Council May Rent Gas Station For Parking Lot

The Mill Valley City Council last night agreed to pay $2,500 for an option to lease as a parking lot an abandoned service station in the 300 block of Miller Avenue.

According to Councilman Robert E. Capron, who negotiated the proposed lease with the owner of the station property, Gary R. Shapiro of Oakland, the 40-space lot would make up for parking spaces lost when the city begins the first phase of the Miller Avenue improvement project.

The council has six months to decide if it wants to rent the property for four years at $375 per month. It then has one year to decide whether it will buy the property at the owner's price of $55,000, Capron said.

If the city buys the lot, it will then set up an assessment district among neighboring businesses to pay for it, he said. But he said he hoped that most of the money for the lot would come from meter revenues.

Capron said one term of the agreement with Shaprio was that other properties which the landowner holds in the area including the Port shopping center, would be exempt from the assessment district.

The Worst Flood

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The most disastrous flood in Connecticut history took place in March 1936. Eleven people died when the Connecticut River crested at 37.6 feet.

The option was approved 4-1, with Councilman Gerald J. Hood voting "no."

The Mill Valley City Council also:

BOND ISSUE — Decided not to hire a financial consultant to help market the recently passed police station bond issue and agreed to have city staff handle the job.

TELEPHONE — Agreed to issue a permit for construction of the foundations of a new Pacific Telephone and Telegraph building on Lomita Drive. The rest of the building cannot go up until the Regional Water Quality Control Board approves sewer arrangements for the structure.

ROAD HAZARD — Agreed to pay $2,898 to widen and improve Molino Avenue from No. 105, an area where cars often drive over the side of the hill.

CABLE — Appointed a committee to review the use of cable television in the city including as members: Dr. Robert Koch of 750 Lovell Avenue, Steve Padover of 61 Catalpa Avenue, Martha Freebairn-Smith of 24 Heuter Lane, Glorya R. Credle of 395 Throckmorton Avenue, Sally Pugh of 389 Ethel Avenue, Dusan Mills of 129 Eldridge Avenue and David S. Hanson, North Bay regional manager of Tele-Vue Systems.

SYCAMORE AVENUE — Postponed until Jan. 21 a proposal to prohibit through traffic on Sycamore Avenue west of Camino Alto.

LOVELL AVENUE — Appointed the city engineer, police chief and Councilman Robert E. Burton as a committee to study ways of improving traffic flow in the Lovell Avenue area.

CRIME CONTROL — Agreed to apply for about $16,500 in federal funds under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act to be used for buying new police equipment. The city must provide about $5,500 in matching funds if the grants are approved.

SALOON MUSIC — Said Old Mill Tavern may have a solo singer playing a nonelectric guitar, but continued its ban on amplified rock bands, while the council decides its policy on music and nightspots. The council asked City Atty. Leland H. Jordan to advise it Jan. 7 as to its legal power to determine controls.

HIJACK ROUTE —A two-day saga of death and terror which began in Rome and ended in Kuwait was over today after Arab hijackers surrendered to Kuwait officials and released hostages held on a captured Lufthansa jetliner. A UPI newsmap shows the route of the hijackers during the bloodiest aerial hijack in the history of Arab guerrilla operations.

them to Rome. They said this was arranged in two phone calls between Kuwait government officials and the Italian premier.

The Lufthansa spokesman, in explaining the fact that police found no bodies in the plane, said he believed the Arabs forced the two stewardesses to scream and compelled the pilot, Capt. Joseph Kroese, to report that his copilot, Rolf Kies, and others had been shot in order to pressure the Greek government to free two jailed Black September Palestinians.

Officials said they could not immediately say how many persons were aboard the plane.

The pilot landed the medium range Boeing 737 jetliner at Kuwait at 5:15 p.m. (9:15 a.m. EST) despite the fact authorities had declared the airport closed when the West German airliner approached the Persian Gulf on a flight from Damascus.

At Damascus, the hijackers stopped only long enough to refuel and take on food and charts of the Persian Gulf region. They refused Syrian officials' requests to release the passengers but said they would be released "within a few hours".

The death toll of the two-day drama, according to officials was 36, including one woman hostage whom officials believed died on the flight from Rome to Athens and whose body was dumped by the hijackers at Athens airport.

The two days of terror began yesterday afternoon when security guards discovered guns in the luggage of several Arabs who then shot up a passenger lounge at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci international airport.

Alva Nipper Resigns Ross Board

Alva N. Nipper, a member of the Ross Valley Sanitary District board for 37 years, last night told fellow directors he will leave the board Jan. 1.

Nipper said he was resigning for personal reasons, according to Ned J. Ongaro, district manager.

Nipper, who will be 78 tomorrow, lives at 5 Alpine Terrace in San Anselmo and is a real estate broker with Nipper and Marchant Realtors of San Rafael.

He was reelected to the sanitary board in 1970. Ongaro said the board will name a replacement for Nipper.

The board also annexed 20 acres on the Larkspur side of the ridge separating Larkspur from San Rafael. The area along Bret Harte Road above Highway 101 will bring about 15 homes into the district, Ongaro said.

He said the action completed annexation begun in 1968 and no protest was received.

Directors will next meet Jan. 7 at 8 p.m. in district offices.

Trial Date Set On Drug Charge

A Jan. 28 trial date has been set for a Livermore man charged with felony possession of heroin.

Ronald Lynn Holloway, 27, was bound over to Marin Superior Court after a California Highway Patrol officer testified he found heroin in Holloway's car Nov. 12.

The officer said he pulled Holloway's car over for swerving as it drove on Highway 101 near Novato.

Russia Orbits Soyuz; Space Link Expected

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today hurled two space rookies into earth orbit aboard a Soyuz-13 spacecraft, Tass announced. An American space magazine said there was a Salyut space station already waiting aloft, suggesting the possibility of a link-up.

Tass said the Soyuz was commanded by Air Force Maj. Pyotr Klimuk, a cosmonaut for eight years. Also aboard was flight engineer Valentin Lebedev who joined the Soviet space program in 1972. Both are 31 and married. Neither is among the cosmonauts selected for the 1975 joint Soviet-American space flight.

The American aerospace trade magazine, Aviation Week and Space Technology, said yesterday the Soviets launched a Salyut on Nov. 30, under the designation Cosmos 613, the allpurpose sputnik series.

The magazine said the Salyut made two maneuvers in orbit, then went into a stand-by condition for possible later reactivation.

The Soviets have had trouble in the past with the Salyut, the equivalent of the American Skylab station. Two malfunctioned earlier this year and Soviet space officials said they intended to re-test the craft and practice the link-up maneuvers that will be required for the 1975 flight.

Soyuz-13 will remain in orbit several days, according to Soviet sources. They said its mission will be to make solar studies and continue testing the Soyuz, extensively revamped after three cosmonauts died in a pressurization accident aboard Soyuz-11 in June 1971.

The accident interrupted the Soviet manned flight program until last Sept. 27 when cosmonauts Vasily Lazarev and Oleg Makarov went aloft for two days.

"The cosmonauts feel fine, the systems on board function smoothly," Tass said in announcing the launch of Soyuz-13.

The space shot came three weeks after a group of American astronauts ended a two-week training session with the Soviets and predicted "no difficulty" in making the 1975 joint flight on schedule.

Astronaut Thomas Stafford, who heads the American crew for that flight, said he was "completely satisfied" with the revamped Soyuz model and predicted it would be "a great ship to fly." Maj. Gen. Vladimir A. Shatalov, director of the cosmonaut training program, said then there would be more Soyuz flights before the one in 1975 that will link the two-man Soyuz to a three-man Apollo.

control in incorporated and unincorporated areas."

Baptiste said he believed the "county should retain its options" on a growth control system, and said "I don't believe you can disenfranchise people outside the city."

Quesada said residents from outside the city could have proportional representation on an area planning commission, but it "would be one out of seven or two out of nine," and would amount to "window dressing."

Supervisor Michael Wornum suggested the two groups "back up after the emotional beginning" and they set another joint meeting for Jan. 21, time and place not yet set.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere said "the people are sick and tired of governmental entities arguing among themselves . . . maybe we should try to regroup."

Quesada's motion wasn't put to a vote, and the meeting was opened for public comment, some blistering.

Novato planning commissioner Beverly Ehreth, attending her last session as a commissioner, said her reasons for not seeking reappointment "are perfectly obvious tonight," and she urged planning in the Novato area as a unit. She then said she would follow the example of Giacomini and Arrigoni, and she, too, walked out.

Novato planning commissioner Gail Wilhelm said: "I think this is shocking. Novato had the chance to take the leadership and I think we blew it. I think a letter of apology should be sent to the board of supervisors."

Patrick H. Heffernan, a director of the North Marin County Water District, said, "Unfortunately I can't trust the board of supervisors and there isn't too much to trust in the city council for they don't do that much." He said he favored an area planning commission, but questioned whether residents of unincorporated areas would be given "a real voice."

Pam Lloyd of Mill Valley said: "The rest of the county is looking at what you are doing. I cannot believe this. I am discouraged."

William C. Long of Novato, a member of the county planning commission said if the council didn't proceed it would be a "serious misreading of the citizens" who want action on growth control."

At one point in the meeting, Sartain said, "We had an opportunity tonight to make real progress and it was just thrown out the window."

Hearing Called Off In Corte Madera

A scheduled public hearing on the proposed Corte Madera General Plan before the town's planning commission was canceled last night because the commission did not have a quorum present.

The hearing was rescheduled for the commission's next regular meeting Jan. 14 at 8 p.m. in town hall.

Sewage Project Hearing Slated

A public hearing on a proposed sewage disposal project and on continuation of a moratorium on water hookups will be held by the Bolinas Community Public Utility District at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the district office on Elm road.

The moratorium on new water connections — in effect a ban on new construction — was enacted in November, 1971 when the board found that extensions of service "would seriously impair the ability of the district to provide water to its users."

Council To Talk About Security

The Sausalito City Council will consider a measure that would tighten security of development projects when it meets at 8 p.m. today in council chambers on Bridgeway.

The measure would make all projects requiring an environmental impact report subject to review by the planning commission and city council.

record. "He was professionally the most qualified," Mrs. Aaron said.

The two former convicts hired by Merola also were qualified through civil service examinations and met all the other standards for their jobs, according to Maren Rinne, county personnel director.

She said the federal and state fair employment practices guidelines require the personnel staff to "consider the whole man" and that the final appointment was up to Merola as department head.

Merola said both the former convicts came to his staff from other professional rehabilitative jobs — one with the state Department of Corrections and the other most recently as a member of the Center Point staff in San Rafael.

Merola said he'd discussed his ex-convict hiring plans with County Adm. John F. Barrows in August, and was told that the supervisors would have no objections. The advisory committee that interviewed Merola and others for the department head's job knew of his plans, he added.

Neither Barrows nor members of the committee could be reached for comment by press time.

"Ex-offenders bring a special quality of experience to the job — having made a mistake, learning from it and rehabilitating themselves," Merola argued. "We didn't go looking for ex-convicts, but they obviously had a change in their whole life-style and they qualified for the jobs," he said.

Personnel Director Rinne commented that ever since the corrections department was recommended by a committee headed by former Judge Hadden W. Roth, there has been "raging schizophrenia" about whether the department should run "a rehabilitation center or a lockup."

HIJACK ROUTE —A two-day saga of death and terror which began in Rome and ended in Kuwait was over today after Arab hijackers surrendered to Kuwait officials and released hostages held on a captured Lufthansa jetliner. A UPI newsmap shows the route of the hijackers during the bloodiest aerial hijack in the history of Arab guerrilla operations.

them to Rome. They said this was arranged in two phone calls between Kuwait government officials and the Italian premier.

The Lufthansa spokesman, in explaining the fact that police found no bodies in the plane, said he believed the Arabs forced the two stewardesses to scream and compelled the pilot, Capt. Joseph Kroese, to report that his copilot, Rolf Kies, and others had been shot in order to pressure the Greek government to free two jailed Black September Palestinians.

Officials said they could not immediately say how many persons were aboard the plane.

The pilot landed the medium range Boeing 737 jetliner at Kuwait at 5:15 p.m. (9:15 a.m. EST) despite the fact authorities had declared the airport closed when the West German airliner approached the Persian Gulf on a flight from Damascus.

At Damascus, the hijackers stopped only long enough to refuel and take on food and charts of the Persian Gulf region. They refused Syrian officials' requests to release the passengers but said they would be released "within a few hours".

The death toll of the two-day drama, according to officials was 36, including one woman hostage whom officials believed died on the flight from Rome to Athens and whose body was dumped by the hijackers at Athens airport.

The two days of terror began yesterday afternoon when security guards discovered guns in the luggage of several Arabs who then shot up a passenger lounge at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci international airport.

Alva Nipper Resigns Ross Board

Alva N. Nipper, a member of the Ross Valley Sanitary District board for 37 years, last night told fellow directors he will leave the board Jan. 1.

Nipper said he was resigning for personal reasons, according to Ned J. Ongaro, district manager.

Nipper, who will be 78 tomorrow, lives at 5 Alpine Terrace in San Anselmo and is a real estate broker with Nipper and Marchant Realtors of San Rafael.

He was reelected to the sanitary board in 1970. Ongaro said the board will name a replacement for Nipper.

The board also annexed 20 acres on the Larkspur side of the ridge separating Larkspur from San Rafael. The area along Bret Harte Road above Highway 101 will bring about 15 homes into the district, Ongaro said.

He said the action completed annexation begun in 1968 and no protest was received.

Directors will next meet Jan. 7 at 8 p.m. in district offices.

Trial Date Set On Drug Charge

A Jan. 28 trial date has been set for a Livermore man charged with felony possession of heroin.

Ronald Lynn Holloway, 27, was bound over to Marin Superior Court after a California Highway Patrol officer testified he found heroin in Holloway's car Nov. 12.

The officer said he pulled Holloway's car over for swerving as it drove on Highway 101 near Novato.

Russia Orbits Soyuz; Space Link Expected

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today hurled two space rookies into earth orbit aboard a Soyuz-13 spacecraft, Tass announced. An American space magazine said there was a Salyut space station already waiting aloft, suggesting the possibility of a link-up.

Tass said the Soyuz was commanded by Air Force Maj. Pyotr Klimuk, a cosmonaut for eight years. Also aboard was flight engineer Valentin Lebedev who joined the Soviet space program in 1972. Both are 31 and married. Neither is among the cosmonauts selected for the 1975 joint Soviet-American space flight.

The American aerospace trade magazine, Aviation Week and Space Technology, said yesterday the Soviets launched a Salyut on Nov. 30, under the designation Cosmos 613, the allpurpose sputnik series.

The magazine said the Salyut made two maneuvers in orbit, then went into a stand-by condition for possible later reactivation.

The Soviets have had trouble in the past with the Salyut, the equivalent of the American Skylab station. Two malfunctioned earlier this year and Soviet space officials said they intended to re-test the craft and practice the link-up maneuvers that will be required for the 1975 flight.

Soyuz-13 will remain in orbit several days, according to Soviet sources. They said its mission will be to make solar studies and continue testing the Soyuz, extensively revamped after three cosmonauts died in a pressurization accident aboard Soyuz-11 in June 1971.

The accident interrupted the Soviet manned flight program until last Sept. 27 when cosmonauts Vasily Lazarev and Oleg Makarov went aloft for two days.

"The cosmonauts feel fine, the systems on board function smoothly," Tass said in announcing the launch of Soyuz-13.

The space shot came three weeks after a group of American astronauts ended a two-week training session with the Soviets and predicted "no difficulty" in making the 1975 joint flight on schedule.

Astronaut Thomas Stafford, who heads the American crew for that flight, said he was "completely satisfied" with the revamped Soyuz model and predicted it would be "a great ship to fly." Maj. Gen. Vladimir A. Shatalov, director of the cosmonaut training program, said then there would be more Soyuz flights before the one in 1975 that will link the two-man Soyuz to a three-man Apollo.

control in incorporated and unincorporated areas."

Baptiste said he believed the "county should retain its options" on a growth control system, and said "I don't believe you can disenfranchise people outside the city."

Quesada said residents from outside the city could have proportional representation on an area planning commission, but it "would be one out of seven or two out of nine," and would amount to "window dressing."

Supervisor Michael Wornum suggested the two groups "back up after the emotional beginning" and they set another joint meeting for Jan. 21, time and place not yet set.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere said "the people are sick and tired of governmental entities arguing among themselves . . . maybe we should try to regroup."

Quesada's motion wasn't put to a vote, and the meeting was opened for public comment, some blistering.

Novato planning commissioner Beverly Ehreth, attending her last session as a commissioner, said her reasons for not seeking reappointment "are perfectly obvious tonight," and she urged planning in the Novato area as a unit. She then said she would follow the example of Giacomini and Arrigoni, and she, too, walked out.

Novato planning commissioner Gail Wilhelm said: "I think this is shocking. Novato had the chance to take the leadership and I think we blew it. I think a letter of apology should be sent to the board of supervisors."

Patrick H. Heffernan, a director of the North Marin County Water District, said, "Unfortunately I can't trust the board of supervisors and there isn't too much to trust in the city council for they don't do that much." He said he favored an area planning commission, but questioned whether residents of unincorporated areas would be given "a real voice."

Pam Lloyd of Mill Valley said: "The rest of the county is looking at what you are doing. I cannot believe this. I am discouraged."

William C. Long of Novato, a member of the county planning commission said if the council didn't proceed it would be a "serious misreading of the citizens" who want action on growth control."

At one point in the meeting, Sartain said, "We had an opportunity tonight to make real progress and it was just thrown out the window."

Hearing Called Off In Corte Madera

A scheduled public hearing on the proposed Corte Madera General Plan before the town's planning commission was canceled last night because the commission did not have a quorum present.

The hearing was rescheduled for the commission's next regular meeting Jan. 14 at 8 p.m. in town hall.

Sewage Project Hearing Slated

A public hearing on a proposed sewage disposal project and on continuation of a moratorium on water hookups will be held by the Bolinas Community Public Utility District at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the district office on Elm road.

The moratorium on new water connections — in effect a ban on new construction — was enacted in November, 1971 when the board found that extensions of service "would seriously impair the ability of the district to provide water to its users."

Council To Talk About Security

The Sausalito City Council will consider a measure that would tighten security of development projects when it meets at 8 p.m. today in council chambers on Bridgeway.

The measure would make all projects requiring an environmental impact report subject to review by the planning commission and city council.

Councilmen also will consider an ordinance that would allow the city to repair private property deemed a nuisance and charge the property owner for the work.

PEDALING TO EASE ENERGY PINCH

Tonia Sheets, here taking her children, Valentia, 5, and Ivan, 3, on a shopping trip, considers this three-speed tricycle just the thing for getting around Kentfield without wasting energy, gasoline energy, that is. Mrs. Sheets husband, Yakov, plans to build a cover for the passenger compartment so that she can take the little machine from the family garage at 85 Behrens Drive in any kind of weather. She says the tricycle's three gears make taking hills no effort and speeds of 30 miles per hour not at all tiring.

Raise To Nursing Homes Is Rapped

A temporary $13.4 million rate increase granted by the state to nursing homes which care for state-supported patients is completely inadequate and will do little to alleviate the facilities' critical financial problems, according to administrators of two Marin facilities.

"We told them we needed increases of 20 to 30 per cent and they gave us 6 per cent," said John C. McIver, administrator of the Cedars Development Foundation in Ross, which cares for 40 handicapped persons.

"I think this indicates this (the Reagan) administration doesn't deal with the facts or respond to well-documented human needs," he added.

The hike in state support, granted Friday, would raise the average daily rate per patient from $15.83 to $16.78. Operators of the private health care facilities, including the Linda Vista Convalescent Hospital in San Rafael, said at a hearing last month that they need an average of $22 per patient per day to meet costs.

"It's just too little and it won't help us because it's nowhere near what we need," said Mary E. Thomas, Linda Vista administrator. "In fact, it's almost an insult."

The hospital at 40 professional Center Parkway cares for 30 multiple handicapped persons, from young children to persons in their 30s. Its owner, Shirley D. McChesney had threatened in September to close the handicapped unit because of the gap between state support and actual cost of care.

In October, Mrs. McChesney agreed to keep the unit open for the time being despite losing $200 a day on the service.

Mrs. Thomas said the unit will continue to reamain open, despite the inadequacy of the increase. "Hopefully, the state will grant us another raise after the first of the year," she said.

Dr. J. R. Stubblebine, director of the Department of Health, said the interim rate hike will not be the last one. He said the department is starting cost audit surveys to determine the "eventual payment" levels for nursing homes and other health care facilities.

There was no indication when another rate increase would be forthcoming. (The facilities will have an added financial burden beginning March 1 when the state new law raising the minimum wage from $1.65 to $2 goes into effect.)

Space Program Popular Aboard

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) — Lt. Col. Jack R. Lousma, who spent 59 days aloft on the second Skylab mission, reports that the space program is popular abroad.

"... in Europe, people are most enthusiastic," he told a press conference. Lousma recently returned from Russia, where he spent two and a half weeks in training as a member of the American backup crew for the 1975 Soyuz-Apollo mission, the first joint American-Russian program.

He said the Russians "were free and above board. They gave us books and films in English and answered all our questions. We did some work in their space vehicle simulators."

No Change In Strike Situation

The strike situation remained largely unchanged today for the construction and food industries in Marin and elsewhere.

Negotiations were to resume today in San Francisco between representatives of striking Northern California butchers and grocery chains.

Federal mediator Eugene Barry said the talks would aim at settling the dispute over cost of living pay increases which is reportedly the only obstacle to ending the current impasse.

Carpenters in Marin continued to stay away from work. Supervisors at the Courthouse Square office-parking complex, Firemen's Fund Insurance building and Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center projects in San Rafael and the Highway 101 job in Novato reported the situation unchanged

Chorus To Present Christmas Music

The Dominican College chorus will present a concert of Christmas and Chanukah Music today at 7:30 p.m. at the Civic Center branch of the Marin County Library.

The program includes Da Vittoria's "Jesu Dulcis Memoria," Bach's "Uns Ist Ein Kind Geboren," Mozart's "Gloria," and Brahms' "Liebeslieder" and traditional songs and carols.

Sausalito Teachers Get $800 Pay Hike

Sausalito School District trustees last night approved an agreement giving teachers a flat $800 yearly pay increase and a larger role in developing school curriculum and administrative policy.

The pay hike, which will cost the district $30,660, will be retroactive to July 1. "As far as we know, we don't anticipate the raise to cause any increase in taxes," said Supt. Donald W. Johnson.

Trustees created a committee that will include teachers with administrators in developing curriculum, and a teachers advisory council to "share and exchange information with the superintendent," Johnson said. The council is expected to meet several times per month.

Board members also agreed that whenever possible the district would limit class size to 24 students in academic subjects and established the district's first sabbatical leave policy, the details of which are to be worked out later.

All tentative teaching assignments are to be made by May 15 and a committee of teachers will be created to work with teachers in improving classroom skills.

The one-year agreement ends negotiations that had been under way since May between the district and the Sausalito District Teachers Association.

The board authorized trustee Douglas B. Martin and Johnson to participate in a committee with Sausalito City officials and Marin City community representatives to develop a cooperative evening recreation and education program.

The program would create new after school and evening courses and activities for school-age children, teen-agers and adults, according to Johnson.

Lansky Seeking Delay In Trial

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Meyer Lansky, described by law enforcement sources as the one-time financial genius of Mafia, asked yesterday that his federal court trial on casino skimming charges be delayed until April because of ill health.

Lansky is scheduled to go on trial beginning Jan. 7 on charges of conspiring to take $36 million from the Flamingo Hotel Casino in the 1960s. Skimming is to remove cash from the gambling take before reporting the total, thus dodging taxes.

A doctor filed a letter with the court saying Lansky, 71, has had ulcers, several small strokes and a severe heart ailment that required open heart surgery.

Sonoma Supervisors Increase Dog Licenses

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors, acting on an earlier recommendation of the county grand jury, yesterday adopted an emergency ordinance raising dog license fees in the county.

As of Thursday, the licenses will cost $6 for each dog unless the animal has been altered. In that case, the fee will be $2.50.

A new state law allows counties to charge a lower rate for dogs not capable of reproducing.

In Sonoma, dog owners who do not get licenses by the March 1 deadline, will pay $11 for a regular license and $7.50 for altered animals.

The current rate is $3.50 for all animals.

A letter to hopefuls

A Call For Unity Not Kingmaking

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Three Republican gubernatorial hopefuls have been told by GOP State Chairman Gordon C. Luce that it is the party's policy to "maintain unity" and "discourage kingmaking activity."

Luce yesterday made public a letter he sent to gubernatorial contenders Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger and Controller Houston Flournoy.

The letter was apparently prompted by a newspaper report last week that key backers of Gov. Ronald Reagan have asked Pepperdine University President William Banowsky to consider running for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Clifford Anderson, a Reinecke campaign cochairman, had responded to the report by saying Reinecke would remain in the gubernatorial race and would not be forced out by "any of the so-called kingmakers."

Luce told the contenders, "It has been our stance in 1973 to maintain unity, discourage kingmaking activity and build the party throughout the state."

"I have also suggested to some of those speculated upon this year to straighten out the record and permanently announce the fact that they are not running," Luce said. "They must also curb the talk that some of their loyalists seem to be disseminating."

The Los Angeles Times reported the proposal made to Banowsky, GOP national committeeman from California, was that Banowsky should announce his candidacy if Younger decides to run.

Reinecke yesterday said Banowsky had told him he was not interested in seeking the nomination.

Course In Diving Planned

"It's strictly coed," Haynes said. "It'll be taught by Paul Robertson, the diving pro at Stan's for Sports in San Rafael."

Haynes said anyone between ages 15 and 20 may sign up. Students must furnish their own fins, mask and snorkel, he said, and other gear will be furnished. The course of instruction, which involves work in classrooms, pools and the sea, is sanctioned by a national diving association, Haynes said.

The class will begin "as soon as enough kids sign up," he said. No prior experience in either scouting or diving is required.

Students may register by phoning or writing Haynes at 8 Valley Circle, Mill Valley, Calif. 94941.

Post 1 is a coeducational scouting unit sponsored by American Legion Post 284.

Washington Home Rule Step Closer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has approved and sent to the Senate a compromise "home rule" bill that would give District of Columbia residents the right to elect their mayor and city council for the first time in nearly a century.

Mayor Walter Washington called the 272-24 House vote yesterday on the legislation drafted by a conference committee "another move toward ... full participation in the processes of government" for residents.

Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., chairman of the House District Committee, predicted that House passage, which has been the traditional obstacle to self-government for the nation's capital, would be followed by final approval of home rule before the end of the year.

The legislation provides for a partisan election for mayor and 13-member city council, but keeps key local government functions, such as control of the city budget and appointment of the city's highest government, under the realm of Congress and the President.

The Senate originally passed a more far-reaching measure, but the House passed a home rule bill three months later which required a conference committee compromise. It differs from the earlier House bill in providing for a partisan election. It also creates a federal enclave in the city.

Mrs. Chandler To Get Award

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mrs. Dorothy Buffum Chandler, director emeritus of the Times Mirror Co., was named yesterday to receive the humanitarian award of Variety Clubs International for her work on behalf of handicapped and underprivileged children.

Movie producer Mike Frankovich, president of the show business organization, praised Mrs. Chandler's efforts for the Children's Hospital in Los Angeles, calling her "...the vital force who almost singlehandedly raised a staggering $18.5 million to build it as well as organizing a company to float another $13.7 million in bonds to finish the job."

Chicago Seven Members Appeal Contempt Case

Morton Stavis and Doris Peterson, attorneys for David Dellinger, Abbie Hoffman and Jerry Rubin and attorney William M. Kunstler, yesterday filed the appeal in U.S. District Court.

Federal Judge Edward T. Gignoux of Portland, Maine, found the four in contempt of court of U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman during the original conspiracy trial in 1969-70. All are free as the judge said no purpose would be served by sentencing them to jail.

Kunstler could face disbarment. A court clerk said the New York Bar Association already has asked for a copy of the judgment against the well-known lawyer.

CAMPAIGN KICKOFF

Democrat John O'Keefe yesterday launched his campaign for state controller by throwing two tea bags into the Sacramento River in the capitol. The former state inheritance tax appraiser said his tea party symbolized "the 1974 tax rebellion in California, which has reached a boiling point."

San Rafael Annex Bid Seems Dead

A bid by residents of the Country Club area to annex to San Rafael may be dashed by homeowners opposing the move, San Rafael City Atty. Fred C. Robbins told city councilmen last night.

Robbins said it "appears" that property owners representing more than 50 per cent of the area's assessed valuation have filed protests with the city, apparently killing the move.

The council promptly postponed a public hearing on the matter to 8 p.m. Jan. 7 in city hall, pending a tabulation by the county assessor's office of assessed valuation represented by protesters.

John L. Levinsohn of 21 Lunada Court, among the leaders of the annexation drive, said that some protests were made on the basis of misinformation provided by opponents of the annexation bid.

He said some residents are confused about city development plans, the cost of fire protection and other matters, and said some believe the city would immediately construct sidewalks and gutters, upon annexation.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini agreed, saying some information provided residents by Homeowners Opposed to Political Expanion (HOPE), the anti-annexation group, has been "short of slanderous".

Attorney Lester H. Clark, an opponent of annexation, took quick issue with Bettini's remark, and asked the mayor to detail any erroneous information provided by HOPE.

Bettini said he will outline "misinformation" he claims is contained in a HOPE brochure at 8 p.m. Jan. 7.

Visits Spain

Open Space Advisory Seats Remain Open

The San Rafael City Council last night extended until Jan. 1 the time during which residents of four city neighborhoods may apply for seats on the city's open space selection committee.

The council last month divided the city into nine zones, and said that two residents from each zone, as well as four nonvoting residents of unincorporated areas, would be appointed to the committee, charged with recommending priority acquisitions of open space with city bond money.

Some 32 residents have applied for the seats, but the group lacks any representation from the Terra Linda High School, Los Ranchitos-Santa Venetia, Canal and downtown areas, according to City Mgr. William J. Bielser.

The council adjourned to closed session to consider appointments to the committee from areas having representation, and to consider pending litigation involving the East San Rafael Drainage Assessment District.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

CONSENT — Approved a consent calendar, including denial of a claim for "extensive damage" by resident Steven Thomas, who said a tree limb crashed onto his roof.

APPEAL — Upheld an appeal by Finbar O'Driscoll of planning commission approval of a front yard variance for construction of a carport at 110 Windsor Avenue. Several dozen residents, who claimed the variance was out of character with the neighborhood, applauded the move.

BLACK CANYON — Adopted a resolution approving annexation of the 200-acre Black Canyon area to the city. All five property owners involved approved the move, according to the city administration.

REPEAL — Repealed several sections of the city municipal code due to an oversight by City Atty. Fred C. Robbins when the council recently passed an industrial waste control ordinance.

STINSON — Reclassified patrolman Bart W. Stinson, who has served for the past four years as a police detective, to the position of police inspector at a salary range of $1,200 to $1,319 per month.

CONTRACT — Awarded a $4,999 contract to Grange Debris Box Rentals, Inc. low bidder, for demolition of a structure at 612 B Street.

Car Needed A Tire Change For 57 Years

BOURNEMOUTH, England (UPI) — Spinster sisters Amy, Katie and Ada Jones sealed away their father's car in the garage when he died in 1916—and it was still there yesterday, 57 years later.

Now the last of the three, Amy, has died aged 95 and the car is to be sold.

Sally Rakow Drops GOP Election Bid

Sally Rakow of Ross announced today she has dropped a bid to run for the Republican nomination in the Ninth Assembly District.

An Independent-Journal column reported yesterday that she was considering the contest for the seat held since 1960 by William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Her decision means Bagley will endorse A. Alan Hill of San Rafael when the latter makes his candidacy official next month. Hill, 35, is deputy secretary of the state Agriculture and Services Agency.

As noted in the column, Bagley initially encouraged Hill to seek his seat and promised to endorse him, but when Mrs. Rakow's plans became known the assemblyman said he would not choose between the two.

Mrs. Rakow, a Ross School District trustee and Marin field representative for Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, told the I-J she was unwilling to make the radical changes in living that election would require of her and her family.

'Housekeeping' Units Reorganized

The San Rafael City Council last night approved reorganization of city "housekeeping" units and creation of a general services director as proposed by the city administration. (Another San Rafael City Council story, page 1.)

Affected by the move are the city garage, purchasing, electrical and building maintenance divisions, currently scattered within the parks, public works and city manager departments.

Under the plan by City Mgr. William J. Bielser, the various housekeeping functions will be coordinated under a general services director, for a total reorganizational cost of $11,709 annually.

"It should be noted that the units to be consolidated have an aggregate budget in excess of $600,000 annually . . . I believe that the additional annual expenditure . . . will be more than offset by the savings created by the efficient use of the large amount of resources involved," Bielser told the council.

Reorganization involves transfer of one groundsman from the parks division to the new general services division; transfer of a three-man electrical team from public works to general services; transfer of one mainteannce man and one parking meter collector from parking to general services, creation of a director of general services at a salary of $1,259 to $1,530 monthly, and reduction by $3,396 annually in pay for the position of assistant parks supervisor, whose duties are lessened in the shift.

Bielser said the city administration will name a general services director within a week, to be chosen from existing staff.

All Escape In Crash Of Jetliner

BOSTON (UPI) — An Iberia Airlines jumbo jet carrying 168 of "the luckiest people on earth" crashed and caught fire trying to land in dense fog and rain yesterday at Logan International Airport.

All 154 passengers and 14 crew members escaped without serious injury.

The DC10 jet, en route from Madrid to Boston and Washington, D.C., struck landing lights at the end of a runway and skidded half a mile before stopping just short of the icy waters of Boston Harbor.

Three persons were admitted to Massachusetts General Hospital but a spokesman said, "none of the injuries are serious." Thirteen other passengers were treated and released.

"Those are the luckiest people on earth," said airport spokesman Ronald Brinn. "It's incredible nobody was killed or seriously injured."

Brinn said the jetliner was making an instrument landing when its left wheel assembly struck lights on a pier at the end of runway 33. It stopped on a grassy strip beside the runway just 50 feet short of the harbor.

Upon impact, fire broke out in the left engine of the three-engine craft, spewing flaming fuel onto the rear section. The tail broke off just in front of the rear engine.

The passengers and crew slid to safety down inflated chutes from both sides of the plane while firemen doused the flames with foam.

Assistant Logan Fire Chief Edward Bradley said the roof in the tail section had collapsed and seats were torn loose. He praised crew members for getting passengers out of the plane quickly.

Eight Small Projects Win Council Approval

Eight miscellaneous public works projects estimated to cost more than $18,000 were approved by the San Rafael City Council last night.

The projects involve minor repair of drainage, slides, retaining walls and pedestian walkways in the city, according to City Engineer Ely Caillouette Jr.

Caillouette said the department will negotiate directly with contractors on each project rather than call for sealed bids since none is expected to cost more than $3,500. Projects costing more than $3,500 must legally be put out to bid, under the city charter.

The projects, their locations and estimated costs, are: Pipe installation and drainage work at Irwin Street and Lovell Avenue, $1,700; Drainage work at Belle Avenue near Coleman School, $1,500; Pipe installation and drainage work at Belle Avenue and Elm Sreet, $2,400; Pipe installation at Mark and Paul drives, $3,100; Pipe installation at Surfwood Circle, $850; Planting, drainage work and motorcycle barriers between Las Colindas and Whitewood Drive, $3,500; Slide repair at Fairhills Drive, $2,000, and retaining wall installation at Pleasant Lane, $3,500.

The council also tentatively endorsed a $6,000 expense for a U.S. Geological Survey study of sedimentation in city streams and channels, and asked the San Rafael Sanitation District to share in the expense.

San Rafael Annex Bid Seems Dead

A bid by residents of the Country Club area to annex to San Rafael may be dashed by homeowners opposing the move, San Rafael City Atty. Fred C. Robbins told city councilmen last night.

Robbins said it "appears" that property owners representing more than 50 per cent of the area's assessed valuation have filed protests with the city, apparently killing the move.

The council promptly postponed a public hearing on the matter to 8 p.m. Jan. 7 in city hall, pending a tabulation by the county assessor's office of assessed valuation represented by protesters.

John L. Levinsohn of 21 Lunada Court, among the leaders of the annexation drive, said that some protests were made on the basis of misinformation provided by opponents of the annexation bid.

He said some residents are confused about city development plans, the cost of fire protection and other matters, and said some believe the city would immediately construct sidewalks and gutters, upon annexation.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini agreed, saying some information provided residents by Homeowners Opposed to Political Expanion (HOPE), the anti-annexation group, has been "short of slanderous".

Attorney Lester H. Clark, an opponent of annexation, took quick issue with Bettini's remark, and asked the mayor to detail any erroneous information provided by HOPE.

Bettini said he will outline "misinformation" he claims is contained in a HOPE brochure at 8 p.m. Jan. 7.

Open Space Advisory Seats Remain Open

The San Rafael City Council last night extended until Jan. 1 the time during which residents of four city neighborhoods may apply for seats on the city's open space selection committee.

The council last month divided the city into nine zones, and said that two residents from each zone, as well as four nonvoting residents of unincorporated areas, would be appointed to the committee, charged with recommending priority acquisitions of open space with city bond money.

Some 32 residents have applied for the seats, but the group lacks any representation from the Terra Linda High School, Los Ranchitos-Santa Venetia, Canal and downtown areas, according to City Mgr. William J. Bielser.

The council adjourned to closed session to consider appointments to the committee from areas having representation, and to consider pending litigation involving the East San Rafael Drainage Assessment District.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

BLACK CANYON — Adopted a resolution approving annexation of the 200-acre Black Canyon area to the city. All five property owners involved approved the move, according to the city administration.

REPEAL — Repealed several sections of the city municipal code due to an oversight by City Atty. Fred C. Robbins when the council recently passed an industrial waste control ordinance.

Gasoline From Recycled Paper?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Someday cars may run on gasoline made from recycled newspaper and the 120 million tons of cellulose wasted annually in the U.S. says the acting director of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory.

"There are all kinds of exciting possibilities," Andrew Sessler said yesterday, "but they all need lots of research and development.

He said an enzyme process and a $12 million plant could produce one million barrels of gasoline a day.

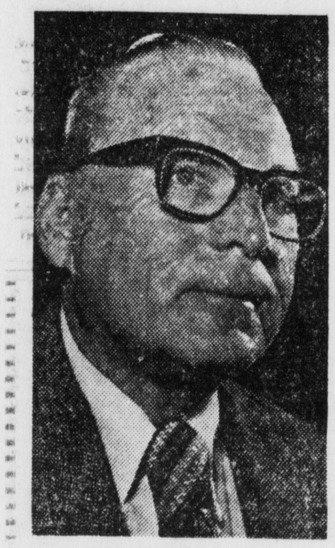
Sessler and Glenn Seabord, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, said the nation should commit "tens of billions more" than the $10 billion Congress is talking about for research and development of new energy sources.

Business Days Dec. 24, 31

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California state offices will remain open Dec. 24 and Dec. 31 during regular business hours regardless of the energy crisis, Gov. Ronald Reagan has decided.

"However, department directors are being urged to urge their employees to take vacation time or compensatory time off," Reagan press secretary Clyde Walthall said yesterday.

He said many people would be inconvenienced by such closures because they cannot get to state offices for business at any time except those pre-holiday days.



STUART C. CULLEN
To run in Belvedere

Dr. Cullen To Run In Belvedere

A physician who ran unsuccessfully for Belvedere City Council in 1972 has filed to run again March 5.

Dr. Stuart C. Cullen, 65, was the first to file in Belvedere, where two seats are open, those of Mayor Allan Steinau and Councilman Willard G. Pittman. Neither incumbent has reported his plans.

Cullen retired last summer from the University of California Medical School, where he had served as dean of the school and also as a professor of anesthesia and chairman of the department of anesthesia.

Before coming to Marin County in 1958, Cullen was a professor of anesthesia and chairman of the department of anesthesia at the University of Iowa for 20 years.

He lived in Tiburon first and then seven years ago moved to Belvedere, where he now resides at 73 West Shore Road with his wife.

He is the Belvedere fire commissioner and served on the open space committee which engineered the purchase of three homes on Beach Road to be torn down to provide better views of the bay.

Commissiner John H. Middleton last night was elected president of the Bolinas Fire Protection District. Commissioner Edwin Cadogan was elected vice president, according to board secretary Sherman Smith.

Gnoss Field Firms Managing To Get By During Fuel Crisis

The gasoline shortage is beginning to be felt at Gnoss Field, but operators at the facility's two fuel outlets today expressed confidence that the hundreds of pilots using the field will keep flying.

Richard T. Duste, president of Marin Aviation, told the Independent-Journal he can live with the 10 per cent cutback in his supply by Standard Oil of California and predicted the refinery would maintain his fuel flow "pretty much as in the past."

Michael B. Harrison, controller of Spectrum Air Inc., said that, with the exception of jet fuel, his supply from Texaco "hasn't presented any problem at all." His firm hangars one twin-engined prop jet for an investment firm, and the 1,200-gallon jet fuel a month "is barely enough to keep them going," he said.

Texaco has held his monthly allocation to last year's level, Harrison said.

Unlike Spectrum, Marin Aviation runs a heavy schedule of air taxi flights linking small airports in the Bay Area with the giants at San Francisco and Oakland. These flights, using twin-engine, 10-passenger planes, won Duste an increase in his monthly allocation from 10,000 to 14,000 gallons.

Duste said Standard Oil was "doing a damned good job" allocating fuel, "better than all those government bureaucrats could do."

He said no one knows whether the government will further restrict general aviation fuel sales, but said previously announced restrictions were "a bunch of bull." The restrictions called for cutbacks of 10 per cent for air taxis, 40 per cent for business flying and 50 per cent for training and pleasure flying.

The planned cutbacks were announced by federal energy czar John A. Love, but he subsequently was dumped by President Nixon because other presidential advisers disputed Love's energy plans.

Duste limits Sunday sales to 10 gallons a customer or whatever is needed to get the pilot back to his home airport.

The air taxis, however, carry only about 90 minutes of fuel so they can carry full passenger loads. Duste said he expects air taxis will get an exemption if a ban on Sunday gasoline sales is imposed on aviation. Without an exemption, the air taxis would be out of the air on Sundays.

Duste said he has requested all pilots using his fleet of 21 airplanes to use 65 instead of 75 per cent power. This cuts fuel use 20 per cent, he said, with little change in travel time.

He stressed that 70 per cent of his customers would drive their cars to their destinations if they did not fly. The planes average about 20 miles a gallon and so are "a pretty efficient fuel use," he said.

Duste also noted that roughly half of all air passengers in the nation are carried by small planes, rather than large airliners.

About 135 planes are based at Gnoss, and about 50 at Smith Ranch, a private field in northeast San Rafael.

The state Division of Aeronautics has urged all pilots to telephone ahead to their destinations to find out if fuel will be available when they arrive.

The rank of eagle scout will be conferred on four young men at 8 p.m. Thursday at a special meeting of the Ross Town Council at the town hall.

They are Samuel Wright, Jeffrey Schulz, Bruce Roberts and William Deede.

The four scouts have more things in common than they do differences. All are 18 years old. All joined the scouts when they were 11. All have been members of Troop 17 and Explorer Post 17. All have 21 merit badges. All worked on a conservation program as their Eagle project. All have agreed to train new scouts.

Together they have more than 300 days of backpacking and camping in 16 major backpacking trips along the West Coast, averaging 20 days per trip, according to their scoutmaster Daniel Schillinger.

Wright is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wright, formerly of Ross and now of Orinda. He attended Redwood High School and graduated from Miramonte High School. He is now attending Sierra College.

Schulz is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Donald B. Schulz of 11 Wellington Avenue, Ross. He graduated from Redwood High School. He is attending University of California at Davis.

Roberts is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Roberts of 3 Camino Bueno, Ross. He graduated from Redwood High School. He is attending the College of Marin.

Deede is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Deede of 1 Garden Avenue, Ross. He also graduated from Redwood High School where he earned a letter in football. He is attending Lewis and Clark University in Portland, Ore.

Rev. Max O. Nye of St. John's Episcopal Church will make the opening speech. Judge Robert A. Smallman will confer the Eagle ranks.

Gasoline From Recycled Paper?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Someday cars may run on gasoline made from recycled newspaper and the 120 million tons of cellulose wasted annually in the U.S. says the acting director of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory.

"There are all kinds of exciting possibilities," Andrew Sessler said yesterday, "but they all need lots of research and development.

He said an enzyme process and a $12 million plant could produce one million barrels of gasoline a day.

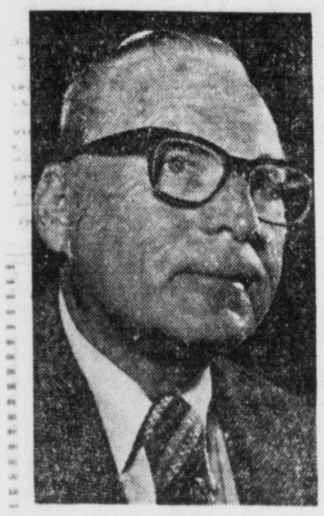
Sessler and Glenn Seabord, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, said the nation should commit "tens of billions more" than the $10 billion Congress is talking about for research and development of new energy sources.

Business Days Dec. 24, 31

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California state offices will remain open Dec. 24 and Dec. 31 during regular business hours regardless of the energy crisis, Gov. Ronald Reagan has decided.

"However, department directors are being urged to urge their employees to take vacation time or compensatory time off," Reagan press secretary Clyde Walthall said yesterday.

He said many people would be inconvenienced by such closures because they cannot get to state offices for business at any time except those pre-holiday days.



STUART C. CULLEN
To run in Belvedere

Dr. Cullen To Run In Belvedere

A physician who ran unsuccessfully for Belvedere City Council in 1972 has filed to run again March 5.

Dr. Stuart C. Cullen, 65, was the first to file in Belvedere, where two seats are open, those of Mayor Allan Steinau and Councilman Willard G. Pittman. Neither incumbent has reported his plans.

Cullen retired last summer from the University of California Medical School, where he had served as dean of the school and also as a professor of anesthesia and chairman of the department of anesthesia.

Before coming to Marin County in 1958, Cullen was a professor of anesthesia and chairman of the department of anesthesia at the University of Iowa for 20 years.

He lived in Tiburon first and then seven years ago moved to Belvedere, where he now resides at 73 West Shore Road with his wife.

He is the Belvedere fire commissioner and served on the open space committee which engineered the purchase of three homes on Beach Road to be torn down to provide better views of the bay.

New President

Gnoss Field Firms Managing To Get By During Fuel Crisis

The gasoline shortage is beginning to be felt at Gnoss Field, but operators at the facility's two fuel outlets today expressed confidence that the hundreds of pilots using the field will keep flying.

Richard T. Duste, president of Marin Aviation, told the Independent-Journal he can live with the 10 per cent cutback in his supply by Standard Oil of California and predicted the refinery would maintain his fuel flow "pretty much as in the past."

Michael B. Harrison, controller of Spectrum Air Inc., said that, with the exception of jet fuel, his supply from Texaco "hasn't presented any problem at all." His firm hangars one twin-engined prop jet for an investment firm, and the 1,200-gallon jet fuel a month "is barely enough to keep them going," he said.

Texaco has held his monthly allocation to last year's level, Harrison said.

Unlike Spectrum, Marin Aviation runs a heavy schedule of air taxi flights linking small airports in the Bay Area with the giants at San Francisco and Oakland. These flights, using twin-engine, 10-passenger planes, won Duste an increase in his monthly allocation from 10,000 to 14,000 gallons.

Duste said Standard Oil was "doing a damned good job" allocating fuel, "better than all those government bureaucrats could do."

He said no one knows whether the government will further restrict general aviation fuel sales, but said previously announced restrictions were "a bunch of bull." The restrictions called for cutbacks of 10 per cent for air taxis, 40 per cent for business flying and 50 per cent for training and pleasure flying.

The planned cutbacks were announced by federal energy czar John A. Love, but he subsequently was dumped by President Nixon because other presidential advisers disputed Love's energy plans.

Duste limits Sunday sales to 10 gallons a customer or whatever is needed to get the pilot back to his home airport.

The air taxis, however, carry only about 90 minutes of fuel so they can carry full passenger loads. Duste said he expects air taxis will get an exemption if a ban on Sunday gasoline sales is imposed on aviation. Without an exemption, the air taxis would be out of the air on Sundays.

Duste said he has requested all pilots using his fleet of 21 airplanes to use 65 instead of 75 per cent power. This cuts fuel use 20 per cent, he said, with little change in travel time.

He stressed that 70 per cent of his customers would drive their cars to their destinations if they did not fly. The planes average about 20 miles a gallon and so are "a pretty efficient fuel use," he said.

Duste also noted that roughly half of all air passengers in the nation are carried by small planes, rather than large airliners.

About 135 planes are based at Gnoss, and about 50 at Smith Ranch, a private field in northeast San Rafael.

The state Division of Aeronautics has urged all pilots to telephone ahead to their destinations to find out if fuel will be available when they arrive.

Sierra Club To Get Park Fund

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The National Park Service will hand the Sierra Club Foundation a $208,700 check tomorrow to buy 160 acres in Yosemite National Park.

The Park service has managed the land, including Parsons Lodge, since last June when the purchase agreement was made. The land is at the junction of John Muir and Pacific Crest trails.

The Sierra Club bought the property in 1912 as campground for members.

Saxbe Confirmed; Starts Hunt For Justice Department Deputy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate last night confirmed Sen. William B. Saxbe as President Nixon's fourth attorney general, and Saxbe immediately began searching for a deputy to help him run the Justice Department.

The Senate vote to confirm the maverick Ohio Republican was 75-10. It came after less than 15 minutes of debate in which Saxbe was urged to uphold the independence of Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

"It is my intention to live up to the expectations you have placed in me," Saxbe told his colleagues after the vote.

"I pledge that my efforts in this office will be for the best interests of this country," he said.

Just before the vote, Republican Leader Hugh Scott released an exchange of correspondence between Jaworski and J. Fred Buzhardt, Nixon's special counsel on Watergate matters, apparently aimed at assuring Saxbe's critics that the Watergate investigation will in no way be impeded.

Jaworski, who appeared with Saxbe at his confirmation hearing last week, sent Buzhardt a portion of his testimony pledging to resist any restriction on his jurisdiction by the White House.

Buzhardt, answering for Nixon, said in a two-sentence reply, "We appreciate your calling this information to our attention."

Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., one of those on the Judiciary Committee who had called for the new assurances, said he was confident that "if the crunch comes... Bill Saxbe will be for Mr. Jaworski."

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield called Saxbe "a swashbuckling sort of fellow who will call the shots as he sees them."

Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., voted against Saxbe on constitutional grounds, saying he was not convinced the Senate had resolved a constitutional problem involving Saxbe's pay.

An aide said Saxbe hasn't yet finally chosen his deputy.

Saxbe has indicated he will delay his swearing-in until after the first of the year when he will become eligible for an annual $10,000 Senate pension.

Rohnert Park Council Hears Students' Views

Rancho Cotate High School students who participated in a student government day with the Rohnert Park City Council last night shared some forthright views on a proposed city youth commission with the councilmen.

The city council has proposed a youth advisory panel, which would bring young people's opinions to the council and city commission.

But some 20 students who participated in the city's first student government day, told the city council they did not want the youth panel to be chosen in a "popularity contest," according to Councilman Arthur N. Roberts.

He reported the young people said members of the proposed youth panel ought to be enrolled in city government courses at the high school and be prepared for effective participation.

The students also said they did not want high school student body-type elections to name members of the panel.

The councilmen, surprised at the views of the young people, agreed to consider their suggestions, according to Roberts.

In other action last night, the city council accepted a grant deed from Northern California Developers Inc. for almost an acre to be added to Alicia Park.

The council voted 3-2 (with Councilmen Louis G. Beary and Warren K. Hopkins voting no) to pay for half the cost of a road to the area.

In January, the city council will consider spending some of the city's federal revenue-sharing funds for tennis courts on the property, Roberts said.

A WHIMSICAL TOUCH

Dollmaker Does Each Differently

SIX OF the more than 200 dolls made in the past year by Mrs. Armando Barni sit on the mantel over the fireplace in her home in San Rafael. The whimsical looking dolls have bells on their toes, and each is different.

(Photos by Bob Hax)

By JOAN LISETOR

With their overstuffed bodies and long skinny arms and legs, the dolls are lined up side by side on a wall of shelves in Mrs. Barni's San Rafael home.

She began making the dolls about a year ago at the suggestion of a friend, she said, and in that short time has made over 200, selling some, giving some to friends and keeping many.

"The ideas just come to me," she said, displaying one of her earlier dolls.

The first ones she made have embroidered faces, but she experimented with oil paints, painting the features and likes the results.

"IT'S DIFFICULT to estimate how long each doll takes," she said. "I would say about five hours, but that doesn't count picking out the materials and cutting them out."

She has no pattern but can visualize when she begins cutting what the doll will look like. There have been a few surprises, she said, because "you never know for sure what the doll will look like until it is stuffed."

"Polyester is good but too expensive," she said.

The first step is cutting out the 17 pieces that make up the doll. Next the feet are sewn to the legs and the hands to the arm. She sews the back halfway up from the bottom and the front all the way up. The back of the head is sewn halfway down from the top, and then she sews the profile of the face.

Curves in the face are cut up to the seams, and then the hands and feet are sewn together. Next the ears are sewn together and tacked down. The next step is to stuff the lower half of the legs and arms and tack them midway to give the look of a joint, then stuff the upper half. Arms and legs are sewn on to the front section, and then the large circle, which forms the doll's seat, is sewn on. The arms and legs are pulled out; the remainder of the body and head are stuffed, and the doll is ready to have its hair sewn on and face painted.

SEWING THE hair on takes half an hour she said. She uses yarn. The hair is important, she said, because "if the head looks weird the hair will cover it up."

Although the dolls are for sale at a shop in Mill Valley, Mrs. Barni said she does them more for fun than profit. She is unable to estimate the cost, she said.

Mrs. Barni and her husband, Armando, have lived in Marin since 1960. They have one son at home and three grown children.

"When the children come home to visit the first thing they do is look to see if I have made any new dolls," she said.

Mrs. Barni also enjoys making mosaics, painting, drawing and refinishing and upholstering furniture. She has taken a number of art courses, but "nothing in making dolls," she said.

SEWING ON the hair is the second to last step Sigrid Barni does to make her dolls. Next the face will be painted using oil paints. The hair is of yarn and sometimes she gives them a hair cut and sometimes she leaves it natural, she said.

FUNNY OLD man dolls, wearing tags that say, "another doll by Sigrid," are among the collection of more than 200 dolls made by Sigrid Barni in the past year. Each doll is different.

A WHIMSICAL TOUCH

Dollmaker Does Each Differently

SIX OF the more than 200 dolls made in the past year by Mrs. Armando Barni sit on the mantel over the fireplace in her home in San Rafael. The whimsical looking dolls have bells on their toes, and each is different.

(Photos by Bob Hax)

By JOAN LISETOR

With their overstuffed bodies and long skinny arms and legs, the dolls are lined up side by side on a wall of shelves in Mrs. Barni's San Rafael home.

She began making the dolls about a year ago at the suggestion of a friend, she said, and in that short time has made over 200, selling some, giving some to friends and keeping many.

"The ideas just come to me," she said, displaying one of her earlier dolls.

The first ones she made have embroidered faces, but she experimented with oil paints, painting the features and likes the results.

"IT'S DIFFICULT to estimate how long each doll takes," she said. "I would say about five hours, but that doesn't count picking out the materials and cutting them out."

She has no pattern but can visualize when she begins cutting what the doll will look like. There have been a few surprises, she said, because "you never know for sure what the doll will look like until it is stuffed."

"Polyester is good but too expensive," she said.

The first step is cutting out the 17 pieces that make up the doll. Next the feet are sewn to the legs and the hands to the arm. She sews the back halfway up from the bottom and the front all the way up. The back of the head is sewn halfway down from the top, and then she sews the profile of the face.

Curves in the face are cut up to the seams, and then the hands and feet are sewn together. Next the ears are sewn together and tacked down. The next step is to stuff the lower half of the legs and arms and tack them midway to give the look of a joint, then stuff the upper half. Arms and legs are sewn on to the front section, and then the large circle, which forms the doll's seat, is sewn on. The arms and legs are pulled out; the remainder of the body and head are stuffed, and the doll is ready to have its hair sewn on and face painted.

SEWING THE hair on takes half an hour she said. She uses yarn. The hair is important, she said, because "if the head looks weird the hair will cover it up."

Although the dolls are for sale at a shop in Mill Valley, Mrs. Barni said she does them more for fun than profit. She is unable to estimate the cost, she said.

Mrs. Barni and her husband, Armando, have lived in Marin since 1960. They have one son at home and three grown children.

"When the children come home to visit the first thing they do is look to see if I have made any new dolls," she said.

Mrs. Barni also enjoys making mosaics, painting, drawing and refinishing and upholstering furniture. She has taken a number of art courses, but "nothing in making dolls," she said.

SEWING ON the hair is the second to last step Sigrid Barni does to make her dolls. Next the face will be painted using oil paints. The hair is of yarn and sometimes she gives them a hair cut and sometimes she leaves it natural, she said.

FUNNY OLD man dolls, wearing tags that say, "another doll by Sigrid," are among the collection of more than 200 dolls made by Sigrid Barni in the past year. Each doll is different.

Why Not Mobile Testing Units To Root Out Venereal Disease?

RAP:

We hear a lot about the VD epidemic, so why isn't there more action to stamp it out? Seems like if it's left up to the person, too many will figure they don't need an examination, thus a lot of infected people (especially females who don't develop definite symptoms) are out there infecting others.

I understand free chest X-rays did a lot toward getting tuberculosis under control. We also had patch tests at school and everybody had to take them.

Why don't they have the same kind of tests for gonorrhea, the venereal disease most likely to spread because it's least likely to be noticed by the person who gets it?

How about VD-Mobiles where you could get free examinations — with a lot of publicity so people wouldn't be embarrassed about going to them? How about free tests at schools and colleges — mandatory, so that everyone is checked at least twice a year? Maybe more.

Sure, it's expensive. So was stamping out polio. But maybe a new charity could be organized — "Fight VD with Dollars" or something.

So long as people don't buy "V-Don't" as a solution, we'd better do more than put little warnings on the doors of public toilets! — CONCERNED COLLEGE STUDENT

CCS:

Right!

Those free clinics (advertised via TV, radio and newspapers, as well as on the doors of public toilets) only attract the desperately convinced.

But about 80 per cent of females (and more males than we formerly supposed) do not develop definite symptoms of gonorrhea. They can be "silent carriers" for years before the disease causes such problems as arthritis, heart involvement, bloodstream infections, sterility and serious pelvic damage — which finally bring them to doctors.

If we don't find ways to single out and cure the unsuspecting carrier, we may never get venereal disease under control. Not, that is, until someone comes up with an effective immunization shot or pill. — SUE

DEAR C.C.S.:

A new, two-minute blood test for gonorrhea may speed the acceptance of universal VD examinations.

This easy, inexpensive, and reportedly 80 per cent reliable screening test was recently released for professional use (after three years of research) by Organon Diagnostic Research Laboratory in New Jersey. It may well become to VD what the patch test is for TB — a preliminary detector which could bring many undiscovered cases in for treatment and cure.

The new test (called "Gonosticon Dir-Dot-R") does not replace the standard culture diagnosis, but because it is fast and simple, might open the way for "VD-Mobiles," school screenings, and routine checks in doctors' offices and hospitals. Those who reacted positively would be told immediately and scheduled for further examinations.

Mass detection programs for VD have never been feasible before, since the culture method requires more time and effort than a patient (females in particular) wants to spend unless pretty sure infection is present. Also, it takes 24 to 48 hours for diagnosis which means a second contact, and risk that the examinee will not return. The two-minute test eliminates much waiting and assures needed treatment fast. — HELEN

Napa Hospital Advisers Are Given Honors

Marin members of the Advisory Board for Mental Retardation at Napa State Hospital and 35 foster grandparents were honored last Wednesday with certificates of appreciation from Mrs. Ronald Reagan.

Honored at the first annual Recognition Day of the Foster Grandparents Program at Napa State Hospital were Robert A. Roumiguere, Marin County Supervisor; Eleanor Rogers of Terra Linda, chairman of the advisory board, and Nell Tegeler of San Rafael.

The Foster Grandparent program is federally funded through Action. Each grandparent works individually with one child for two hours in the morning and with another for two hours in the afternoon, providing a personal relationship for mentally ill, mentally retarded and autistic children who, in many cases, have few visitors.

FAMILY SNACK

INSIDE YOUR HOME

Making Use Of Now-Wasted Space

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
Distributed by General Features Corp.

So many younger families are exploring the older downtown sections of their hometowns — hoping to find more living space for less money. Considering energy-crisis anxieties, it's a healthy move; and dollar-stretching is also a prime motivating factor.

After you read the real estate pages of local newspapers and then shop the apartments or houses listed, you realize that time is no longer the precious commodity — it's space and human and natural resources.

Take a quick tour througbh your own home or apartment. Aren't there areas of misuse or part-time use? Isn't there one room or large closet that you use as a catchall for things you don't use but hate to throw away? What about the attic or unfinished space under the house? The garage is another culprit. No need to give a whole room over to the preservation of the family car, is there? Maybe it will become a museum object, but no need to hurry the process.

One of the easiest ways to revamp these hidden spaces is through the use of two major materials.

BOTH ARE ready-to-use and both are decorative. The first is the prefinished wallboard, the kind that comes in wood textures or patterns. The second group of materials is the world of wall coverings, including those that are of vinyl fabric or finished for longer wearability.

Lest you mutter concern about the shortage of raw materials for the manufacturing of vinyl products, let me say that some experts believe our petroleum products would be better utilized for long-lasting vinyls, rather than being burned as fuel. Interesting, isn't it?

In the room shown today, an upstairs attic room has been converted into a rather elegant master bedroom. The owners call it their penthouse suite, since they tucked a tiny dressing-bath into the area. The ceiling and walls have been covered with Venus, a delicate floral print from General Tire's collection of Fashion Personalities.

Some tall screens were made of boards, then covered with the same vinyl to act as a baffle between bedroom and dressing areas. The homemade four-posted and framed bed has been covered with a moire-looking covering called Princess, also by General Tire. Wicker chairs and table, some storage pieces and a dozen or so interesting collectibles give the room a postively personal look.

THIS COMPANY published a booklet called "Wall Story," and while it obviously promotes their own products, it contains some tips and ideas for ways to upgrade large and small areas of the house. If you would like a copy, send 50 cents to General Tire and Rubber Co., chemical/Plastics Division, Department CP-10, 1 General Street, Akron, Ohio 44329.

Napa Hospital Advisers Are Given Honors

Marin members of the Advisory Board for Mental Retardation at Napa State Hospital and 35 foster grandparents were honored last Wednesday with certificates of appreciation from Mrs. Ronald Reagan.

Honored at the first annual Recognition Day of the Foster Grandparents Program at Napa State Hospital were Robert A. Roumiguere, Marin County Supervisor; Eleanor Rogers of Terra Linda, chairman of the advisory board, and Nell Tegeler of San Rafael.

The Foster Grandparent program is federally funded through Action. Each grandparent works individually with one child for two hours in the morning and with another for two hours in the afternoon, providing a personal relationship for mentally ill, mentally retarded and autistic children who, in many cases, have few visitors.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

Making Use Of Now-Wasted Space

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
Distributed by General Features Corp.

So many younger families are exploring the older downtown sections of their hometowns — hoping to find more living space for less money. Considering energy-crisis anxieties, it's a healthy move; and dollar-stretching is also a prime motivating factor.

After you read the real estate pages of local newspapers and then shop the apartments or houses listed, you realize that time is no longer the precious commodity — it's space and human and natural resources.

Take a quick tour througbh your own home or apartment.Aren't there areas of misuse or part-time use? Isn't there one room or large closet that you use as a catchall for things you don't use but hate to throw away? What about the attic or unfinished space under the house? The garage is another culprit. No need to give a whole room over to the preservation of the family car, is there? Maybe it will become a museum object, but no need to hurry the process.

One of the easiest ways to revamp these hidden spaces is through the use of two major materials.

BOTH ARE ready-to-use and both are decorative. The first is the prefinished wallboard, the kind that comes in wood textures or patterns. The second group of materials is the world of wall coverings, including those that are of vinyl fabric or finished for longer wearability.

Lest you mutter concern about the shortage of raw materials for the manufacturing of vinyl products, let me say that some experts believe our petroleum products would be better utilized for long-lasting vinyls, rather than being burned as fuel. Interesting, isn't it?

In the room shown today, an upstairs attic room has been converted into a rather elegant master bedroom. The owners call it their penthouse suite, since they tucked a tiny dressing-bath into the area. The ceiling and walls have been covered with Venus, a delicate floral print from General Tire's collection of Fashion Personalities.

Some tall screens were made of boards, then covered with the same vinyl to act as a baffle between bedroom and dressing areas. The homemade four-posted and framed bed has been covered with a moire-looking covering called Princess, also by General Tire. Wicker chairs and table, some storage pieces and a dozen or so interesting collectibles give the room a postively personal look.

THIS COMPANY published a booklet called "Wall Story," and while it obviously promotes their own products, it contains some tips and ideas for ways to upgrade large and small areas of the house. If you would like a copy, send 50 cents to General Tire and Rubber Co., chemical/Plastics Division, Department CP-10, 1 General Street, Akron, Ohio 44329.

Christmas Gift Plants Need Proper Care

SHOULD YOU receive an amaryllis plant for Christmas it is important to know that it thrives in ordinary home temperature, not too warm, good light, but not direct sunlight and with even moisture.

By MILLICENT TAYLOR
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Plants as Christmas greetings have a way of coming into our homes at this season and it is good to know how to care for them.

As for care, it might be said at the outset that the energy crisis yields at least one bonus. Setting back our thermostats a bit will be appreciated by our houseplants. Especially in the warm houses and apartments of the United States, most house-plants really prefer it cooler.

The gorgeous poinsettia, named for Dr. Joel Robert Poinsett, first U.S. ambassador to Mexico, still leads the holiday greeting plants. Dr. Poinsett found these gay "flowers" growing wild in Mexico and was instrumental in introducing them to the United States.

It is a milkweed, belonging to the spurgewort family, which tells us that it needs plenty of water. When it comes, set it in a pan of warm water until the soil is moist on top, then keep it in a warm sunny window and out of drafts.

SPRAYING the underside of the leaves (not the bracts) with tepid water each day will help it. Keep it moist but not soggy. On cold nights protect it from the window glass with layers of newspaper.

A runner-up in popularity is the handsome Amaryllis or Hippaeastrum. Extensively hybridized, this beautiful "lily" originally from South Africa via the Netherlands grows from a huge bulb that sits one-third above the soil and blooms red, pink, white and variegated before the straplike leaves appear. Your preplanted holiday gift is probably an African Amaryllis. The Dutch hybrids are obtainable in January and flower toward spring.

Ordinary home temperature, not too warm, good light, not direct sunlight, and even moisture are what it likes. Many bulbs these days will produce a second flower stalk when the first is about over.

After flowering, keep the plant indoors and the soil moist, adding a little plant food now and then. If you have a garden, plunge the pot into the soil in semishade after frost is over, the rim an inch below soil level. Bring it in as late as possible in the autumn and stop watering for three months.

The charming cyclamen is less adaptable. This pretty plant grows wild from Greece to Syria, all along the shores of the eastern Mediterranean.

The pot plants are larger and keyed to bloom in winter — if happy sometimes putting out a second cluster of buds toward April.

THE PLANT must have good drainage and be cool. Too high a temperature causes the leaves to yellow and the buds to wither. Water it daily but do not let the water touch the central growth. If any stems rot twist them off sharply at their source. I have set the plant in a pan of tepid water each day for about 10 minutes then stood it in in the sink to drain.

After blooming, gradually withhold water and by May stop it altogether. Keep it in a cool dry place until September, then repot it at the same depth as before. A light feeding at this time and plant food every four weeks during the growing season are recommended.

If you receive that little evergreen tree called the Norfolk Island Pine you can decorate it for a Christmas tree. It is a conifer and grows to a lofty height in the southern hemisphere. The one you have is a baby. Give it plenty of space for its circles of horizontal branches and acid plant food.

Keep it in a cool place and do not let it dry out. You can prune it lightly to keep it from getting too big. I have seen them in greenhouses as tall as six feet but chances are that yours will not grow outside for a long time, so keep it and enjoy it.

You may receive an azalea simply covered with blooms and buds. This is an evergreen shrub, some of them hardy enough to plant outdoors later (ask your florist). The variety you have is probably Indica but was hybridized from plants originally from Japan and China.

Give it light, but not direct sunlight and never let it dry out. Nip off faded flowers and feed it with acid fertilizer. It is a good idea to water it once a day and submerge it once a week, then letting it drain.

TEPID WATER, and if alkaline or treated with chemicals, water that has stood for 24 hours.

It can summer outdoors in a sheltered spot in the garden, but do not forget to water it. It is forming buds for next season after blooming, just like your outdoor rhododendrons. This pretty little shrub if successfully cared for can bloom again for you year after year.

African violets (Saintpaulias) are popular gift plants at all times of the year. Forms and varieties are now in hundreds and everybody loves them. Many houseplant fans are collectors.

A greenhouse or garden center having a section devoted to them is a ravishing sight. They are the Gesneriaceae family and most varieties are the Ionantha strain.

They grow wild in tropical Africa and were named for Baron Walter von Saint Paul, who discovered them in Tanganyika. They bloom almost continuously with only a brief rest period. A trailing species makes an attractive hanging plant.

They need humidity, good light but not direct sunlight, perfect drainage, a quarter turn each day to keep them growing evenly, feeding every week, and when they develop more crowns repotting and dividing.

WATERING SHOULD be at room temperature and most people say from the bottom. Sitting on a tray of damp pebbles is fine. Do not let water wet the crown, and twist off any yellowing leaves and spent bloom stems at the base to avoid rot. It is only fair to say that there are many schools of caring for them. Also that some consider them easy and some difficult.

You can buy collars for the pots to wear that will hold up drooping, heavy outer leaves. Or you can make your own out of paper plates. To protect the outer stems from resting on damp clay pots that may collect salts, some people cover the rims with plastic tape.

We are often advised to remove promptly the aluminum foil that florists put around the pots of gift plants, especially those in clay pots. If you prefer to leave it on yours, be sure to make drainage holes through it in the bottom of the pot.

FTC Blasts Credit Reporting Company

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) accused the nation's largest credit reporting company today of using unfair and deceptive tactics to collect information on personal lives of millions of Americans.

The FTC announced plans to issue a complaint against Retail Credit Co.

The Commission said the firm required its investigators to work under a quota system to dig up adverse information about people who apply for jobs, insurance policies or conduct some other business where their credit rating is at issue.

The agency said the firm had been using a salary system which J. Thomas Rosch, director of the FTC's Bureau of Competition, said "puts a premium on the number of reports gathered at the expense of their accuracy."

Rosch told a news conference that Retail Credit is by far the largest firm of its type in the country, accounting for 70 to 80 per cent of the market and possessing a capability to report on the personal lives of 98 per cent of the population.

Its files go into detail on the lives of 45 million Americans and its services are used by thousands of employers and insurance companies every year.

The company, with headquarters in Atlanta, issued a statement saying it was surprised by the FTC action and said that to the best of its knowledge it had been obeying the 1971 Fair Credit Reporting Act which the FTC alleged it violated.

The proposed FTC complaint asks that the company be ordered to stop the practices which the FTC believes are unfair and deceptive.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

American composer Edward MacDowell was born Dec. 18, 1861.

On this day in history:

In 1865, the 13th Amendment to the Constitution abolished slavery in the United States.

In 1915, President Woodrow Wilson, a widower for about one year, was married to Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt, a widow.

In 1965, a U.S. spaceship returned to earth after spending 14 days in orbit.

In 1972, the United States resumed heavy bombing and mining operations against North Vietnam after the Communists refused to agree to end the war.

ACTIVE CHRISTMAS MICE

Even though the Christmas poem, "Twas the Night Before Christmas," says, "not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse," these mice play an active part in the Dancers Repertory Theater ballet based on the poem to be presented at 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Dec. 22 in the College of Marin Fine Arts Theater. The East Bay company includes four Marin students, Mark and Stephanie Barclay of Ross, Maggie Hewitt of Lucas Valley and Lesa Schnell of Kent Woodlands.

Ellman Will Seek Seat In Tiburon

George Ellman, a former Tiburon parks and recreation commissioner, has filed for candidacy in next spring's Tiburon City Council elections.

Ellman, 49, is a biochemist at Langley-Porter Institute in San Francisco.

He is the second to enter the race for one of the three seats open in the election March 5. Planning Commissioner E. Bruce Ross said last week that he will run. Incumbent Councilman M. Carlisle Becker and Mayor Branwell D. Fanning have said they will not be candidates. Councilman Albert H. Sennett has not announced his plans.

Ellman served on the parks and recreation commission from 1967 to 1972 and on a committee promoting the city's open space bond issue in 1972. His wife Phyllis is currently a parks and recreation commissioner.

They have lived in Tiburon for 15 years and reside at 2090 Vistazo East Street.

Ellman belongs to the Tiburon Peninsula Club and is a former chairman of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs. He earned a bachelor's degree at the University of Illinois and a Ph.D. from the California Institute of Technology.

Ellman said his prior experience on the parks and recreation commission spurred him to run for council.

"After serving on that commission, I know that there are a number of decisions that only a councilman can make, and I want to have the power to make some of them," he said. "I think that I have knowledge of the directions I'd like to see the city take."

Burton In The Ring For House

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Political and show business luminaries flanked Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, last night as he launched his campaign for the Democratic nomination to Congress.

Burton is seeking the nomination from the new San Francisco-Marin Fifth Congressional District created last month by the state Supreme Court.

About 480 persons attended the $100 per plate kickoff dinner including Burton's older brother, Rep. Phillip Burton, D-San Francisco, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley, comedian Tommy Smothers and actor Ed Asner of the "Mary Tyler Moore" television series.

Cranston said it made him happy to know Burton, who is serving his fourth term in the Assembly, is heading for Congress to assist in the battle for social legislation. He said John and Phillip Burton would make a great team in the House.

Republican William S. Mailliard currently represents the San Francisco-Marin area in the Congress. He is reportedly being considered by the White House for a diplomatic post. If Milliard took the post and resigned, a special election would be called.

Home Loan Bias Rule Kicked Out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Home Loan Bank Board has set for the first time precise guideline to prevent discrimination against overtime and women's income in granting home mortgage loans.

A spokesman for the FHLBB, which regulates the savings and loan industry, said the primary thrust of the policy statement would be to benefit single women, working wives, and moonlighting workers.

The FHLBB said refusal to consider a woman's income in a home mortgage application was discriminatory because "a larger proportion of minority group families rely on the wife's income to afford housing and other necessities."

Thrift institutions, as well as banks, have traditionally placed little or no worth in a wife's income for borrowing purposes.

In addition to giving greater emphasis to a wife's income, the new policy would strike guidelines for the first time for single women trying to secure home mortgates.

The FHLBB said federally chartered savings and loan associations should base decisions solely on an individual's credit history and income.

The FHLBB denounced credit practices based on "assumptions regarding comparative differences in credit worthiness between men and women, or between older and younger persons, or among married, single, widowed or divorced individuals without actual consideration being given to the applicants' credit histories and present and reasonably foreseeable economic prospects."

Brokerage House May Quit Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Shinn, president of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, today said the brokerage firm may withdraw from the New York Stock Exchange if a controversial securities reform bill now in the Senate Banking Committee becomes law.

"I want to make clear that we have not threatened the exchange nor told them that we are definitely going to pull out," Shinn told UPI.

"What we have said is that we will do whatever is necessary to protect the interests of our customers in getting the best price and best service" in securities transactions.

The legislation, which was advanced by Sen. Harrison Williams' subcommittee on securities last week, has drawn sharp criticism from Wall Street leaders because it makes no provision for requiring exchange membership after fixed commission rates are abolished in 1975.

The legislation essentially is designed to set the stage for creation of a national securities market, or central market system.

Critics have said competitive commissions replacing the fixed rates after April 30, 1975, will lure members away from the exchanges unless the government requires them to maintain membership for dealing in listed securities. Fixed commission rates for securities transactions are a major incentive for exchange membership.

Without members the exchanges would cease to exist, the critics contend, and the auction market for securities now provided on the exchanges would be replaced by a market made by the dealers themselves.

Merrill Lynch, the nation's biggest brokerage firm, was the first major member of an exchange to confirm that it actually is considering the possibility that withdrawal may be necessary if trading in listed securities is allowed outside the exchanges.

"Whether to withdraw is a consideration we have to make," Shinn said.

"I think all other member firms dealing with the public will have the same consideration to make."

Shinn said Merrill Lynch supports the contention that exchange membership should be required for those dealing in listed securities.

The subcommittee headed by Williams, D-N.J., which drafted the legislation, and the Securities and Exchange Commission consider such a requirement a form of stock exchange monopoly.

Shinn said Merrill Lynch will join efforts to have the legislation amended to require exchange membership when it is brought up for consideration early next year in the Banking Committee, headed by Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala.

No Hearing Loss For Getty Grandson

ROME (UPI) — The grandson of billionarie J. Paul Getty can hear perfectly well despite the loss of an ear but is being troubled by nightmares about his five-month kidnap ordeal, his doctor reported today.

"Getty is still very shaken," Dr. Lillo Antonio Garufi said at the Villa Carla Clinic where 17-year-old J. Paul Getty III has rested since his release in southern Italy Saturday.

Garufi said Getty was "under sedation because he had been suffering from nightmares that kept him from sleeping."

He emphasized that Getty's hearing would be normal even though his kidnapers cut off his right ear.

"Damage is purely esthetic," he said.

The kidnapers who held Getty for five months and five days and severed his right ear as a warning to his family released him near Lagonegro in southern Italy.

Police officials interrogated the youth at length yesterday and imposed a news blackout on the progress of the investigation.

According to information pieced together from Getty, his mother, family lawyer Giovanni Iacovoni and police, he was hit on the head and dragged into a waiting car outside the French Embassy in Rome in the early hours of July 10.

Getty said he was kept blindfolded so he never saw his kidnapers and was moved constantly on foot and in cars through the countryside, sleeping in caves or outdoors in bitter cold and eating mainly bread and cheese. He said his captors cut off his ear with a kitchen knife and mailed it to a newspaper to press ransom demands.

National police officials at Lagonegro told newsmen they were sifting information volunteered by various persons in the area. They said they believed the kidnapers' hideout was far away and Lagonegro was chosen as the release site to mislead investigators.

The largest crowd gathered for a funeral is the estimated four million who thronged Cairo for the funeral of President Gamal Abdel Nassar on Oct. 1, 1970.

A Hike In Income For November

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Personal income, an indicator of the spending power of the American consumer, rose $8.7 billion in November, the Commerce Department said today.

Wages and salaries of persons in private employment jumped $4.4 billion in November compared to $3 billion in October, the department said. Government wages and salaries increased $1.2 billion, helped in part by a $400 million pay hike for federal workers. The October rise was $2.2 billion.

Farmers' income rose $500 million, about the same as in October, while such nonwage items as rents, dividends, interest, welfare payments, and social security and veterans benefits added $2.8 billion to the November income total, the department said.

Job Performance On Board Agenda

Tamalpais High School District trustees will meet in closed session today at 8 p.m. in the district office to discuss Supt. Robert D. Torrey's job performance.

No explanation of the purpose of the closed session was given on the agenda of the special meeting and Torrey declined to state the purpose.

Students Are Denied Reentry

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Six Southern University students barred from the campus after 1972 protests will not be allowed to return because a court believes they could start more trouble.

The First Circuit Court of Appeals Monday upheld a lower court injunction prohibiting the six from returning to the campus. They were barred from the campus after the protests ended in the deaths of two students in a confrontation with police.

"We find no error in the conclusion of the trial judge that these defendants would in all probability continue their activities if not enjoined from returning to the campus," the appeals court said.

Goldwater Continues Scrutiny Of Nixon

By GODFREY SPERLING JR.
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — Looking back on the eight months since he first called on the President to clear up Watergate, Sen. Barry Goldwater now says:

Nixon has not done enough. He has done it too slowly. And he has not won back the trust of the people.

Of the President's efforts to clean up Watergate, the Arizona Republican senator said this:

"He (the President) chose to dibble and dabble and argue on very nebulous grounds like executive privilege and confidentiality when all the American people wanted to know was the truth."

And of Nixon's problem of restoring his credibility, Goldwater said:

"I don't think it's Watergate, frankly, as much as it's just a question in people's minds of just how honest is this man?

"I hate to think of the old adage 'Would you buy a used car from Dick Nixon?' — but that's what people are asking around the country."

The senator pointed out that he "gets around the country" a great deal and therefore has a broad base of observations on which to rest his assessments on how the public is viewing Nixon.

In a previous interview April 11, Goldwater dropped his first verbal blockbuster on the President, calling upon Nixon to "give assurances" to the public on the Watergate affair.

The quote that hit the President the hardest, perhaps, was this Goldwater charge:

"The Watergate. The Watergate. It's beginning to be like Teapot Dome. I mean there's a smell to it. Let's get rid of that smell."

Obviously, the senator thinks the Watergate smell is still with us.

On the other Watergate-related matters the Senator made these observations:

That the House inquiry into impeachment of the President should be speeded up as a means of possibly restoring Nixon's credibility.

That at no point since Watergate broke out into the open has the President ever discussed the subject with him.

Goldwater said he and the President were not having any discussions "these days."

However, within a few hours after this interview (and before the views Goldwater had expressed were known to anyone), a White House aide called the senator and invited him to have dinner that evening with the President and Mrs. Nixon.

He did. But he has told this reporter that the gathering was social and that there was no talk of Watergate. Further, the senator said he still is sticking to everything he said in the interview.

Phone Computer Could Be Used For Car Pools

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pacific Telephone Co. officials think maybe their computers can provide a means of helping commuters find car pools—merely by dialing.

The idea was suggested by William H. Wattenburg, a Berkeley electronics engineer, and division switching manager George T. Taylor said yesterday that "it sounds like a very simple thing to handle.

Commuters looking for pools would dial a company computer and then the number of their business offices.

The computer, knowing where the calls came from, would match them with riders who live in the same general neighborhood and who work in the same area.

It would then print out a list of phone numbers for each prospective pool member and mail them out with the next month's bill.

Old Policy On Leaves Is Delayed

Revival of an old district policy under which teachers more frequently were granted year-long leaves was delayed at least a month last night by Tamalpais High School District trustees.

District policy was changed in 1972 to group year-long leaves for travel and education with shorter leaves for teacher workshops.

Frank Gold, president of the Tamalpais Federation of Teachers, district teachers union, asked trustees to change the policy back, claiming it would save the district money.

He said the district presently has more teachers than the district's 24.5-to-one ratio of students to teachers would allow. By allowing more year-long leaves, he said, that teacher "overage" would be reduced, thus saving the district money.

But trustees were not sure if that reasoning was sound and directed Supt. Robert D. Torrey to study the problem, said Edward J. Neumeier, district administrative assistant.

Neumeier said trustees asked Torrey to project how much the teacher surplus will be reduced by retirements next year. He said the surplus is the result of shrinking student enrollments.

Tamalpais High School District Trustees also:

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Jeannie E. Cullen from the Citizens Advisory Committee for health reasons.

TRIP — Approved a field trip by eight students and a teacher from Tamalpais High School to Canada next spring. Participants in the trip are to pay their own expenses.

EVENING —Approved the hiring of 54 teachers for the district's evening school but delayed hiring four administrators for the night school until Torrey determines if Principal Raymond J. Bell needs the additional administrative help.

ORGANIZATION — Deferred action on membership in the California School Board Association because Trustee Robert W. Corlett, main opponent to membership, was not at the meeting.

CLOSED — Met in closed session to hear charges against district personnel but took no action.

Big San Quentin Expansion Coming

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Plans for a "Multi-million-dollar improvement program" to expand facilities at San Quentin Prison were confirmed today by a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

Philip D. Guthrie, department public information officer, told the Independent-Journal that remodeling of the prison is being considered for inclusion in the governor's budget next month.

He declined to detail the proposal, insisting the governor's office "really gets up tight" when the department talks about things being groomed for possible inclusion in the annual budget.

Three other proposals to expand prison capacity are to use Mendocino State Hospital, use the empty half of the institution at Susanville and build a new prison in a new location. The budget may recommend a combination of several of the proposals, Guthrie said.

Plans for San Quentin range from interim remodeling of some facilities to permanent new construction, he said. He stressed that "no decisions have been made."

The budget will be announced on Jan. 10.

Guthrie said plans to expand prison capacity were spurred by rising numbers of convicts.

Gov. Ronald Reagan had announced in early 1972 that San Quentin would be closed in 1974 or 1975, but from a low of about 1,400 inmates there last year the population has risen to some 3,000 today.

Department officials have explained the rise is due to tighter control limits on parole and a slight increase in court commitments to prison.

Marin College Board Picks New Architect

A San Francisco firm was selected last night by Marin Community College District trustees as the district's architect for the College of Marin campus.

Esherick, Homsey, Dodge and Davis Architects and Planners, was chosen in closed session after trustees heard presentations by it and three other San Francisco firms in an open meeting.

Other firms interviewed were Gwathmey, Sellier and Crosby, Stone, Marraccini and Patterson and Marquis and Stoller.

The winning firm will not receive a retainer but will be paid on a sliding scale proportional to the total cost of each project.

Projects due to start next year at the college are a corporation yard and redesigning of old engineering, industrial arts and old library buildings.

The winning firm designed the Cannery shopping center near San Francisco's waterfront and buildings on the University of California campuses in Santa Cruz and San Luis Obispo.

Trustees dismissed the former architect, Corwin-Booth and Associated Architects of San Francisco, in October after major problems developed in heating and ventilating systems of three buildings designed by the firm.

Trio Arrested After Gunplay And Child Theft In Fairfax

Three men were arrested on suspicion of child stealing, burglary, conspiracy and assault with a deadly weapon yesterday following gunplay and alleged kidnaping in Fairfax.

Booked into Marin County Jail and released on $10,000 bail each to appear Thursday in Marin Municipal Court were James Gary Gold, 28, and Larry John Sneddon, 24, both of 380 Bolinas Avenue, Fairfax, and James Lloyd Land, 28, of Malibu.

Fairfax police gave this account of the episode:

The trio appeared at 2575 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Apt. 8, at 12:05 p.m. yesterday, seeking Gold's 2-year-old son from residents William A. Fickman and the child's mother, Laurie R. Kanpp.

The men forced their way into the apartment, Gold reportedly pulling a gun and threatening to kill anyone in his way, the other men wrestling Fickman to the ground and pinning him while Gold grabbed the child.

Fickman told police he heard several gunshots in the confusion, but no one was injured.

The men then fled with the baby, Sneddon speeding away in one car, and Gold, Land and the child in another.

The three told police that Fickman ran alongside the cars and fired a shot at one of the vehicles.

San Rafael police stopped one car in San Rafael at Third and A streets eight minutes later and arrested Gold and Land. The baby was not hurt.

Burglar Given Jail Sentence

A San Francisco man will spend a year in jail for the misdemeanor burglary of the Little Store in Forest Knoll in October.

Mark Allen Warner, 23, drew the sentence from Judge David R. Baty of Marin Municipal Court.

Warner had pleaded guilty to the break-in, which Marin Sheriff's deputies said they broke up before Warner and an accomplice who got away could make off with liquor and cigarettes.

Fremont Man Is Hired For Petaluma Job

Breninger had worked for about four years as administrative assistant for the City of Fremont before becoming manager of the Fremont Cable TV Co., 10 months ago.

He is a graduate of Long Beach State College and is working toward a master's degree at San Jose State College.

He and his wife Judith have three children.

In other action last night, the city council agreed to purchase for the police department a $720 Vespa minimotor bicycle which was described as "virtually noiseless" and getting up to 100 miles per gallon of gasoline.

City Clerk Lillian Nomsen said the police plan to use the bike in the downtown area.

The Petaluma City Council also:

HEARING — Set a public hearing on the ecological resources element of the city's general plan for Jan. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the city hall.

CHEMICALS — Awarded a bid to Continental Chemical Co. for liquid chlorine at $140 a ton.

PETITIONS — Referred to the city planning commission petitions filed with Sonoma County by residents of unincorporated area along Petaluma Boulevard North who want city sewer service and water.

ZONING — Adopted an ordinance changing the zoning from highway commercial to garden apartment designation for a parcel at Lakeville Highway and Perry Road.

GUARD — Agreed to pay approximately $2.75 an hour for a crossing guard at Kenilworth School now paid for by the school district.

Gurwitz Team Second In Bridge

Michael Gurwitz of 24 Skylark Drive, Larkspur, was a member of the team that finished second in the four-session Swiss Teams championship held last week in Las Vegas at the American Contract Bridge League fall national championships.

Gurwitz' teammates were Eugene Neiger of Los Angeles, Harold Lilie and Nancy Weichsel of New York, and Mrs. Jane King of Springfield, Mo.

The total turnout of 480 teams shattered all previous records.

TIBURON'S OLDSTER

Smitty Needs Warm Place To Call Home

By REBECCA LARSEN

Just a few yards from Tiburon City Hall on the bottom floor of an old frame ark, frail 90-year-old Smitty sat in a rag-covered lawn chair yesterday trying to warm himself by a small heater.

"It's more like a tool shed than an apartment," said Tiburon Police Chief Maurice D. Lafferty, who was obligingly relighting the gas heater for Smitty.

"What we'd like for him is a room in Tiburon or anywhere where he could stay and maybe pay back for his rent with gardening," said Lafferty.

Tiburon police and a county caseworker have joined forces to find a new home for Albert (Smitty) Smith. According to Lafferty, Smitty has been a familiar figure for years in Tiburon, quietly coming and going without a word to his neighbors, occupants of high cost apartments and homes as well as city hall workers.

No one had paid much attention to him until a few weeks ago when he became ill and was taken by ambulance to Marin General Hospital. After a short stay during which his problem was diagnosed as malnutrition, according to a county caseworker, he returned to his tiny dish-eveled home.

Pleas for new safer and cleaner quarters for Smitty have so far brought no reply from Marin County, said Lafferty, but several offers have come in from the San Francisco Peninsula.

"It would be nicer if he could stay in the area," said Lafferty.

"When asked if he wants to move, Smitty in round spectacles and a baggy sweater, only asked when he'd have to go. His hearing is not too good anymore.

He can't remember when he arrived in Tiburon. He only knows that developer Fred Zelinsky of Belvedere has let him live in his quarters rent-free in return for watering trees and plants in the area.

"I got this place in exchange for looking after the trees and flowers. It used to take me as much as 20 hours a week. Fred was highly satisfied with what I did.

"I got some Social Security and a little bank account. I didn't need much other money. I don't eat very much —very, very little."

He leaned over and rattled the heater pipe. "It's cold again, it must have gone out."

In one corner is Smitty's bed, a few blankets on a stained mattress set in a makeshift frame. There are a few tables piled with papers, canned food, pieces of metal junk and bits of clothing.

In another room he has a wood burning stove, a cluttered sink and refrigerator.

The stove and the heater frighten the police. During Lafferty's visit, a damp rug was found lying on the stove. Smitty apparently was drying it out, but it already had a charred hole burnt into it.

Now the county is trying to sort through Smitty's papers to find out who he is and where he came from so welfare support can be arranged. He appears to have immigrated to the United States from Britain. But no one is sure of his exact age or even if Albert Smith is his real name.

One local story has it that Smitty once lived where Del Mar School now stands in a makeshift shelter of burlap and tree limbs.

If someone does not offer Smitty a new home where he is guaranteed a safe room and regular meals, the county will probably send him to a rest home.

Smitty pulled his chair closer to the heater, saying "It's getting cold outside."

Two Sentenced On Drug Charge

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — Gerry Buckley of Stinson Beach and Michael Kranzler of Berkeley have been given county jail sentences and fined, after pleading guilty to charges of transporting LSD and receiving stolen property here.

Superior Court Judge John T. Bocanelli put Buckley on five years probation, ordered him to serve one year in Santa Clara County Jail, and fined him $400. Kranzler, also placed on five years probation, was ordered to jail for nine months and fined $750.

The two men were arrested June 30 in the South Bay, when police made a routine traffic stop on their car, and reported finding seven stolen airline tickets and an estimated $10,000 worth of LSD in the auto.

Field Narrowed For Agency Post

Some 110 applicants for the post of assistant director of the San Rafael Redevelopment Agency have been screened down to 12 contenders, City Mgr. William J. Bielser reported yesterday.

The city council will interview the finalists in closed session at 1:30 p.m. Friday in city hall, he said.

Humphrey, Too, Took Deduction On His Papers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversy over President Nixon's tax deduction for the gift of personal papers to the National Archives, has brought into public view another case of vice presidential generosity — this time from the other side of the aisle.

An aide to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said that Humphrey too had claimed an income tax deduction for personal papers from his vice presidential years. The papers were donated to the Minnesota State Historical Society, Humphrey's office said Monday.

President Nixon claimed a deduction for papers covering his vice presidency from 1953 to 1961. The papers were appraised at $576,000. Humphrey's office said it would have a full report on his donation later this week.

Letters Mailed On Auto Defects

DETROIT (UPI) — Nearly 22,000 owners of 1974-model General Motors' cars will receive certified letters notifying them of defects that could result in a failure of the rear brakes or cause the rear wheels to lock.

GM notified the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration yesterday of two separate recall campaigns. The company said it knows of no accidents or injuries as a result of the defects.

The first campaign involves 12,700 compact Chevrolet Novas, Pontiac Venturas, Oldsmobile Omegas and Buick Apollos and the second affects 9,200 full-size Chevrolet station wagons.

Old Policy On Leaves Is Delayed

Revival of an old district policy under which teachers more frequently were granted year-long leaves was delayed at least a month last night by Tamalpais High School District trustees.

District policy was changed in 1972 to group year-long leaves for travel and education with shorter leaves for teacher workshops.

Frank Gold, president of the Tamalpais Federation of Teachers, district teachers union, asked trustees to change the policy back, claiming it would save the district money.

He said the district presently has more teachers than the district's 24.5-to-one ratio of students to teachers would allow. By allowing more year-long leaves, he said, that teacher "overage" would be reduced, thus saving the district money.

But trustees were not sure if that reasoning was sound and directed Supt. Robert D. Torrey to study the problem, said Edward J. Neumeier, district administrative assistant.

Neumeier said trustees asked Torrey to project how much the teacher surplus will be reduced by retirements next year. He said the surplus is the result of shrinking student enrollments.

Tamalpais High School District Trustees also:

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Jeannie E. Cullen from the Citizens Advisory Committee for health reasons.

TRIP — Approved a field trip by eight students and a teacher from Tamalpais High School to Canada next spring. Participants in the trip are to pay their own expenses.

EVENING —Approved the hiring of 54 teachers for the district's evening school but delayed hiring four administrators for the night school until Torrey determines if Principal Raymond J. Bell needs the additional administrative help.

ORGANIZATION — Deferred action on membership in the California School Board Association because Trustee Robert W. Corlett, main opponent to membership, was not at the meeting.

CLOSED — Met in closed session to hear charges against district personnel but took no action.

Big San Quentin Expansion Coming

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Plans for a "Multi-million-dollar improvement program" to expand facilities at San Quentin Prison were confirmed today by a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

Philip D. Guthrie, department public information officer, told the Independent-Journal that remodeling of the prison is being considered for inclusion in the governor's budget next month.

He declined to detail the proposal, insisting the governor's office "really gets up tight" when the department talks about things being groomed for possible inclusion in the annual budget.

Three other proposals to expand prison capacity are to use Mendocino State Hospital, use the empty half of the institution at Susanville and build a new prison in a new location. The budget may recommend a combination of several of the proposals, Guthrie said.

Plans for San Quentin range from interim remodeling of some facilities to permanent new construction, he said. He stressed that "no decisions have been made."

The budget will be announced on Jan. 10.

Guthrie said plans to expand prison capacity were spurred by rising numbers of convicts.

Another Look At Two-Year Session

Before the California Legislature goes back to work (and play) after its year-end recess, let's take another look at how the two-year legislative session is working.

The two-year legislature was created by vote of the people in approving Proposition 4 on the Nov. 7, 1972, ballot. The argument in favor which accompanied sample ballots claimed it "will result in reforms in operations, greater efficiency, more responsiveness to the public, and some modest recurring savings estimated at several hundred thousand dollars."

Proponents claimed that major gains would be that bills would receive longer and more thorough study, avoiding a last-minute rush before adjournment, and that the change would "reduce the costly process of reintroducing and reconsidering identical legislation each year."

THIS YEAR, according to figures prepared by the California Taxpayers Association, 4,148 bills were introduced in the two houses, compared with 3,906 last year. Those not passed carry over in some form without reintroduction, so it would appear that fewer bills are likely to be introduced in the second year of the session, which starts next month.

There have been more amendments this year, however. In the Senate, there were 1,706 amendments to bills last year, 1,910 this year. The Assembly saw 2,426 amendments last year, 2,842 this year. And bills not passed may be further amended in the second year of the session. When a bill is amended, it must be reprinted, so the cost of amendment is about the same as the cost of introducing a new bill.

The change did nothing to eliminate "spot bills" — usually meaningless measures which are introduced just to preserve a place in the calendar, with the intention of amending them into something entirely different. These are the villains which pop up in new form in closing days of the legislature and often are whisked through, putting things into law without any real public exposure and sometimes even without hearings.

THE LEGISLATURE sent 1,387 bills to the governor, of which he vetoed 172. The rest became law.

Of those 1,387, more than half went to the governor in the closing two weeks of this year's half of the two-year session. On the last day before the recess, 696 bills were voted on in the legislature. So much for eliminating the last-minute rush!

As for the more careful study, two bills had to be recalled for amendments to correct gross errors after they reached the governor's desk. This hardly indicates they received thorough study before passage.

As for the "modest recurring savings," the budget for the legislature this year was $33,767,262, up from $30,275,279 last year — a modest increase, perhaps, but not a modest saving.

As the December issue of Cal-Tax News comments "It looks now as if there will have to be some major changes if promises made to the public when it approved a two-year session are to materialize."

Mistletoe As Medicine

Marin's myriad oaks frequently carry a crown of parasitic mistletoe. This is the same mistletoe used to promote Christmas kissing, along with other things.

Mistletoe came to be regarded as a Christmas plant because the Druids had made a ceremony of cutting the leaves and berries with a golden knife for use in medicine about the time of the winter solstice. It is listed in modern books on herb midicine as having a great reputation in the treatment of convulsive nervous disorders. It is quite narcotic and should not be left where children can reach it.

Public Records Act Puts Undue Burden On Citizen

By EARL G. WATERS

What happens when a citizen is denied the right to see a government record to which, under the Public Records Act, he is indisputably entitled?

His only recourse is to the courts. But what court does he turn to? If it is a record in the possession of a local government, the problem is simplified. He files in the superior court of that county. But when it is a state agency, it is not so simple.

The Public Records Act intended that the citizen should not be put to an unnecessary burden and provided that proceedings could be instituted "in any court of competent jurisdiction." But it confused this with a subsequent section which provides that contempt proceedings to enforce a court order for the record must be brought in the county where the records are situated.

The result is the citizen is put to an undue burden. He must travel about the state seeking the right county in which to file his action.

Further, public agencies can thwart the intent of the law by forcing the citizen to resort to the courts to enforce his rights. Most citizens do not have the financial means for the legal costs involved in such disputes.

RECOGNIZING THIS, State Sen. John Stull, R-Encinitas, authored a law which provides a citizen may be awarded attorney fees up to $1,500 when through "arbitrary or capricious action" a governmental body denies a right to which he is entitled.

The Stull law falls short in several respects. It does not cover the situation where the denial is by an individual rather than a body. Thus, if the denial is by an elective county clerk or recorder, neither of whom is responsible to a governing board, legal fees would not be recoverable.

And where there is a board involved, one must show that it acted "arbitrarily or capriciously." And if the court does award fees, how does one collect them?

The Stull law could be improved by making it apply to any denial which causes one to go to court to enforce his rights. If the suit is successful, the award of resasonable costs should be mandatory. This is a common provision in contracts. Furthermore, the individual responsible for the denial should be subject to a penalty. The mere assessment of legal costs against the public agency is no burden on that person.

As to the question of jurisdiction which arises in the Public Records Act, when the state is involved, it should be proper to bring the action in any county where the particular state agency involved maintains an office.

IN PROTECTING the rights of the public, the legislature has provided that a suit may be brought against a corporation in any county where that corporation does business. The citizen is not put to the burden of seeking out the county where the corporation maintains its home office. Why should the state be any different?

And, in those cases where there are no facts in dispute, why should the issue be brought in a trial court? Why not directly to the appellate court? This would be more consistent with the intent to provide speedy relief for the citizen.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Reason Why Christmas Falls On Dec. 25

Every year we celebrate the birthday of Jesus Christ on Dec. 25. As a matter of fact, nobody knew, with a period of several years, when Jesus was born. Then the Christians in Egypt decided to establish the 6th of January as the birthday of Christ. This gradually spread through the East, and was generally accepted by the end of the fourth century.

Now, the birthday of Mithra, the pagan Sun god, was celebrated on Dec. 25. The church fathers, noting with some concern that the Christians were attending these festivities, decided to change the birthday of Christ to Dec. 25, in order to keep their flocks in the fold, so to speak. And there it remains today.

Whales Endangered By International Cabal

As an active member of the Animal Protection Institute of America I feel that it is my duty to bring to your attention . . . the refusal to phase out the killing of fin whales by 1976.

Only three species of whales — sperm, sei and minke —remain in numbers sufficient for whalers to pursue them for economic gain. If all whaling were stopped today, it would take 50 to 100 years to bring the Antarctic stocks back to what they were only eight years ago. Two years ago, the United Nations considered an immediate moratorium a matter of great urgency. In 1972, a U.S. resolution proposing a 10-year moratorium on the taking of whales received unanimous support at the U.N. Conference on Human Environment in Stockholm. The world community has asked for an end to whaling.

Unfortunately, the fate of this common international resources is in the hands, not of all nations, but of those few that still want to hunt them. The International Whaling Commission, the sole body able to prevent over-exploitation of whales, is made up of whaling nations and former whaling nations. The intent of whaling nations is not to conserve whales for the benefit of future generations, but to "manage" them —in other words, take as many as possible without destroying all possibility of future generations . . . The only major whaling nations left — Japan and Russia — are facing a decline in the efficiency of their operations and thus a loss of money . . .

At present, one whale dies every 15 minutes. If the slaughter is allowed to continue at this rate, all great whales will be gone from the seas in less than 15 years . . .

Blame That Energy Crisis On Harvard Business School

WASHINGTON — Who is responsible for the energy crisis? Many people blame the oil companies. Others blame the government. The automobile companies blame the environmentalists and the Democrats blame Watergate.

But Prof. Heinrich Applebaum of the Yale Divinity School told me who the real villain of the fuel crisis is. It's the Harvard Business School.

THE PROFESSOR SAID: "Almost every sheikh now in charge of oil policy for his country was trained at Harvard. Everything they learned there they have put into practice to the detriment of the Free World. The Harvard Business School taught the sons of Arab potentates how to sell oil, raise prices, and demand outrageous profits for the black gold they have in the ground. Had these same sons been sent to the University of Alabama, Oklahoma or Texas, they would now be involved in developing football teams instead of putting the screws to everyone."

"Then you think it was a mistake to accept Arab princes at Harvard?"

"It was an absolute disaster. We should have sent them to colleges where the kids swallowed goldfish, got involved in panty raids, and drank Boone's Farm apple wine until 6 o'clock in the morning. We should have made them join fraternities and take sorority girls to beer busts.

"All the Harvard Business School did for the sheikhs was teach them the laws of supply and demand and the value of fuel in an industrial society."

"I GUESS AT THE TIME it seemed like a good idea," I said.

"It was never a good idea," Applebaum said. "Before Harvard started accepting Arab oil princes, their fathers were willing to own 25 per cent of the wells and were happy to accept air-conditioned Cadillacs as presents. Then the Harvard Business School started turning out oil ministers that demanded full control of the wells, triple royalties, and F-5 fighter planes. I assure you they didn't learn that in the deserts of Arabia.

"Every economics professor and business law teacher in Cambridge must bear full responsibility for the mess we're in," Applebaum said.

"But maybe the professors just thought they were teaching theory as far as the free enterprise system goes, and that it would never be put into practice."

"YOU DON'T TEACH theory to people who control 70 per cent of all the oil reserves in the world. We should have sent them all to the Juilliard School of Music where they could have learned to play an instrument."

"Who gave the sheikhs the idea to send their sons to the Harvard School of Business in the first place?" I asked.

"The executives of the oil companies. They were all trained there, and the sheikhs decided that, since these oil executives were so good at shafting the Arabs, their sons could learn how to shaft the oil companies."

"They learned well," I admitted.

"We should have sent them to the University of California at Santa Barbara, and they all would have become surfers."

"I GUESS IT'S TOO late to do anything about it," I said.

"Perhaps. But I think we should put an embargo on all sons of Arab sheikhs, Iranian shahs and Venezuelan presidents. When they apply to the Harvard Business School, we can turn them down by saying the class is filled, but there are openings at the University of Kentucky where they can major in basketball. Let's not make it any tougher on ourselves in the future than we have to."

"Would the Harvard Business School go along with it?"

"If they don't we will shut off their oil. We should shut it off anyway. Their professors got us into this mess. Let them freeze for awhile and make them realize what their damn lectures did to the rest of the world."

United Nations, Despite Defects, Does Jobs No One Else Can Do

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — It is easy to sneer at this organization, boring in on all its painful defects. Yet, once again in the aftermath of the Middle East war, the U.N. is doing a job that no one else could do. The Scandinavians, the Irish and the other nationalities monitoring the cease-fire lines are performing a service that is hazardous and difficult and more or less thankless.

With able direction from headquarters here, the U.N. force has thus far kept the opposing sides apart. They have been called on to restrain sporadic firing, often in close proximity to the negotiation in the tent at Kilometer 101 where the cease-fire negotiation went on.

What the U.N. role will be in an eventual settlement of the dispute is undetermined. In any event, that is a long way in the future. Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger chose to make his first important pronouncement in his new office before the U.N. General Assembly, a sign of the importance of the role he hopes the U.N. will play.

THE GREATEST WEAKNESS is, of course, the one-nation, one-vote imbalance in the voting procedure of the assembly. This equates the United States and the Soviet Union with Botswana and Ecuador.

But even the proliferating assembly with its 135 members can claim a virtue. That is the right of the smallest and weakest nations to have a say in a world forum. What they say may often sound like sheer nonsense but their right to say it is a privilege that helps to ease the penalty of poverty and isolation. The veto in the Security Council is another grave structural weakness that has often defeated the best efforts of the responsible powers in the U.N.

The most carefully researched and thorough analysis of the defects of the U.N. is Shirley Hazzard's "Defeat of an Ideal." With the background of her own 10 years' experience in the secretariat, she shows how difficult it is to run an organization in which the jobs are parceled out by nationality, and it is all but impossible to fire anyone for incompetence or simply lying down on the job. Equally serious is the way the U.N. teeters on the edge of bankruptcy, with many nations failing to pay up their assessments. This has gone so far that at times it has seemed impossible to meet monthly payrolls.

REFORM IS VITAL if the U.N. is to continue to perform the unique services that today are helping to keep down the brush fires in the Middle East. Given the built-in resistance coming from every part of the great glass beehive on the East River, it is doubtful whether meaningful reform can ever come about. The new secretary general, Kurt Waldheim, tends to be a prisoner of these forces.

In my opinion the specialized agencies are themselves justification enough for the existence of the U.N. At the head of the list I would put the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund. A budget of $80 million has to be stretched a long way to help children around the world.

An important function of UNICEF is in alerting the affluent one-fourth of the globe to the needs of children everywhere. The UNICEF Christmas cards, with a beautiful new selection just out, is one way this is done. They have a warmth and a glow that originate from artists old and very young around the world.

UNICEF's director, Henry R. Labouisse, is one of the ablest public servants anywhere. After a distinguished career as a U.S. foreign service officer, he took on a truly thankless U.N. job of running the Palestinian refugee camps. From there he went to UNICEF, where his dedication and his administrative ability serve the agency well.

The U.N.'s World Population Year 1974, with a budget of $100 million contributing by 63 countries, puts a new emphasis on the population explosion. The men and women who staff the U.N. agencies are not foggy one-worlders. They are striving to raise abysmally low standards often against seemingly insuperable handicaps.

Want New Faces In Politics? How About Mike And Margo?

WASHINGTON — Perhaps you found it exciting to watch good old Nelson Rockefeller resigning the governorship and being coy again about whether he would run for president again — and to read that darling old Ronald Reagan and young old Edward Kennedy are leading the presidential polls in California again, and to see determined old Henry Jackson being pushed forth yet again.

But your average voter is not all that brimming over about politicians as usual. Another poll in California discloses that 43 per cent would be delighted if every officeholder now on the public payroll, regardless of party, were just kicked out and we could start all over.

In that case, obviously new faces will be in as much demand for the next election as fleece bedroom slippers are for this Christmas. Without formally committing myself so far in advance, I suggest two who would complement each other nicely on a ballot.

THEIR NAMES ARE Margo St. James and Michael Curtis.

Curtis has been a public figure for some years in Baltimore, where he plays middle linebacker for the Colts. That is misleading, however, if you read anything political into it. On the basis of his remarks the other day to a Baltimore Sun reporter, we will run Curtis over here in the rightmost flat, rather than anywhere near the center.

St. James also has been a public figure for some years, out around the San Francisco Bay area. She is the founder and chief spokesman of a civic action group there, the name of which is Coyote. St. James does not smoke or drink, likes health foods and jogs daily. Although by background she is a strong free enterpriser, on the basis of her associations in Coyote we will set her over on the left flank.

Curtis has not made any public announcement for office, but he has been in touch with leaders of the AFL-CIO and is a volunteer activist on behalf of our current president, Mr. Nixon. His paraphrase of his communications with big labor indicates that, in case he did not move toward elective office, he might give American diplomacy a touch of badly needed precision and savoir faire.

In reference to his telegram about the labor federation's stand in favor of the president's removal from office, Curtis reports: "What I said was, 'I can't believe a responsible group like you could come out with a statement like that. To begin with, you are only a bunch of hooligans.' " Americans should show respect to their President "whether he's an ass or not," he stated.

Furthermore, "I'm sure it is going to hurt a lot of their constituencies . . . A lot of such rednecks like him, the blue-collar workers . . . Such things upset me so much. The same thing happened when some African state took over a Peace Corps, delayed a Peace Corps plane . . . I called up both congressmen and I told them to bomb the . . ."

FROM THIS, DESPITE the elisions, it will be seen that he would handle both domestic and foreign affairs with the same finesse he displayed in chopping down a high-spirited drunk who ran onto the field during a championship game a few years ago, back when the Colts were in such games.

St. James, on the other hand, has spoken frankly about her political ambitions. "I would like to go into politics to take the corruption out of it," she says. "I would hate to be governess, but I wouldn't mind being vice president."

It may seem odd that St. James, a special kind of women's rights advocate, would settle for vice president. But she said that not out of modesty; rather because she is a prostitute by trade, and her Coyote organization is a hookers' protective society.

It is not, however, an all-pro club like Curtis' Colts. Only 10 per cent of its members are in St. James' business. The rest include the sheriff of San Francisco, authors, philosophers, actors, and naturally a few feminists.

She won them with her directness: "Being a whore gave me financial independence and freed me from the double standard imposed by men who don't want women to be free." Now combine that with Curtis' flair for telling it like he thinks it is. You have either the most telegenic ticket since Butler left O'Hara or a debating bill that would fill Kezar Stadium.

Mike and Margo — it might not sing at first, but it sounds so fresh compared to Ronny and Rocky, or Scoopy and Teddy, or George and George. Again.

Another Look At Two-Year Session

Before the California Legislature goes back to work (and play) after its year-end recess, let's take another look at how the two-year legislative session is working.

The two-year legislature was created by vote of the people in approving Proposition 4 on the Nov. 7, 1972, ballot. The argument in favor which accompanied sample ballots claimed it "will result in reforms in operations, greater efficiency, more responsiveness to the public, and some modest recurring savings estimated at several hundred thousand dollars."

Proponents claimed that major gains would be that bills would receive longer and more thorough study, avoiding a last-minute rush before adjournment, and that the change would "reduce the costly process of reintroducing and reconsidering identical legislation each year."

THIS YEAR, according to figures prepared by the California Taxpayers Association, 4,148 bills were introduced in the two houses, compared with 3,906 last year. Those not passed carry over in some form without reintroduction, so it would appear that fewer bills are likely to be introduced in the second year of the session, which starts next month.

There have been more amendments this year, however. In the Senate, there were 1,706 amendments to bills last year, 1,910 this year. The Assembly saw 2,426 amendments last year, 2,842 this year. And bills not passed may be further amended in the second year of the session. When a bill is amended, it must be reprinted, so the cost of amendment is about the same as the cost of introducing a new bill.

The change did nothing to eliminate "spot bills" — usually meaningless measures which are introduced just to preserve a place in the calendar, with the intention of amending them into something entirely different. These are the villains which pop up in new form in closing days of the legislature and often are whisked through, putting things into law without any real public exposure and sometimes even without hearings.

THE LEGISLATURE sent 1,387 bills to the governor, of which he vetoed 172. The rest became law.

Of those 1,387, more than half went to the governor in the closing two weeks of this year's half of the two-year session. On the last day before the recess, 696 bills were voted on in the legislature. So much for eliminating the last-minute rush!

As for the more careful study, two bills had to be recalled for amendments to correct gross errors after they reached the governor's desk. This hardly indicates they received thorough study before passage.

As for the "modest recurring savings," the budget for the legislature this year was $33,767,262, up from $30,275,279 last year — a modest increase, perhaps, but not a modest saving.

As the December issue of Cal-Tax News comments "It looks now as if there will have to be some major changes if promises made to the public when it approved a two-year session are to materialize."

Mistletoe As Medicine

Marin's myriad oaks frequently carry a crown of parasitic mistletoe. This is the same mistletoe used to promote Christmas kissing, along with other things.

Mistletoe came to be regarded as a Christmas plant because the Druids had made a ceremony of cutting the leaves and berries with a golden knife for use in medicine about the time of the winter solstice. It is listed in modern books on herb midicine as having a great reputation in the treatment of convulsive nervous disorders. It is quite narcotic and should not be left where children can reach it.

Public Records Act Puts Undue Burden On Citizen

By EARL G. WATERS

What happens when a citizen is denied the right to see a government record to which, under the Public Records Act, he is indisputably entitled?

His only recourse is to the courts. But what court does he turn to? If it is a record in the possession of a local government, the problem is simplified. He files in the superior court of that county. But when it is a state agency, it is not so simple.

The Public Records Act intended that the citizen should not be put to an unnecessary burden and provided that proceedings could be instituted "in any court of competent jurisdiction." But it confused this with a subsequent section which provides that contempt proceedings to enforce a court order for the record must be brought in the county where the records are situated.

The result is the citizen is put to an undue burden. He must travel about the state seeking the right county in which to file his action.

Further, public agencies can thwart the intent of the law by forcing the citizen to resort to the courts to enforce his rights. Most citizens do not have the financial means for the legal costs involved in such disputes.

RECOGNIZING THIS, State Sen. John Stull, R-Encinitas, authored a law which provides a citizen may be awarded attorney fees up to $1,500 when through "arbitrary or capricious action" a governmental body denies a right to which he is entitled.

The Stull law falls short in several respects. It does not cover the situation where the denial is by an individual rather than a body. Thus, if the denial is by an elective county clerk or recorder, neither of whom is responsible to a governing board, legal fees would not be recoverable.

And where there is a board involved, one must show that it acted "arbitrarily or capriciously." And if the court does award fees, how does one collect them?

The Stull law could be improved by making it apply to any denial which causes one to go to court to enforce his rights. If the suit is successful, the award of resasonable costs should be mandatory. This is a common provision in contracts. Furthermore, the individual responsible for the denial should be subject to a penalty. The mere assessment of legal costs against the public agency is no burden on that person.

As to the question of jurisdiction which arises in the Public Records Act, when the state is involved, it should be proper to bring the action in any county where the particular state agency involved maintains an office.

IN PROTECTING the rights of the public, the legislature has provided that a suit may be brought against a corporation in any county where that corporation does business. The citizen is not put to the burden of seeking out the county where the corporation maintains its home office. Why should the state be any different?

And, in those cases where there are no facts in dispute, why should the issue be brought in a trial court? Why not directly to the appellate court? This would be more consistent with the intent to provide speedy relief for the citizen.

In that case, obviously new faces will be in as much demand for the next election as fleece bedroom slippers are for this Christmas. Without formally committing myself so far in advance, I suggest two who would complement each other nicely on a ballot.

THEIR NAMES ARE Margo St. James and Michael Curtis.

Curtis has been a public figure for some years in Baltimore, where he plays middle linebacker for the Colts. That is misleading, however, if you read anything political into it. On the basis of his remarks the other day to a Baltimore Sun reporter, we will run Curtis over here in the rightmost flat, rather than anywhere near the center.

St. James also has been a public figure for some years, out around the San Francisco Bay area. She is the founder and chief spokesman of a civic action group there, the name of which is Coyote. St. James does not smoke or drink, likes health foods and jogs daily. Although by background she is a strong free enterpriser, on the basis of her associations in Coyote we will set her over on the left flank.

Curtis has not made any public announcement for office, but he has been in touch with leaders of the AFL-CIO and is a volunteer activist on behalf of our current president, Mr. Nixon. His paraphrase of his communications with big labor indicates that, in case he did not move toward elective office, he might give American diplomacy a touch of badly needed precision and savoir faire.

In reference to his telegram about the labor federation's stand in favor of the president's removal from office, Curtis reports: "What I said was, 'I can't believe a responsible group like you could come out with a statement like that. To begin with, you are only a bunch of hooligans.' " Americans should show respect to their President "whether he's an ass or not," he stated.

Furthermore, "I'm sure it is going to hurt a lot of their constituencies . . . A lot of such rednecks like him, the blue-collar workers . . . Such things upset me so much. The same thing happened when some African state took over a Peace Corps, delayed a Peace Corps plane . . . I called up both congressmen and I told them to bomb the . . ."

FROM THIS, DESPITE the elisions, it will be seen that he would handle both domestic and foreign affairs with the same finesse he displayed in chopping down a high-spirited drunk who ran onto the field during a championship game a few years ago, back when the Colts were in such games.

St. James, on the other hand, has spoken frankly about her political ambitions. "I would like to go into politics to take the corruption out of it," she says. "I would hate to be governess, but I wouldn't mind being vice president."

It may seem odd that St. James, a special kind of women's rights advocate, would settle for vice president. But she said that not out of modesty; rather because she is a prostitute by trade, and her Coyote organization is a hookers' protective society.

It is not, however, an all-pro club like Curtis' Colts. Only 10 per cent of its members are in St. James' business. The rest include the sheriff of San Francisco, authors, philosophers, actors, and naturally a few feminists.

She won them with her directness: "Being a whore gave me financial independence and freed me from the double standard imposed by men who don't want women to be free." Now combine that with Curtis' flair for telling it like he thinks it is. You have either the most telegenic ticket since Butler left O'Hara or a debating bill that would fill Kezar Stadium.

Mike and Margo — it might not sing at first, but it sounds so fresh compared to Ronny and Rocky, or Scoopy and Teddy, or George and George. Again.

Unhappy News From North Pole: Energy Crisis Slows Down Santa

NORTH POLE — Santa Claus today announced a 50 per cent cutback in the production of Christmas toys because of the energy shortage.

"I know it will be a hardship on boys and girls throughout the world, but we haven't got enough whale blubber to keep the plant lighted and heated," he said.

He placed the North Pole workshop on a three-day week and laid off 1,000 elves, boosting the unemployment rate in the Arctic Circle to 56 per cent.

"Even if we were able to work at 100 per cent production, I wouldn't be able to deliver all the toys because of the new air speed limits. I have to keep the reindeer down to 55 miles an hour," Santa reported.

Santa said he had considered switching to a small, foreign-made sled that didn't require as much energy, but he couldn't get delivery before Christmas.

Santa's announcement was greeted with gloom in many quarters. Children throughout the world hung their Christmas stockings upside-down in protest.

FEDERAL OFFICIALS said they didn't believe toy rationing would be necessary in the U.S. "if we all do our part and voluntarily reduce our toy orders to Santa."

A representative of the major oil companies said, "This wouldn't have happened if they had let us put in the Alaska pipeline and drill under the North Pole."

Santa said his trip this year will be more hazardous without outdoor Christmas lighting to guide him, and more chimney smoke from fireplaces than ever.

"All things considered, it will probably take a little longer, and Christmas deliveries won't be completed until Dec. 27," he said. "It will be the first time I've been later than the post office."

MRS. CLAUS, embittered because she wouldn't have enough fuel to keep her warm while Santa was away, said, "Someone should have seen this coming and taken steps to avoid it."

Sammy Sprite, business representative of Elves Local 36, said: "It's a phony shortage, just to drive up the price of blubber."

Santa said the children of the world shouldn't despair because he would still be able to deliver 50 per cent of the toys. "Half a Christmas is better than none," he said.

As a final touch, an energy inspector came by and ordered Rudolph to dim his nose 25 per cent.

Corte Madera Delays On Terminal Report

The Corte Madera Town Council, convening last night for only 21 minutes on the eve of the town's special election, put off consideration of the environmental impact report on the Larkspur ferry terminal until next Wednesday's meeting.

The council is supposed to provide the Bay Conservation and Development Commission with an opinion on plans recently revised by the Golden Gate Bridge District in response to suggestions made by the Corte Madera Planning Commission in a letter Nov. 28.

Councilmen said no one had come before them to explain the changes made, nor had they received copies of the two-inch-thick document.

"I don't like to act under this pressure," said councilman Robert J. Flahive.

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels said he could provide copies of the report by Dec. 26, the first meeting for the three councilmen who will be elected today. Mayor Holmes S. Norville and councilmen Harold B. Wagstaff and Edward W. Colthurst were recalled in September. (Norville and Wagstaff resigned, but Colthurst remained on the council through last night's meeting.)

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

CODES — Adopted 1973 editions of the uniform codes for building, plumbing, swimming pools and fire, as recommended by the planning commission.

HORSES — Set a public hearing Jan. 21, 1974, at 7:30 p.m., on a proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance requiring a conditional use permit to keep horses in the town.

REPORTS — Received the monthly reports from the treasurer, police department, fire department, public works department and building inspection department.

BICYCLE — Referred to the planning commission a request by Jack Haehl that a bicycle-pedestrian overpass be built bridging U.S. 101 and linking Paradise Drive in East Corte Madera with the Meadowsweet Drive area in West Corte Madera. A letter from T. R. Lammers of the state Department of Transportation, assuring Haehl "we will investigate, evaluate and advise. . . within one month" was read by Bartels.

SEWER — Accepted a bid of $8,040 ($1,483 below engineers' estimate) by Kennelly and Regan Construction for a sewer replacement on Pavilion Path.

WALK-A-THON — Granted permission for a United Cerebral Palsy Association "walk-a-thon" in May 1974.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned the meeting until Thursday at 7:30 p.m., to certify the results of today's election, and then to Dec. 26 at 7:30 p.m., to seat the newly-constituted council.

Brown Says Gas Rationing Is Only Fair Way

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. says rationing is the only fair method to meet the "urgent need" of conserving gasoline.

"There is an obvious, urgent need to decrease gasoline consumption but equitable rationing is the only fair way to do that," Brown said yesterday in a letter to the nation's energy czar William Simon.

The Democratic gubernatorial hopeful said low-income persons will be the only segment of society hurt if a large price hike in gasoline is allowed. He said most low-income persons use their cars for essential purposes, such as getting to work and buying groceries.

Roberts To Run Again For Council

Arthur N. Roberts, 42-year-old pharmacist, yesterday filed papers seeking his third term on the Rohnert Park City Council.

The seats held by Roberts and Mayor Armando F. Flores are both on the ballot in the March 5 election, and Flores also has filed for another term. No opposition has appeared yet for the incumbents.

Roberts first was elected to the city council in 1966 and has served as mayor and vice mayor.

In a campaign statement, Roberts said that since he is in business in his home community, he has a chance for daily contact with many residents. Roberts owns and operates the Rohnert Park Pharmacy.

Roberts said he is proud of the expanded recreational program in the city which has taken place during his year on the council as well as the expansion of the fire and police departments.

He also cited good working relations between the city government and the local school district and "the progressive yet carefully controlled growth" of Rohnert Park.

In addition to his service on the city council, Roberts has been active with the chamber of commerce, the boy scouts and the library committee as well as having been a guest speaker on the subjects of government and drugs in the local schools.

Driver Turns To A Chariot

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Frustrated after he could find no gas stations open, a man donned a Roman helmet and long flowing cape to drive a Ben-Hur style of chariot pulled by two horses down a crowded freeway yesterday.

"I decided to burn hay instead of gas," said the chariot owner, Nick Gazaxidas, owner of a downtown Greek restaurant.

"It really screwed up traffic," a California Highway Patrol spokesman said of the chariot, which Gazaxidas reported had been used in the movie "Ben Hur."

Gazaxidas was escorted off U.S. 50 at the nearest exit after authorities observed "the hazard he was causing" during morning rush hour traffic. He was not cited. "Three days ago I couldn't find any gas stations open and I thought I better do something. Then I started thinking of my ancestors," Galzaxidas said later.

Novato Planning Hopeful Sees 'Proper Balance' As The Issue

By FRANK FARRARA

Daniel E. Yavorsky, a 39-year-old civil engineer, believes that "the most essential concept to proper planning is balance."

"Balance among varied interests provides for an environment of social justice and opportunity for all of our citizens; economic improvement, diversification and progress; and pleasant livability through harmonious relationship with our natural environment," Yavorsky said.

"Growth or even the rate of growth is seldom the real problem of a community. The enemy is uncontrolled growth resulting from short range realism or worse, stagnation resulting from long range idealism. In either case the expense of the cure is borne mainly by the citizenry," he said.

The challenge for a planning commission is to achieve "an optimum balance among these varied interests by establishing a process of long range policy planning of our basic natural resources such as land and water."

Yavorsky, a project engineer for Bechtel Inc., division of hydro and community facilities, said he has 20 years of engineer and planning experience.

The duty of a planning commission "is to create a general framework for the utilization of land and water resources which allows for diversity and expension of economic and social opportunities while maintaining the balance needed to protect and enhance the natural environment," he said.

"This framework must be the result of a comprehensive and expanding base of technical knowledge concerning our developmental process, thereby permitting the fullest possible knowledge of the long range impact of 'now' decisions." Yavorsky said.

Yavorsky, who hold a bachelor's degree from the University of Illinois and a master's degree from the University of California, is a licensed civil and structural engineer. He, his wife, Maureen, and two children, live at 445 San Carlos Way.

More than 10 million gallons of sulfuric acid will be used to fill the 41 million automobile and truck batteries sold this year, says the U.S. Industrial Chemicals Co.

A HOLIDAY COVERING IN WASHINGTON

This oldtime cannon in Lafayette Park across from the White House (background) has its first winter covering. A surprise storm yesterday dumped up to six inches of snow in Washington as well as the entire Eastern Seaboard. The storm knocked out power, snarled highway traffic and public transportation for millions and so far has claimed at least 11 lives. New York City was the hardest hit with blackouts, heatless homes and empty schools.

'Bonanza' Watching Opened Up Career As TV Script Writer

By JAY SHARBUTT
U.P. Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Suzanne Clauser is a bright, articulate housewife from Ohio who did an amazing thing nine years ago: She sold the first television script she'd ever written to NBC's "Bonanza" series.

This is akin to bowling a 300 game, hitting the Irish Sweepstakes or drawing a royal straight flush in poker. TV producers rarely accept, let alone open, scripts sent by new, unknown writers.

It's not because much of the material is amateurish. It's because television producers live in mortal fear of plagarism suits. They usually deal only through agents and with writers whose work they know.

Mrs. Clauser, who now has an agent, got in the TV scrivening game when she read in a writers' magazine that a "Bonanza" producer was looking for scripts written by non-Hollywood types.

"As it turned out, it wasn't really true, but he was quoted as saying it," laughed Mrs. Clauser, who lives with her husband, Charles, a physical anthropologist employed by the Air Force, in Yellow Springs near Dayton.

She estimates she's sold 25 TV scripts since her first. The count includes her first made-for-TV movie, "Pioneer Woman," an Old West story ABC-TV is airing tomorrow at 5:30 p.m.

Mrs. Clauser, who started writing relatively late in life, said she first learned about TV scripting by watching "Bonanza" as a serious student of the craft, not as a casual viewer.

Her first effort aimed at that series was based on Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew." She was enrolled at the time in a mass communications course taught by veteran TV author Rod Serling at Antioch College in Yellow Springs.

Although he'd told his students he wouldn't be able to read their scripts, friends of Mrs. Clauser who knew him prevailed on him to read her work. He liked it and had his agent submit it, she said.

Alas, she added, "Bonanza" turned it down, partly because the script wasn't in correct TV form and partly because it seemed "too off-beat," even though they liked it.

She kept sending material and got a copy of an old "Bonanza" script to guide her in correct TV form and terms. Then she went back to the writing board to toil on her "Shrew" script.

"I decided that although 'Bonanza' didn't want it, I wasn't going to quit until I learned if there was an agent who'd represent me," she said. "And I used Rod's agent.

"I sent him the 'Taming of the Shrew' script as a sample of what I can do . . . and without telling me they submitted it again."

This time it sold, and she was in the TV writing business.

Despite her relative success, she still works at home in Yellow Springs. She concedes she probably would see more scripts if she lived in Hollywood, but says she has no itch to move there.

"First of all, I love where we are," she said. "And I am very much married, and my husband's work is his work.

"If I went out there as a writer and made it at all, he'd be an adjunct to me, and I wouldn't like that at all — for him or me."

Jump In State's Jobless Likely

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's unemployment rate could rise to 6.5 per cent next year due to the energy crisis, according to Gov. Ronald Reagan's finance chief.

State Finance Director Verne Orr yesterday told the Assembly Ways and Means Committee about 5.1 per cent of the state's work force is currently unemployed.

But Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, committee chairman, said estimates of the unemployment rate developed by a legislative "manpower" committee showed it would soar to 7.3 per cent next year.

Orr also said state revenues for the current fiscal year will be about $137.4 million lower than originally expected because of the energy shortage.

Nixon Inspires An Offer To Donate Papers

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — A businessman who said he was inspired by President Nixon's tax returns has offered his business papers and other items to the National Archives in return for a tax writeoff of $384,766.80.

Robert W. Coburn of Springfield said yesterday he had sent a letter to the Archives in Washington, D.C., offering material collected during the two years that he was a zone manager for a money management firm. He said he got the idea from Nixon's donation of vice presidential papers to the Archives.

He offered: "Notes of praise from my boss, toll receipts, notes of a kind nature from clients, unkind notes from clients, a briefcase of outdated prospects and my favorite suit that was deformed on the day when the Dow Jones averages closed under 800 and I was visiting a client when the news was announced."

Will Not Run

CHICAGO (UPI) — Roman Pucinski, who served seven terms in the U.S. House of Representatives before challenging Sen. Charles Percy in 1972, yesterday said he would try to get back in the lower house in 1974.

Producer Sues Over Changes

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Director Sam Peckinpah sued Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer yesterday for $1.5 million over changes he said the studio made in his film "Pat Garrett and Billy the Kid."

Peckinpah maintained the studio jeopardized his professional reputation by making "substantial changes" in his work, and then "falsely advertising" the movie seen in theaters as his work, using his name without his permission. The suit was filed in Superior Court.

Culprits Sentenced

MOSCOW (UPI) — The cost of dying was rising steadily at Volstryakoyo Cemetery until a Moscow court jailed the cause. The newspaper Vechernaya Moskva said the court meted out prison sentences up to nine years to a woman and three men workers at the cemetery for extracting bribes for favorable grave sites from bereaved families.

Voodoo Priest Is Granted A Working Visa

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — The U.S. consulate this weekend issued a working visa to a Haitian voodoo priest to practice his trade in the United States.

The voodoo class is to be conducted by Canadian educator Frank Ogden, a curriculum innovator who recently taught "psychic renovation" at the New England College of Art in Boston.

"We laughed at hypnotism and East Indian herbs and meditation. We ridiculed acupuncture. We are now entering a future more unknown, more unpredictable, than anything in the past. The western world ignores, at its peril, any authority on the unknown," Ogden said in explaining his studies.

Nixon Inspires An Offer To Donate Papers

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — A businessman who said he was inspired by President Nixon's tax returns has offered his business papers and other items to the National Archives in return for a tax writeoff of $384,766.80.

Robert W. Coburn of Springfield said yesterday he had sent a letter to the Archives in Washington, D.C., offering material collected during the two years that he was a zone manager for a money management firm. He said he got the idea from Nixon's donation of vice presidential papers to the Archives.

He offered: "Notes of praise from my boss, toll receipts, notes of a kind nature from clients, unkind notes from clients, a briefcase of outdated prospects and my favorite suit that was deformed on the day when the Dow Jones averages closed under 800 and I was visiting a client when the news was announced."

CHICAGO (UPI) — Roman Pucinski, who served seven terms in the U.S. House of Representatives before challenging Sen. Charles Percy in 1972, yesterday said he would not try to get back in the lower house in 1974.

Jump In State's Jobless Likely

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's unemployment rate could rise to 6.5 per cent next year due to the energy crisis, according to Gov. Ronald Reagan's finance chief.

State Finance Director Verne Orr yesterday told the Assembly Ways and Means Committee about 5.1 per cent of the state's work force is currently unemployed.

But Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, committee chairman, said estimates of the unemployment rate developed by a legislative "manpower" committee showed it would soar to 7.3 per cent next year.

Orr also said state revenues for the current fiscal year will be about $137.4 million lower than originally expected because of the energy shortage.

Producer Sues Over Changes

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Director Sam Peckinpah sued Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer yesterday for $1.5 million over changes he said the studio made in his film "Pat Garrett and Billy the Kid."

Peckinpah maintained the studio jeopardized his professional reputation by making "substantial changes" in his work, and then "falsely advertising" the movie seen in theaters as his work, using his name without his permission. The suit was filed in Superior Court.

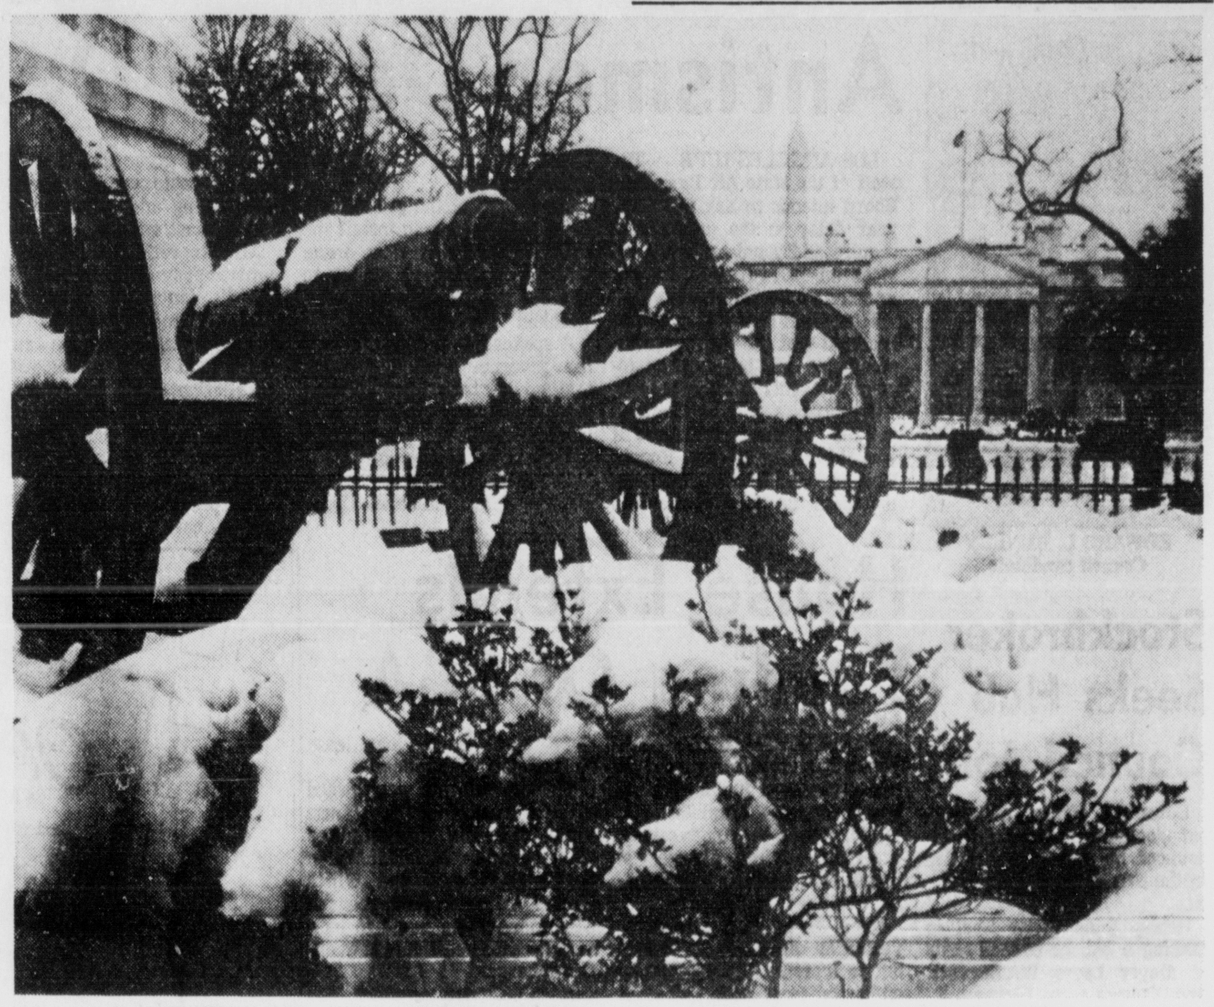
Culprits Sentenced

MOSCOW (UPI) — The cost of dying was rising steadily at Volstryakoyo Cemetery until a Moscow court jailed the cause. The newspaper Vechernaya Moskva said the court meted out prison sentences up to nine years to a woman and three men workers at the cemetery for extracting bribes for favorable grave sites from bereaved families.



A HOLIDAY COVERING IN WASHINGTON

This oldtime cannon in Lafayette Park across from the White House (background) has its first winter covering. A surprise storm yesterday dumped up to six inches of snow in Washington as well as the entire Eastern Seaboard. The storm knocked out power, snarled highway traffic and public transportation for millions and so far has claimed at least 11 lives. New York City was the hardest hit with blackouts, heatless homes and empty schools.

'Bonanza' Watching Opened Up Career As TV Script Writer

By JAY SHARBUTT
U.P. Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Suzanne Clauser is a bright, articulate housewife from Ohio who did an amazing thing nine years ago: She sold the first television script she'd ever written to NBC's "Bonanza" series.

This is akin to bowling a 300 game, hitting the Irish Sweepstakes or drawing a royal straight flush in poker. TV producers rarely accept, let alone open, scripts sent by new, unknown writers.

It's not because much of the material is amateurish. It's because television producers live in mortal fear of plagarism suits. They usually deal only through agents and with writers whose work they know.

Mrs. Clauser, who now has an agent, got in the TV scrivening game when she read in a writers' magazine that a "Bonanza" producer was looking for scripts written by non-Hollywood types.

"As it turned out, it wasn't really true, but he was quoted as saying it," laughed Mrs. Clauser, who lives with her husband, Charles, a physical anthropologist employed by the Air Force, in Yellow Springs near Dayton.

She estimates she's sold 25 TV scripts since her first. The count includes her first made-for-TV movie, "Pioneer Woman," an Old West story ABC-TV is airing tomorrow at 5:30 p.m.

Mrs. Clauser, who started writing relatively late in life, said she first learned about TV scripting by watching "Bonanza" as a serious student of the craft, not as a casual viewer.

Her first effort aimed at that series was based on Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew." She was enrolled at the time in a mass communications course taught by veteran TV author Rod Serling at Antioch College in Yellow Springs.

Although he'd told his students he wouldn't be able to read their scripts, friends of Mrs. Clauser who knew him prevailed on him to read her work. He liked it and had his agent submit it, she said.

Alas, she added, "Bonanza" turned it down, partly because the script wasn't in correct TV form and partly because it seemed "too off-beat," even though they liked it.

She kept sending material and got a copy of an old "Bonanza" script to guide her in correct TV form and terms. Then she went back to the writing board to toil on her "Shrew" script.

"I decided that although 'Bonanza' didn't want it, I wasn't going to quit until I learned if there was an agent who'd represent me," she said. "And I used Rod's agent.

"I sent him the 'Taming of the Shrew' script as a sample of what I can do . . . and without telling me they submitted it again."

This time it sold, and she was in the TV writing business.

Despite her relative success, she still works at home in Yellow Springs. She concedes she probably would see more scripts if she lived in Hollywood, but says she has no itch to move there.

"First of all, I love where we are," she said. "And I am very much married, and my husband's work is his work.

"If I went out there as a writer and made it at all, he'd be an adjunct to me, and I wouldn't like that at all — for him or me."

Voodoo Priest Is Granted A Working Visa

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — The U.S. consulate this weekend issued a working visa to a Haitian voodoo priest to practice his trade in the United States.

The voodoo class is to be conducted by Canadian educator Frank Ogden, a curriculum innovator who recently taught "psychic renovation" at the New England College of Art in Boston.

"We laughed at hypnotism and East Indian herbs and meditation. We ridiculed acupuncture. We are now entering a future more unknown, more unpredictable, than anything in the past. The western world ignores, at its peril, any authority on the unknown," Ogden said in explaining his studies.

Antismog Device Delay On Agenda

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The staff of the state Air Resources Board intends to ask for a one year delay in the program to require additional antismog devices on 1966-70 cars, the Los Angeles Times said today.

Times auto writer Dan Fisher reported that the staff's recommendation will be made at tomorrow's ARB meeting here.

Tomorrow's will be the first meeting of the board since it was shaken up by Gov. Ronald Reagan, who named four new members to the five-member board last week, virtually reconstituing it.

Supporters of the program to force auto owners to install the pollution control devices argue that the governor is trying to kill the program entirely, and "packed" the board to do it.

A spokesman for Reagan said the governor wanted a board that would "take a fresh look at the air pollution problems confronting California, particularly in light of the energy crisis."

The devices will cause cars to get lower gas mileage. Opponents also argue that they will damage auto engines through overheating and burning vales and exhaust systems.

After more than two years of controversy and delay, the board's plan was to require that all 1966-70 model cars have the devices installed between Jan. 1 and Oct. 31 in the coming year. Installation would be required on all cars when sold, and others would fall under the law each month, according to license plate numbers.

The program affects about 4 million cars. One of six approved devices would have to be bought and installed, at a state limited price of $35. Cars sold in California in these years had antismog devices attached, but those devices did not cut down on oxides and nitrogen, as devices required since 1970 do.

Mandatory installation of the devices is expected to eliminate 100 tons of air pollutants a day. The price would be an additional 50 million gallons of gasoline used per year, an increase of about one per cent in the state's consumption.

The Times said that the board with four of its five members new to the complex problem, could be expected to go along with the recommendation of its staff.

The recommendation will be to delay for a year the mandatory installation on cars retained by their present owners. Autos changing hands would still need the devices to accomplish the title switch, but until next April, that provision would apply only in the Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego areas, with the rest of the state exempt.

Stockbroker Seeks Hub Council Job

Henley joins Pieter Toal in making a bid for council seats of Mayor Lewis W. Stewart, and Councilmen Warren R. Perry and Woodrow V. Capurro.

Both Stewart and Perry have announced they will not seek reelection.

Henley, owner of Home and Land Co. of San Rafael, said he is disillusioned with the city's tax rate and pledged to lower city taxes.

He said he supports "the orderly development of the community to raise the tax base and lower taxes."

He said he supports "land use controls" to regulate horses in the city, but opposes an outright horse control ordinance, and said he supports second units on single-family lots in certain cases "to maintain a broad spectrum of incomes in San Anselmo."

He said he hugs a middle line between developers and environmentalists and opposes widening of Sir Francis Drake or Center Boulevards.

He pledged to make public all campaign contributions and expenses, and said he will donate his council salary to a local charity.

San Anselmo councilmen make $25 per meeting for a maximum of $50 per month.

"I want to get involved," said Henley, a member of the city's citizens advisory committee on the general plan.

He attended Clemson University and the College of Marin. He is a 10-year resident of Marin, and a two-year resident of San Anselmo.

Insanity Plea In Slaying Of Grandmother

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 27-year-old mental patient has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to the stabbing death of his 82-year-old grandmother at her Russian Hill mansion.

Robert Pasqualetti, onetime Kentfield resident, entered the plea yesterday before Superior Court Judge Walter Calcagno. He is accused of the murder of Stella Pasqualetti Nov. 12.

Pasqualetti has been a psychiatric patient at St. Mary's Hospital here. Police said they arrested him after finding blood-stained gloves and a knife at the murder scene.

The judge asked for reports from three court-appointed psychiatrists by Dec. 28. He set Jan. 23 for a pretrial hearing and Jan. 18 for the trial.

House Extends Funding Of SBA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has voted to provide six more months of funding for the Small Business Administration (SBA) during a congressional investigation into charges of illegal loan making and criminal activity in the agency.

By a 339-21 vote, the House yesterday amended a Senate bill to increase the SBA's loan authority from $4.3 billion to $4.875 billion. The Senate originally sought $2.3 billion over a two-year period, but allegations of wrongdoing in a number of SBA offices around the country forced a rollback.

Included in the House version of the bill is an amendment to make it a crime for any federal employe, and specifically those in the White House, to apply improper political pressure on the SBA to secure a loan, lease or financial transaction.

The amendment was passed after witnesses told the House Small Business subcommittee of a number of instances in which they said the White House brought pressure for SBA loans to be made to individuals with questionable qualifications.

If the Senate approves the House bill, legislative action on the SBA fund extension will be completed. If the Senate fails to agree, the legislation would be forced into a conference committee.

SBA officials have testified that action is needed on the funding proposal before Congress recesses for Christmas or several SBA loan programs will run out of money by Jan. 1.

Junked Car Removal Program Going Well

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A state program to rid the countryside of junked cars is "moving along without problems" with 50 per cent of California's counties joining 147 cities in the cleanup effort, it was reported today.

Lt. Bob Mitchell, coordinator of the highway patrol's abandoned vehicle abatement program, said that 38 cities said they did not wish to join the state effort, but in most cases they had their own abatement program.

"Overall we are moving along with no problems and full cooperation," Mitchell said in an interview.

The abatement program went into effect last July 1. The aim of the effort is to rid the state of some 240,000 derelict vehicles and the 80,000 added each year.

Mitchell said in January the program will begin removing 120,000 abandoned vehicles from public and private land each year. He said in five years the 240,000 vehicles will be scrapped plus the additional ones added each year.

Mitchell said among the 38 cities not wishing to join in the effort were San Jose, Berkeley, San Bernardino and "we are still negotiating with Los Angeles."

The project is being financed by a $14 million fund created by a one-time addition of $1 to the 1973 automobile registration fee.

So far, nearly 30,000 of the derelicts have been contracted under the program with county officials and another 28,000 through cities.

If local governments do not wish to contract with the patrol, the state agency will contract with private operators to remove the junked cars and scrap them.

With the program nearing its first six months of existence, Mitchell said 29 counties will join the state program for removal of the vehicles starting Jan. 1, with the remaining 29 handling their own abatement.

Mitchell said 147 cities have entered into the program and an additional 190 have indicated they want to join.

Mitchell urged citizens to call the highway patrol and report any cases of abandoned vehicles. He said cars can be removed after 10 days of receiving such a report.

Those cities joining the program, according to Mitchell, range from Sacramento to San Diego.

If the Senate approves the House bill, legislative action on the SBA fund extension will be completed. If the Senate fails to agree, the legislation would be forced into a conference committee.

SBA officials have testified that action is needed on the funding proposal before Congress recesses for Christmas or several SBA loan programs will run out of money by Jan. 1.

Junked Car Removal Program Going Well

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A state program to rid the countryside of junked cars is "moving along without problems" with 50 per cent of California's counties joining 147 cities in the cleanup effort, it was reported today.

Lt. Bob Mitchell, coordinator of the highway patrol's abandoned vehicle abatement program, said that 38 cities said they did not wish to join the state effort, but in most cases they had their own abatement program.

"Overall we are moving along with no problems and full cooperation," Mitchell said in an interview.

The abatement program went into effect last July 1. The aim of the effort is to rid the state of some 240,000 derelict vehicles and the 80,000 added each year.

Mitchell said in January the program will begin removing 120,000 abandoned vehicles from public and private land each year. He said in five years the 240,000 vehicles will be scrapped plus the additional ones added each year.

Mitchell said among the 38 cities not wishing to join in the effort were San Jose, Berkeley, San Bernardino and "we are still negotiating with Los Angeles."

The project is being financed by a $14 million fund created by a one-time addition of $1 to the 1973 automobile registration fee.

So far, nearly 30,000 of the derelicts have been contracted under the program with county officials and another 28,000 through cities.

If local governments do not wish to contract with the patrol, the state agency will contract with private operators to remove the junked cars and scrap them.

With the program nearing its first six months of existence, Mitchell said 29 counties will join the state program for removal of the vehicles starting Jan. 1, with the remaining 29 handling their own abatement.

Mitchell said 147 cities have entered into the program and an additional 190 have indicated they want to join.

Mitchell urged citizens to call the highway patrol and report any cases of abandoned vehicles. He said cars can be removed after 10 days of receiving such a report.

Those cities joining the program, according to Mitchell, range from Sacramento to San Diego.

Sportsmen Angered By Strict Rules On Tomales Bay

Sportsmen angered by a briefly imposed hunting ban in the southern end of Tomales Bay are circulating petitions aimed at loosening strict rules against shooting, boating and swimming applied to 482 acres of tidelands bought last year by the State Wildlife Conservation Board.

The tidal flats and marshes, designated an "ecological reserve" by the State Fish and Game Commission at an October meeting, are the major part of 516 acres purchased from Waldo Giacomini, Point Reyes dairyman, after two years of controversy between the rancher and local conservation organizations.

The rancher sought in 1971 to dyke off 132 acres for use as pasture, but conservationists crowded into meetings of the Marin County planning commission and board of supervisors to defend the values of marshland plants and wildlife. The stalemate ended in November, 1972 when the conservation board paid $284,875 for the property.

"There are not many places now where the guy who likes to go out and do scratch hunting can do it," complained John D. Burroughs, Point Reyes attorney who presented some 600 signatures of protest to the Fish and Game Commission at its Dec. 7 meeting.

Commissioners agreed to lift the hunting ban temporarily, although other restrictions remain, and will consider all uses of the lands at a public hearing after the fish and game department has drawn up a management plan for the area, according to Leslie F. Edgerton, commission secretary.

Date of the hearing was uncertain, but Edgerton said he hoped it would be at the board's April meeting in Sacramento.

Support for the hunting ban was voiced by John Smail, director of the Point Reyes Bird Observatory, although he said strictures against other public uses such as fishing or swimming should be lifted.

Smail said his organization's position "is not based on any endangered species that someone may scrape up, but on the general value of the land itself, for all species." Throughout the acquisition process, he declared, the land's future status as an ecological reserve was clearly stated.

"The hunters did nothing at all to make this acquisition possible," Smail said. "Now, at the eleventh hour, they are opposing the hunting ban. What right have they to object?"

Officers of the Marin Conservation League and the Environmental Action Committee of West Marin said their organizations have taken no position on the issue to date.

Meanwhile, local hunters have prepared a new batch of petitions, to be circulated in sporting stores in Marin and Sonoma counties, asking the Fish and Game Commission to declare all of Tomales Bay open as a recreation area for hunting, fishing, boating and swimming.

The sportsmen will meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the West Marin School in Point Reyes Station to discuss organization plans and elect officers.

O. P. "Pat" Arndt of Point Reyes Station, a spokesman for the group, protested that acquisition of public lands such as Point Reyes National Seashore and the upcoming Golden Gate National Recreation Area was whittling away at too many of the areas formerly open to hunters.

"Pretty soon we will have the whole of Marin County in the park, and people who have hunted all their lives will have no place to go," said Arndt.

The Quiet Exit Of A Veteran

John Brodie, 49er quarterback who brought so much excitement to Bay Area football fans for 17 years, made his retirement from the game official last Saturday. Defensive tackle Charlie Krueger who has been doing his job very quietly for almost as long, 15 years, might have done the same thing. But Charlie isn't saying.

CHARLIE KRUEGER

After the 49ers ended their season last Saturday with that dismal 37-14 showing against the Pittsburgh Steelers, the swarm of reporters were five deep around the dressing stall of Brodie. It would be the last time Brodie would be available for a post game interview. His playing days were over.

On the other side of the room there sat old Charlie, grey-haired, looking every bit like the 36-year-old man he is. A couple of reporters were asking him that same question: would this be the last year for the "old man"?

He didn't say. He said a lot of things, but he didn't say he was through. Listening to him talk about the things he wanted to do when his playing days are over made his point clear enough. But he said there would be a proper time to make any such announcement. "In February or March," said Charlie. Is he undecided? Not on your life. He said he has already made up his mind but the time is not ripe for him to say. His statements were being read only one way. He did everything but say it.

Personally, I think Charlie was trying to keep from taking any of the ink away from Brodie. That's the way Krueger has been during his playing career with the 49ers. He prefers to be in the shadows, to let the quarterback and halfbacks and pass receivers get the glory. But on Sunday afternoon, there was Charlie, getting ready to go into the pit, the small plot of ground which linemen on both sides fight over.

There sat old Charlie. He was talking about what he was going to do next. Skiing came up, "because my wife is a good skier." He was talking about Kris, the daughter of Kurt Adler, director of the San Francisco Opera. "My wife is a good sports fan. She always watches Monday night football. She loves to ski. And maybe I'll do some hunting, some fishing," he said. "I would like to play tennis. I've never played, but tennis is a fascinating game. I love to fish, I love the mountains."

He paused only long enough to take a breath, and said, "there were some things good and some things bad, some things funny and some things sad," about football. He was eloquent, and he was sad. He tried to prolong the time in the dressing room. While most of the players had already showered, dressed and were on their way out, old Charlie was still sitting on a stool in front of his stall. He was in no hurry to leave. Would it be his last time going through the after-game ritual? Charlie knew, but he wasn't saying.

He wants to go out quietly, soft footsteps rustling through the leaves. That's how Charlie is.

Marin Ranked Third

The first junior college basketball rankings of this season show the same thing that last year's final rankings did — College of Marin near the top.

The Tars, with a perfect 9-0 record, stand third in ratings announced today by the Junior College Athletic Bureau of San Mateo, headed by Fred Baer.

Tied for first are Bakersfield (11-0) and Santa Barbara (10-0). The only other undefeated large school in the state is Chabot of Hayward (10-0), ranked 10th.

Defending state champion Compton has lost three of 10 games and is ranked 13th. Following Marin in the top ten are Cerritos of Norwalk (9-1), City College of San Francisco (8-1), Sacramento City (6-1), College of San Mateo (8-1), De Anza of Cupertino (8-1), San Diego Mesa (9-1) an Chabot.

Marin is the only team to defeat sixth-ranked Sacramento City, and also holds victories over two teams tied for 20th — Cosunmes River of Sacramento and Laney of Oakland.

Merced (8-2) heads the small division rankings.

Warriors Vs. Celts Tonight

OAKLAND (AP) — For the third time this season, the Golden State Warriors have lost two games in a row — and to avoid their first three-game losing string, they must beat the Boston Celtics tonight in the Oakland Coliseum Arena, 8 o'clock.

Coach Al Attles made the Warriors work three hours Sunday instead of giving them a day off because: "If we can't play any better than we did Saturday, we don't deserve a day off."

The Warriors blew a small lead in losing to the Capitals 106-93 Saturday. They also blew a 17-point edge in losing to Portland Friday.

But the troubled Los Angeles Lakers haven't been able to take advantage of the Warriors who still maintain a one-game lead in the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division.

"We didn't play with confidence the last two games," said Attles. "If we want to stay in first place, then we should go out and stay there — not let other teams dictate where we go."

Center Nate Thurmond conceded, "We must be slowing down. Stealing and running is our game, and if we start standing around too much, we're in trouble."

Cazzie Russell, who had a disc removed a year ago, had back muscle spasms which caused him to miss part of Saturday's game and Sunday's practice. He is a doubtful starter against the Celtics.

AN UPSET — Oakland defensive back Nemiah Wilson (48) went flipping through the air Sunday, but he accomplished his mission — breaking up a pass to Denver's Bill Van Heusen from quarterback Steve Ramsey in the fourth quarter. The host Raiders won, 21-17.

Raiders Picked By Four Over Steelers In Playoffs

OAKLAND (UPI) — Even though Oakland has lost three straight times to the Pittsburgh Steelers, the oddsmakers see the Raiders as a four-point favorite for Saturday's playoff battle.

The Raiders lost last year's opener at Pittsburgh 34-28 despite three Daryle Lamonica touchdown passes and then dropped last year's playoff battle at Pittsburgh, 13-7, when the Steelers scored on a deflected pass with five seconds to go in the season's most controversial play.

Pittsburgh took Oakland 17-9 five weeks ago on a chewed up Coliseum turf in a sluggish contest that saw Pittsburgh's Terry Hanratty going all the way for injured starting quarterback Terry Bradshaw while Raider signal-caller Kenny Stabler had to give way to Lamonica after an injury.

"I don't know if we've ever lost four in a row to any team," offensive tackle Art Thoms noted moments after the Raiders had defeated Denver for the AFC West championship Sunday. "But we're not going to start now."

Bradshaw and Stabler are both back in top form now although now it's Hanratty who is sidelined for the Steelers with rib and wrist injuries.

"Any time a team loses their number one quarterback, it's got to hurt and Pittsburgh will be a stronger offensive team this time," Raiders Coach John Madden noted.

He was asked what the Raiders might have learned from Pittsburgh's 37-14 win over the 49ers Saturday. "Not much," he replied. "We didn't need the 49er game to tell us about the Steelers. We played them ourselves, remember?"

Stabler injured his knee in the first game when he was hit by the front four of Dwight White, L.C. Greenwood, Tom Keating and Joe Greene—at the same time.

"We have a lot to pay them back for," said Stabler. "If we play like we did against KC (two weeks ago), we will."

Bryant Says Giants Reneging On Salary

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ron Bryant, the only National League pitcher to win 20 games last season, says the San Francisco Giants are reneging on a big raise already promised to him.

"I think I'm being screwed," said Bryant, who was 24-12 for the third-place Giants last year. He claims his new 1974 contract is more than $20,000 below a figure orally agreed to with the Giants in three earlier meetings.

Declining to say whom he discussed the contract with, Bryant said: "I talked to him three different times before the contract was delivered and he guaranteed me a certain figure. When the contract got here, the figure was changed.

"The only thing I'm thinking is that they don't want to get tied up with another high-salaried ball player," he said. "Maybe I'm trade material now."

Since the end of the season, the Giants have traded Juan Marichal and Willie McCovey, both of whom earned more than $100,000 annually. In 1972, the Giants got rid of another $100,000 player, Willie Mays. Bryant said the Giants offered him $47,500 for next year, but he wants between $60,000 and $70,000.

"What's a 24-game winner worth?" he asked. "What's a pitcher worth who's voted by the players as the best in the league?"

Bryant started 39 games last season, worked 270 innings and had a 3.53 earned run average.

Kessell Doubtful As Seals Clash With Montreal

MONTREAL (AP) — Center Rick Kessell was a doubtful starter for the California Golden Seals in their National Hockey League game tonight against the Montreal Canadiens because of torn rib cartilage.

Kessell was hurt in the Seals 5-3 loss at Boston Sunday night — a game California Coach Fred Glover said "we played well enough to win.

"We didn't give up a soft goal all night," Glover added.

LIBERTY BOWL

Coach Tooting Horn For His Conference

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Pardon Lou Holtz, the colorful North Carolina State football coach, if he toots the horn for the Atlantic Coach Conference a bit.

"I don't want to take anything away from Kansas," Holtz said after State's convincing 31-18 Liberty Bowl victory last night. "But I think we showed some folks that we do play good football in our conference.

"We were tired of hearing things that belittled the Atlantic Coast Conference."

Kansas' All-America quarterback David Jaynes and a few thousand other Big Eight rooters can say "Amen" to that.

The underdog Wolfpack scored early and late before 50,011 frozen fans (32 degrees on the banks of the Mississippi River) and a national television audience while keeping the long bomb away from Jaynes on defense.

Fullback Stan Fritts scored two touchdowns and running back Charley Young another for North Carolina State. Even freshman defensive tackle Jim Henderson got into the scoring when he intercepted a Jaynes'

Stewart Named No. 1 Sportsman

The wee Scot, a three-time world champ, was named Sports Illustrated's 1973 sportsman of the year for bringing to his sport "a combination of qualities unique in its history; a marvelous physical talent, the intelligence and perspective to be an eminent spokesman for auto racing and the discipline to retire at the peak of his career."

Jackie is the fourth foreign sports figure to win the SI award. Roger Bannister of Britain won the inaugural honor in 1954 after becoming the first runner to break the four-minute barrier. Ingemar Johansson, the former world heavyweight champion from Sweden, won in 1959 and Boston Bruin hockey star Bobby Orr of Canada was named winner in 1970.

"This is very significant to me," Stewart said. "Being a non-American and competing in a sport that is not covered widely in the U.S. makes this award more Christmassy."

Stewart, winner of a record 27 Grand Prix races, was previously named UPI's European sportsman of the year, Britain's man of the year, the British Sports Writers Association sportsman of the year, the London Daily Express' sportsman of the year and the British Broadcasting Corporation's sports view personality (Muhammad Ali won the BBC overseas personality award).

Jackie gave up a million dollar driving career to spend more time with his family and devote time to securing additional safety measures in auto racing. He spent 10 years as a professional driver and competed in 99 Grand Prix races. The U.S. GP at Watkins Glen, N.Y., last October was to be his last event, but Stewart withdrew after Tyrrell teammate Francois Cevert of France was killed in a qualifying run.

"Cevert was a potential world champion," Stewart says. "Now that he's gone, I would think that Ronnie Peterson, Emerson Fittipaldi and Jacky Ickx have the best chances to win the title next year."

Stewart fervently hopes auto racing won't be shortchanged in the current energy crisis. He calls it the second top spectator sport in the world and feels it's important that racing not be jeopardized more than any other sport since it's also an industry supporting thousands of people who build cars and make tires.

He would rather see the mileage reduced in races like Indianapolis rather than cancel events because of a fuel shortage.

Tetons West Wins On Heaney's Basket

Bob Heaney scored 26 points, including the game-winning shot at the buzzer, as Tetons West Mountain Shop defeated Ghilotti Brothers, 59-57, in a San Rafael Recreation Department adult basketball league game last night at San Rafael High.

"Any time a team loses their number one quarterback, it's got to hurt and Pittsburgh will be a stronger offensive team this time," Raiders Coach John Madden noted.

He was asked what the Raiders might have learned from Pittsburgh's 37-14 win over the 49ers Saturday. "Not much," he replied. "We didn't need the 49er game to tell us about the Steelers. We played them ourselves, remember?"

Stabler injured his knee in the first game when he was hit by the front four of Dwight White, L.C. Greenwood, Tom Keating and Joe Greene—at the same time.

"We have a lot to pay them back for," said Stabler. "If we play like we did against KC (two weeks ago), we will."

Bryant Says Giants Reneging On Salary

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ron Bryant, the only National League pitcher to win 20 games last season, says the San Francisco Giants are reneging on a big raise already promised to him.

"I think I'm being screwed," said Bryant, who was 24-12 for the third-place Giants last year. He claims his new 1974 contract is more than $20,000 below a figure orally agreed to with the Giants in three earlier meetings.

Declining to say whom he discussed the contract with, Bryant said: "I talked to him three different times before the contract was delivered and he guaranteed me a certain figure. When the contract got here, the figure was changed.

"The only thing I'm thinking is that they don't want to get tied up with another high-salaried ball player," he said. "Maybe I'm trade material now."

Since the end of the season, the Giants have traded Juan Marichal and Willie McCovey, both of whom earned more than $100,000 annually. In 1972, the Giants got rid of another $100,000 player, Willie Mays. Bryant said the Giants offered him $47,500 for next year, but he wants between $60,000 and $70,000.

"What's a 24-game winner worth?" he asked. "What's a pitcher worth who's voted by the players as the best in the league?"

Bryant started 39 games last season, worked 270 innings and had a 3.53 earned run average.

Kessell Doubtful As Seals Clash With Montreal

MONTREAL (AP) — Center Rick Kessell was a doubtful starter for the California Golden Seals in their National Hockey League game tonight against the Montreal Canadiens because of torn rib cartilage.

Kessell was hurt in the Seals 5-3 loss at Boston Sunday night — a game California Coach Fred Glover said "we played well enough to win.

"We didn't give up a soft goal all night," Glover added.

LIBERTY BOWL

Coach Tooting Horn For His Conference

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Pardon Lou Holtz, the colorful North Carolina State football coach, if he toots the horn for the Atlantic Coach Conference a bit.

"I don't want to take anything away from Kansas," Holtz said after State's convincing 31-18 Liberty Bowl victory last night. "But I think we showed some folks that we do play good football in our conference.

"We were tired of hearing things that belittled the Atlantic Coast Conference."

Kansas' All-America quarterback David Jaynes and a few thousand other Big Eight rooters can say "Amen" to that.

The underdog Wolfpack scored early and late before 50,011 frozen fans (32 degrees on the banks of the Mississippi River) and a national television audience while keeping the long bomb away from Jaynes on defense.

Fullback Stan Fritts scored two touchdowns and running back Charley Young another for North Carolina State. Even freshman defensive tackle Jim Henderson got into the scoring when he intercepted a Jaynes'

Stewart Named No. 1 Sportsman

The wee Scot, a three-time world champ, was named Sports Illustrated's 1973 sportsman of the year for bringing to his sport "a combination of qualities unique in its history; a marvelous physical talent, the intelligence and perspective to be an eminent spokesman for auto racing and the discipline to retire at the peak of his career."

Jackie is the fourth foreign sports figure to win the SI award. Roger Bannister of Britain won the inaugural honor in 1954 after becoming the first runner to break the four-minute barrier. Ingemar Johansson, the former world heavyweight champion from Sweden, won in 1959 and Boston Bruin hockey star Bobby Orr of Canada was named winner in 1970.

"This is very significant to me," Stewart said. "Being a non-American and competing in a sport that is not covered widely in the U.S. makes this award more Christmassy."

Stewart, winner of a record 27 Grand Prix races, was previously named UPI's European sportsman of the year, Britain's man of the year, the British Sports Writers Association sportsman of the year, the London Daily Express' sportsman of the year and the British Broadcasting Corporation's sports view personality (Muhammad Ali won the BBC overseas personality award).

Jackie gave up a million dollar driving career to spend more time with his family and devote time to securing additional safety measures in auto racing. He spent 10 years as a professional driver and competed in 99 Grand Prix races. The U.S. GP at Watkins Glen, N.Y., last October was to be his last event, but Stewart withdrew after Tyrrell teammate Francois Cevert of France was killed in a qualifying run.

"Cevert was a potential world champion," Stewart says. "Now that he's gone, I would think that Ronnie Peterson, Emerson Fittipaldi and Jacky Ickx have the best chances to win the title next year."

Stewart fervently hopes auto racing won't be shortchanged in the current energy crisis. He calls it the second top spectator sport in the world and feels it's important that racing not be jeopardized more than any other sport since it's also an industry supporting thousands of people who build cars and make tires.

He would rather see the mileage reduced in races like Indianapolis rather than cancel events because of a fuel shortage.

Tetons West Wins On Heaney's Basket

Bob Heaney scored 26 points, including the game-winning shot at the buzzer, as Tetons West Mountain Shop defeated Ghilotti Brothers, 59-57, in a San Rafael Recreation Department adult basketball league game last night at San Rafael High.

AFTER EARLIER SUCCESSES

Marty Back In Tennis

By RON LENT

In the materialistic world of sports, success is universally judged by victories and championships. Tiburon tennis star Margaret (Marty) Marquette has had both but is presently pursuing a new career — real estate.

Teaming with Sausalito's Rosemary Casals, the 26-year-old brunette took the 1964 Pacific Southwest Doubles championship in Los Angeles. The 5-foot-7, 125-pound agent for Red Carpet Realty in Kentfield was the youngest girl (14) to win the Southern California Junior Girls Singles crown in the 18 and under category, circa 1962.

Thus, she has tasted the sweet fruits of victory, but her appetite is apparently satiated. "I haven't been playing on a competitive, serious level since I was 17. I play now in low-key mixed doubles. It would take about a year of serious training and playing before I felt I would be ready. By that time I would be too old," Marty laughed.

She has both qualities available in her business vocation and tennis avocation. The Los Angeles native, who moved to Marin eight years ago, finds another advantage in real estate. "It gives me time for weekend tennis."

Since forming a doubles team with College of Marin tennis coach Bill (Buz) Thiercoff in April, they have won two tournaments in a row in May — the Ross Valley Marin County Tennis Tournament and the Santa Rosa Rose Festival.

Though aligned with Thiercoff for just a short time, the pair is ranked fourth in Mixed "B" Doubles by the Northern California Tennis Association.

Though Marty plays down her own skills, others have encouraged her to try the pro circuit. Among her boosters are such stars as Billie Jean King, Wendy Overton and Rosie. "They've taken the pettiness out of women's tennis. They want everybody to benefit from their success. They feel there is room for every top-flight girl."

But Marty admits that "I've chosen another root (real estate)." However, her tennis roots run deep. Marty began playing at age five and entered her first tournament at eight. She learned the rudiments from England's Elizabeth Ryan, 19-time Wimbledon doubles and mixed doubles champion. Marty later switched to George Toley, University of Southern California coach, before studying for one year at UCLA.

Before her brief UCLA stint, Marty had a handsome record of accomplishments: ranked first in doubles in 11s, 13s and 16s in southern California, second in 18s in southern California, 10th in nation in 18s at age 14, and national hardcourt 16 and under doubles champion in 1963 with Overton.

Like her friends on the pro circuit, Marty has strong opinions about tennis. A sample: "I wasn't surprised Margaret (Court of Australia) lost to Bobby Riggs. She doesn't have the right temperament in big matches. The tougher the competition, the better Billie Jean plays. The same can be said about Rosie.

"Casals can beat everyone on the tour but hasn't put it all together. She's lost to some people she should have beaten. To get to the top, you've got to put together a drive. Rosie may still get to be number one someday. When she's in town, she gives me tickets to the matches."

It is likely that Marquette would not need tickets to get in if she decided to come back; but Marty has no such plans for now as she begins her career in real estate.

Cedeno Exercises In Yard

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI) — Cesar Cedeno, resting in a prison cell here while waiting for a judge to decide whether he will face trial for "voluntary manslaughter" (second degree murder), decided to relax yesterday by throwing some balls and jogging in the prison yard.

Prison sources said Cedeno, 22, the Houston Astros all-star centerfielder, asked to be allowed to run in the prison yard and throw some balls to keep his arm in shape.

Cedeno has been in jail for a week since he was charged in the fatal shooting last Tuesday of a 19-year old girl in their Santo Domingo motel room.

Judge Socrates Diaz Curiel interrogated Cedeno and several witnesses last week and yesterday and is expected to reach a verdict before Friday, when the courts will recess for the Christmas season until Jan. 7. The decision could come as early as today.

Diaz Curiel must decide whether there is merit for the charge, or whether it should be reduced to "involuntary manslaughter." The original count is not a bailable offense. The latter is.

Regardless of the judge's findings, Cedeno can't leave the country until and unless there is a verdict of not guilty. And, because of the slow movement of Dominican justice, three months could elapse between the judge's decision and this possibility, according to expert lawyers of Santo Domingo. This almost certainly would mean Cedeno would miss at least 1974 spring training and possibly the start of the major league season as well.

Police have said that the .38-caliber pistol went off when Cedeno tried to get it away from the girl, who was examining it; and that a parafin test on Cedeno proved "negative" and one on the girl's body proved "positive." This would indicate that he had not fired a weapon and that she had.

Police also reported that the weapon had been duly registered by Cedeno, but this has been challenged by the district attorney on the request of an attorney representing the three-year-old daughter of Miss de la Cruz. The attorney has also said he plans a damage suit on behalf of the child.

All In The Family: Giants Hire Ex-Player Robustelli

Owner Wellington Mara surrendered some of his control over the daily operation of the Giants yesterday but refused to break his tradition of hiring ex-Giant athletes by signing former all-pro defensive end Andy Robustelli as Director of Operations.

This new position, which is akin to general manager, delegates Robustelli the authority to oversee all field operations of the Giants, including coaching, scouting, signing of players, trades and the pre-season camp.

Most of that responsibility previously was shouldered by Mara, whose total control of the team was believed to be partially to blame for its collapse over the last 10 years.

The Giants finished this season with one of its worst records in history (2-11-1), and when Coach Alex Webster resigned last week it was believed that Mara would make a move toward bettering the club by disassociating himself from the day-to-day operation.

Many expected Mara to go outside the organization and pick a man to run the show who had never had any previous association with the Giants. However, the 47-year-old Robustellis is as Giant-oriented as they come. He played with them for seven seasons, making all-pro six times, and also served as a defensive player-coach during his last four seasons.

Just how much power Robustelli will have remains to be seen. Mara claims Robustelli will have total authority in the running of things, but at the same time he makes it clear that, as president of the club, he will always have the final say.

"I don't really look at this as a break at all from the team," said Mara, who has been running the Giants since his brother, Jack, died in the mid-1960's. "It's like going back to the good ol' days when Jack was in charge. I made a lot of decisions in those days, but they were always subject to big brother's okay. I look at this as my taking over Jack's job and Andy getting mine."

Robustelli, who said he would have refused the head coachig job if it had been offered to him, said he only took this job with the understanding he would get to make the decisions.

"I wouldn't be here if I didn't have full authority," said Robustelli. "I'm in charge instead of Wellington, but like in any business, I will have to account to the president."

"My first job will be select a new coach, and I will get to that as quickly as possible," he said. "I'm not interested in building for the future. I'm looking for immediate success. My philosophy differs from most of the coaches I've played for in that I think defense is the name of the game. Still we've got to look for that guy with the golden arm because without him the best defense in the world isn't going to win for you."

Las Vegas Whips 3rd Pacific-8 Foe

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

UCLA, USC and Long Beach State are ranked among the nation's top 13 basketball teams, but how about making room for Nevada-Las Vegas?

The Rebels played without star forward Bob Florence and 6-10 center Lewis Brown, both out with sprained ankles, yet beat their second Pacific-8 team in three games last night.

They took the 58-47 win over Washington State with Jimmie Baker leading the way with 16 points. The Rebels, with freshmen dotting their lineup, lost their opener but have won five straight since then. Las Vegas belted Oregon State 74-59 Saturday in a powerful win.

In other action on a surprisingly busy Monday, Stanford handed St. Mary's its first loss with a 69-63 decision at Moraga as Dave Frost hit 17 points to lead a Cardinal team which hit 61.3 per cent of its shots. Both teams emerged with 3-1 records.

Up-and-down Cal was up last night after losing to lowly Loyola last Saturday. The Bears beat tough Seattle 66-63 as Carl Meier and Rickie Hawthorne combined for 34 of the winners' points.

San Jose State, which keeps winning road games, ran its record to a surprising 6-1 with an 80-73 win at far-off North Dakota State. Russ Palmer led the Spartans with 19.

But Hayward State, which keeps losing on its road swing, flopped at DePaul 94-63. Willis Ward of the losers led all scorers with 21 points.

Portland pulled a major upset with an 88-84 win at Santa Clara. Quentin Braxton had 27 for the Pilots while Lester Robinson, Remel Diggs and Glenn Hubbard combined for 64 of the losers' points.

Arizona State pulled the night's biggest upset as it handed 15th ranked Cincinnati its first loss in an 88-78 decision. In ratings released today, UCLA was ranked first, USC 10th and Long Beach State 13th. Arizona was the 19th ranked team.

Bonds Fined $360; Faces Another One

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — San Francisco Giants outfielder Bobby Bonds pleaded no contest to a drunken driving charge yesterday and was fined $360.

The fine was imposed as a result of a minor traffic accident Aug. 13 in which Bonds' car rammed the rear of another auto.

Bonds, 27, will appear in court in nearby San Mateo tomorrow to answer charges of interfering with police in an unrelated incident.

Bonds was arrested with his brother, Robert, 32, after a brief auto chase on Nov. 29. His brother was at the wheel of the car which was stopped for speeding.

The Giants star, third in this year's National League Most Valuable Player balloting, told reporters he had never been in trouble before but now "it just won't stop."

"It hasn't just involved me. My mother was sick, then my dad got sick, my sister was arrested on a murder charge and there was nothing to it (the charge was dismissed), my brother was in trouble, and now this brother, who didn't have any problem before, has this," he said.

An Empty Home

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Pioneer Baseball League, a rookie circuit with major league affiliations, has its headquarters here even though none of its teams plays in this capital city. The teams are the Idaho Falls Angels, Great Falls Giants, Billings Mustangs and Ogden Dodgers.

Moffat Is Ranked Among The Top 50

Only one Marinite is ranked in the top 50 players in men's singles in Northern California, but the moving van and the rules book prevented two others from joining him.

Andy Moffat of Mill Valley is 45th, according to the Northern California Tennis Association ranking committee, in its proposed ratings released today.

A former Greenbrae resident, John Zwieg, is ranked 17th. Zwieg moved to Walnut Creek this summer to be closer to his duties at Round Hill Country Club in Alamo.

Barry MacKay of Ross fell one tournament short of the minimum of five required for a ranking. He was quite successful in the four he played, reaching the finals, semi-finals, and quarter-finals twice, and would have been somewhere in the top 10 with a comparable performance in a fifth tourney, said an NCTA spokesman.

Moffat and Dennis Gibson of Redwood City are ranked ninth in men's open doubles. Former Ross resident Larry Axtell, now of San Francisco, is third with Jack Darrah of Moraga in men's 35 doubles rankings.

Heading the men's singles list are Butch Walts of Fresno, Nick Saviano of Los Altos Hills, Whitney Reed of Alameda, Henry Kamakana of Los Altos and Willie Oropez of Berkeley.

In national rankings announced today by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, Cary Stansbury of Tiburon stands ninth in boys 14 singles, and sixth with Rodney Lee of San Francisco in doubles.

Earlier USLTA national rankings placed Bee Kilgore of Tiburon 18th in girls 18 singles and Sue Beatty of Tiburon 32nd in girls 16 singles. Miss Kilgore and Carrie Meyer of Indianapolis were second in 18 doubles, trailing only Sue Boyle of San Diego and Kathy May of Beverly Hills.

McAdoo Is All-Around Performer

The second year pro from North Carolina ranks first in scoring, second in field goal percentage, tied for third in rebounding and tied for fifth in blocked shots, according to statistics released yesterday by the National Basketball Association.

McAdoo has scored 912 points in 31 games for a 29.4 average compared to a 28.0 mark for runnerup Pete Maravich of Atlanta. Maravich's teammate, Lou Hudson, ranks third in scoring with 26.9 average.

White Sox Send Hurler To Cubs In Santo Trade

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox today named left handed pitcher Jim Kremmel as the fourth and final player traded to the Chicago Cubs to complete the deal for Ron Santo.

Kremmel, 25, a native of Belleville, Ill., played last season with triple-A clubs at Tulsa, Okla., in the American Association, and Spokane, Wash., in the Pacific Coast League, and briefly with the Texas Rangers.

His overall record was 7-6, compiled on a 5-2 mark at Spokane, where he started the 1973 season; 0-0 for the Texas Rangers, for whom he pitched in July, and 2-4 for Tulsa, the team from which the White Sox acquired him in October for Dennis O'Toole. Tulsa is a farm club of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Yea, Smackover

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Clyde "Smackover" Scott was a favorite of sports announcers in the middle 1940s. They relished in pronouncing his nickname — it came from Scott's Arkansas home town — when he was a starting halfback for Navy and later the University of Arkansas, where he was an all-American in 1948. A member of the 1948 Olympic team, Scott is now an insurance executive in Little Rock.

Marty Back In Tennis

By RON LENT

In the materialistic world of sports, success is universally judged by victories and championships. Tiburon tennis star Margaret (Marty) Marquette has had both but is presently pursuing a new career — real estate.

Teaming with Sausalito's Rosemary Casals, the 26-year-old brunette took the 1964 Pacific Southwest Doubles championship in Los Angeles. The 5-foot-7, 125-pound agent for Red Carpet Realty in Kentfield was the youngest girl (14) to win the Southern California Junior Girls Singles crown in the 18 and under category, circa 1962.

Thus, she has tasted the sweet fruits of victory, but her appetite is apparently satiated. "I haven't been playing on a competitive, serious level since I was 17. I play now in low-key mixed doubles. It would take about a year of serious training and playing before I felt I would be ready. By that time I would be too old," Marty laughed.

She has both qualities available in her business vocation and tennis avocation. The Los Angeles native, who moved to Marin eight years ago, finds another advantage in real estate. "It gives me time for weekend tennis."

Since forming a doubles team with College of Marin tennis coach Bill (Buz) Thiercoff in April, they have won two tournaments in a row in May — the Ross Valley Marin County Tennis Tournament and the Santa Rosa Rose Festival.

Though aligned with Thiercoff for just a short time, the pair is ranked fourth in Mixed "B" Doubles by the Northern California Tennis Association.

Though Marty plays down her own skills, others have encouraged her to try the pro circuit. Among her boosters are such stars as Billie Jean King, Wendy Overton and Rosie. "They've taken the pettiness out of women's tennis. They want everybody to benefit from their success. They feel there is room for every top-flight girl."

But Marty admits that "I've chosen another root (real estate)." However, her tennis roots run deep. Marty began playing at age five and entered her first tournament at eight. She learned the rudiments from England's Elizabeth Ryan, 19-time Wimbledon doubles and mixed doubles champion. Marty later switched to George Toley, University of Southern California coach, before studying for one year at UCLA.

Before her brief UCLA stint, Marty had a handsome record of accomplishments: ranked first in doubles in 11s, 13s and 16s in southern California, second in 18s in southern California, 10th in nation in 18s at age 14, and national hardcourt 16 and under doubles champion in 1963 with Overton.

Like her friends on the pro circuit, Marty has strong opinions about tennis. A sample: "I wasn't surprised Margaret (Court of Australia) lost to Bobby Riggs. She doesn't have the right temperament in big matches. The tougher the competition, the better Billie Jean plays. The same can be said about Rosie.

"Casals can beat everyone on the tour but hasn't put it all together. She's lost to some people she should have beaten. To get to the top, you've got to put together a drive. Rosie may still get to be number one someday. When she's in town, she gives me tickets to the matches."

It is likely that Marquette would not need tickets to get in if she decided to come back; but Marty has no such plans for now as she begins her career in real estate.

Cedeno Exercises In Yard

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI) — Cesar Cedeno, resting in a prison cell here while waiting for a judge to decide whether he will face trial for "voluntary manslaughter" (second degree murder), decided to relax yesterday by throwing some balls and jogging in the prison yard.

Prison sources said Cedeno, 22, the Houston Astros all-star centerfielder, asked to be allowed to run in the prison yard and throw some balls to keep his arm in shape.

Cedeno has been in jail for a week since he was charged in the fatal shooting last Tuesday of a 19-year old girl in their Santo Domingo motel room.

Judge Socrates Diaz Curiel interrogated Cedeno and several witnesses last week and yesterday and is expected to reach a verdict before Friday, when the courts will recess for the Christmas season until Jan. 7. The decision could come as early as today.

Diaz Curiel must decide whether there is merit for the charge, or whether it should be reduced to "involuntary manslaughter." The original count is not a bailable offense. The latter is.

Regardless of the judge's findings, Cedeno can't leave the country until and unless there is a verdict of not guilty. And, because of the slow movement of Dominican justice, three months could elapse between the judge's decision and this possibility, according to expert lawyers of Santo Domingo. This almost certainly would mean Cedeno would miss at least 1974 spring training and possibly the start of the major league season as well.

Police have said that the .38-caliber pistol went off when Cedeno tried to get it away from the girl, who was examining it; and that a parafin test on Cedeno proved "negative" and one on the girl's body proved "positive." This would indicate that he had not fired a weapon and that she had.

Police also reported that the weapon had been duly registered by Cedeno, but this has been challenged by the district attorney on the request of an attorney representing the three-year-old daughter of Miss de la Cruz. The attorney has also said he plans a damage suit on behalf of the child.

All In The Family: Giants Hire Ex-Player Robustelli

Owner Wellington Mara surrendered some of his control over the daily operation of the Giants yesterday but refused to break his tradition of hiring ex-Giant athletes by signing former all-pro defensive end Andy Robustelli as Director of Operations.

This new position, which is akin to general manager, delegates Robustelli the authority to oversee all field operations of the Giants, including coaching, scouting, signing of players, trades and the pre-season camp.

Most of that responsibility previously was shouldered by Mara, whose total control of the team was believed to be partially to blame for its collapse over the last 10 years.

The Giants finished this season with one of its worst records in history (2-11-1), and when Coach Alex Webster resigned last week it was believed that Mara would make a move toward bettering the club by disassociating himself from the day-to-day operation.

Many expected Mara to go outside the organization and pick a man to run the show who had never had any previous association with the Giants. However, the 47-year-old Robustellis is as Giant-oriented as they come. He played with them for seven seasons, making all-pro six times, and also served as a defensive player-coach during his last four seasons.

Just how much power Robustelli will have remains to be seen. Mara claims Robustelli will have total authority in the running of things, but at the same time he makes it clear that, as president of the club, he will always have the final say.

"I don't really look at this as a break at all from the team," said Mara, who has been running the Giants since his brother, Jack, died in the mid-1960's. "It's like going back to the good ol' days when Jack was in charge. I made a lot of decisions in those days, but they were always subject to big brother's okay. I look at this as my taking over Jack's job and Andy getting mine."

Robustelli, who said he would have refused the head coachig job if it had been offered to him, said he only took this job with the understanding he would get to make the decisions.

"I wouldn't be here if I didn't have full authority," said Robustelli. "I'm in charge instead of Wellington, but like in any business, I will have to account to the president."

"My first job will be select a new coach, and I will get to that as quickly as possible," he said. "I'm not interested in building for the future. I'm looking for immediate success. My philosophy differs from most of the coaches I've played for in that I think defense is the name of the game. Still we've got to look for that guy with the golden arm because without him the best defense in the world isn't going to win for you."

Yea, Smackover

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Clyde "Smackover" Scott was a favorite of sports announcers in the middle 1940s. They relished in pronouncing his nickname — it came from Scott's Arkansas home town — when he was a starting halfback for Navy and later the University of Arkansas, where he was an all-American in 1948. A member of the 1948 Olympic team, Scott is now an insurance executive in Little Rock.

Las Vegas Whips 3rd Pacific-8 Foe

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

UCLA, USC and Long Beach State are ranked among the nation's top 13 basketball teams, but how about making room for Nevada-Las Vegas?

The Rebels played without star forward Bob Florence and 6-10 center Lewis Brown, both out with sprained ankles, yet beat their second Pacific-8 team in three games last night.

They took the 58-47 win over Washington State with Jimmie Baker leading the way with 16 points. The Rebels, with freshmen dotting their lineup, lost their opener but have won five straight since then. Las Vegas belted Oregon State 74-59 Saturday in a powerful win.

In other action on a surprisingly busy Monday, Stanford handed St. Mary's its first loss with a 69-63 decision at Moraga as Dave Frost hit 17 points to lead a Cardinal team which hit 61.3 per cent of its shots. Both teams emerged with 3-1 records.

Up-and-down Cal was up last night after losing to lowly Loyola last Saturday. The Bears beat tough Seattle 66-63 as Carl Meier and Rickie Hawthorne combined for 34 of the winners' points.

San Jose State, which keeps winning road games, ran its record to a surprising 6-1 with an 80-73 win at far-off North Dakota State. Russ Palmer led the Spartans with 19.

But Hayward State, which keeps losing on its road swing, flopped at DePaul 94-63. Willis Ward of the losers led all scorers with 21 points.

Portland pulled a major upset with an 88-84 win at Santa Clara. Quentin Braxton had 27 for the Pilots while Lester Robinson, Remel Diggs and Glenn Hubbard combined for 64 of the losers' points.

Arizona State pulled the night's biggest upset as it handed 15th ranked Cincinnati its first loss in an 88-78 decision. In ratings released today, UCLA was ranked first, USC 10th and Long Beach State 13th. Arizona was the 19th ranked team.

Bonds Fined $360; Faces Another One

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — San Francisco Giants outfielder Bobby Bonds pleaded no contest to a drunken driving charge yesterday and was fined $360.

The fine was imposed as a result of a minor traffic accident Aug. 13 in which Bonds' car rammed the rear of another auto.

Bonds, 27, will appear in court in nearby San Mateo tomorrow to answer charges of interfering with police in an unrelated incident.

Bonds was arrested with his brother, Robert, 32, after a brief auto chase on Nov. 29. His brother was at the wheel of the car which was stopped for speeding.

The Giants star, third in this year's National League Most Valuable Player balloting, told reporters he had never been in trouble before but now "it just won't stop."

"It hasn't just involved me. My mother was sick, then my dad got sick, my sister was arrested on a murder charge and there was nothing to it (the charge was dismissed), my brother was in trouble, and now this brother, who didn't have any problem before, has this," he said.

An Empty Home

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Pioneer Baseball League, a rookie circuit with major league affiliations, has its headquarters here even though none of its teams plays in this capital city. The teams are the Idaho Falls Angels, Great Falls Giants, Billings Mustangs and Ogden Dodgers.

Moffat Is Ranked Among The Top 50

Only one Marinite is ranked in the top 50 players in men's singles in Northern California, but the moving van and the rules book prevented two others from joining him.

Andy Moffat of Mill Valley is 45th, according to the Northern California Tennis Association ranking committee, in its proposed ratings released today.

A former Greenbrae resident, John Zwieg, is ranked 17th. Zwieg moved to Walnut Creek this summer to be closer to his duties at Round Hill Country Club in Alamo.

Barry MacKay of Ross fell one tournament short of the minimum of five required for a ranking. He was quite successful in the four he played, reaching the finals, semi-finals, and quarter-finals twice, and would have been somewhere in the top 10 with a comparable performance in a fifth tourney, said an NCTA spokesman.

Moffat and Dennis Gibson of Redwood City are ranked ninth in men's open doubles. Former Ross resident Larry Axtell, now of San Francisco, is third with Jack Darrah of Moraga in men's 35 doubles rankings.

Heading the men's singles list are Butch Walts of Fresno, Nick Saviano of Los Altos Hills, Whitney Reed of Alameda, Henry Kamakana of Los Altos and Willie Oropez of Berkeley.

In national rankings announced today by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, Cary Stansbury of Tiburon stands ninth in boys 14 singles, and sixth with Rodney Lee of San Francisco in doubles.

Earlier USLTA national rankings placed Bee Kilgore of Tiburon 18th in girls 18 singles and Sue Beatty of Tiburon 32nd in girls 16 singles. Miss Kilgore and Carrie Meyer of Indianapolis were second in 18 doubles, trailing only Sue Boyle of San Diego and Kathy May of Beverly Hills.

McAdoo has scored 912 points in 31 games for a 29.4 average compared to a 28.0 mark for runnerup Pete Maravich of Atlanta. Maravich's teammate, Lou Hudson, ranks third in scoring with 26.9 average.

White Sox Send Hurler To Cubs In Santo Trade

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox today named left handed pitcher Jim Kremmel as the fourth and final player traded to the Chicago Cubs to complete the deal for Ron Santo.

Kremmel, 25, a native of Belleville, Ill., played last season with triple-A clubs at Tulsa, Okla., in the American Association, and Spokane, Wash., in the Pacific Coast League, and briefly with the Texas Rangers.

His overall record was 7-6, compiled on a 5-2 mark at Spokane, where he started the 1973 season; 0-0 for the Texas Rangers, for whom he pitched in July, and 2-4 for Tulsa, the team from which the White Sox acquired him in October for Dennis O'Toole. Tulsa is a farm club of the St. Louis Cardinals.

How To Nearly Fool An Expert

I almost had the wool pulled over my eyes a few days ago, and by such nice fellows too! Al Barsotti, Hank Scettrini and Jim Walker, all Marinites have been asking me since last duck season to come up to their 300-acre duck club near Grizzly Island.

They wanted some professional advice on how to improve their aquatic plant growths, water control and things in general that make for a good duck club setup. I was to bring along one of the expert biologists from the Sacramento office.

As an enticement, Barsotti promised us a morning shoot, and a dinner of the fattest mallards we had ever seen. Naturally, I called Howard Leach of Sacramento and gave him the particulars. He readily accepted.

We went up to the club the evening before, met the gang, talked shop, and then bedded down in the ranch house clubhouse. We were up early, eager to go, though there was an intense fog.

Shooting time was approximately 6:45 a.m., and I guess we saw two mallards go by about 7 a.m. We both missed. All around us, the shooting was pretty intense. We couldn't figure all this shooting, because we saw nothing.

About 10 a.m., we decided to head up to the clubhouse for breakfast. Howard had one bird, a ring necked duck, on his stringer. At the clubhouse, everyone was back. Hank Scettrini was cleaning a bunch of birds, so I walked over to take a look. I asked Hank what he had. When he answered "one sprig, one "roodie" duck and 15 mudhens, I just about passed out. He had been the guy walking around the levees doing all the shooting we had heard. When I looked at his ruddy duck, (it was really a bluebill) I asked him how long he had been hunting ducks. When he answered, "Two years," I answered, "It figures."

Some of the rest of the gang had a real bird or two and two geese, one speck and one cackler. The total take, aside from Hank's, was nine birds. I was quite concerned about this, because I couldn't visualize that fat mallard dinner with what we had. I questioned Barsotti about this. He reassured me by showing me 13 of the fattest, all-picked birds, stored in the refrigerator. After breakfast, we discussed the pros and cons of suggested improvements.

Howard, who is somewhat of a duck food specialist made a number of suggestions, which the fellows readily accepted. My main suggestion to them was to get rid of Scettrini! Howard then hiked the ponds, checked the aquatic growths and promised to make them a detailed plan of improvements. I gave the pond another try in the evening and managed to get one mallard.

Dinner was ready about 7:30. Between 5 and 7:30, lots of ingeneral conversation, plus a little tonic, to warm up the body and the conversation. Scettrini has a language all his own. I've known him for 26 years and always thought he was a quiet fellow. Not so! When Al served the ducks, they were beautiful to see. I looked at mine a long time. I even hated to make the first cut. Then all of a sudden, it dawned on me that the bird had no shot holes visible. I then looked at Howard's and all the rest of them. Not one bird had a shot mark! Then I remembered the tame mallard pond I had noticed behind the ranch barn. These weren't wild ducks, they were barnyard birds! I had almost been had!

I offered anyone 50 cents who could show me just one shot — no one bet me. I couldn't get Barsotti to confess. After that, the fellows started calling him "Fishhook" Barsotti. Then I remembered him telling me about his good wife also feeding 200 mallards in the back of their house on the San Rafael Canal. The boys were insinuating that he might have caught the ducks there on a fish hook, baited with corn.

I never did get the true story, but those ducks were so good, I'm sure they were from the barnyard. I guess I'll never know. But at least the story can't get out that Barsotti really fed us barnyard ducks and the "experts" didn't know the difference.

AROUND MARIN this past week, John Hakin caught a 43-pound sturgeon, and Ron Jerome landed a 19 and a 12-pound bass off the Marin Rod and Gun Club pier.

At Loch Lomond, John Malaspini of Fairfax landed a 73-pound sturgeon which contained 25 pounds of roe. At White House Pool, five anglers fishing had one steelhead. I met 13-year-old David Cooper at Loch Lomond. He says that Keith Fraser gave me incorrect information last week when naming David's dad as the guy who came in with a 50-pound sturgeon. Dave says that he caught it and it was his first. He is taking off his Lord of the Sea shirt for this week just to punish Keith.

CAN YOU imagine this? On Jan. 6, Daylight Saving Time beginning, the shooting time for ducks in the morning will commence at 8 o'clock too?

Devine Not Planning A Shakeup

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Despite his Green Bay Packers falling to a losing season after being NFC Central Division champions last year, Coach Dan Devine rejects the idea of wholesale changes in the coaching staff or among players.

The Packers finished the season Sunday with a 21-0 win over Chicago —their only victory of the year against a division foe —and Devine said the team showed a lot of good qualities.

"We were sharp and alert and eager and well prepared," Devine said yesterday in a news conference attended by only two reporters. He also said he was pleased with the team spirit and hustle shown and the fact that Green Bay ran 65 plays from scrimmage without fumbling.

That poor season after last year's title-winning one brought grumbles from fans about players and coaches but Devine said there won't be a lot of trades.

Turf Club Gives Miami Playoff Nod

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — The Reno Turf Club yesterday picked the Miami Dolphins as the 2-1 favorite to go all the way in the National Football League playoffs and take the crown.

"That interception has to rank as one of the most aggravating things of my career," said the 6-2, 212-pound Jaynes, who is sure to go high in the pro draft this year.

Jaynes set three Liberty Bowl records with 24 completions in 38 attempts for 218 yards and managed one 12-yard scoring toss to fullback Robert Miller in the second quarter. Miller also scored on a 12-yard run in the closing minute of the game.

"We wanted to win this one badly," said Jaynes.

Holtz, who guided State to a lopsided Peach Bowl victory over West Virginia last year, said the plan against Kansas was to give Jaynes the short passes and take away the bomb.

"We wanted to punish Jaynes' receivers on defense and force him to go to his secondary receivers. I think we beat a real fine team tonight," Holtz said, adding that on offense, "Our backs just pounded it out."

Kansas Coach Don Fambrough said the loss of two starting defensive players, tackle Fedro Dillon and linebacker Dean Baird, with knee injuries in the first half hurt his team. But he refused to alibi the loss.

"Tonight, they were the better team," said Fambrough.

He scored on a two-yard run in the first period and Ron Sewell kicked a 33-yard field goal for the Wolfpack in the second quarter as the half ended tied 10-10.

The game-breaking play came early in the third period when Ralph Stringer recovered a fumbled punt by Bruce Adams of Kansas at the Jayhawks' 19 yard line. Fritts ran for 11 yards on the next play and then followed with his second scoring run to break the tie and put State ahead to stay, 17-10.

Young scored on a 12-yard run in the fourth quarter and then Henderson's interception made it a rout, 31-10.

Wanted: Running Backs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers figure to have two selections among the first 10 in next month's pro football draft and Coach Dick Nolan says he'll be going for running backs.

The 49ers (5-9) will get New England's first pick in addition to their own. The Patriots also had a 5-9 record so San Francisco will pick no worse than Nos. 9 and 10 in the first round and could get eighth and ninth if it wins a coin flip with New Orleans, also 5-9.

Nolan admitted running backs would be of prime importance, "and, I mean the outstanding ones. Forget the marginal ones. We already have a few of them. We don't need any more."

Turning to other matters, Nolan shook his head over rumors he might be going to take over the New York Giants. "I have no intention of leaving the 49ers. It is a fine organization that has treated me well."

He said "there'll be some changes" and indicated several 49ers will be wearing different uniforms next year.

He said he hadn't talked to veteran defensive tackle Charlie Krueger, who has indicated he might retire. Nolan has talked Krueger out of similar plans in past seasons.

Since neither Steve Spurrier or Joe Reed had outstanding seasons in 1973, Nolan was asked if he might draft a quarterback now that John Brodie has retired. "There isn't a quarterback available that I would like to have," he said.

However, Nolan admitted he wouldn't be averse to making a trade with another club if an outstanding quarterback were available.

"It's not that I don't think highly of Steve or Joe," he said. "But there aren't too many great ones around and I wouldn't be about to pass him up if one were offered."

Cronin Seeks To Solve Managerial Tangle Today

Combined AP & UPI

BOSTON — The American League is expected to begin untangling its tangled manager situation today.

League President Joe Cronin will meet with the New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers, two of the three teams involved in the complex game of managerial musical chairs this autumn.

Cronin is expected to rule that the Tigers, who signed manager Ralph Houk two weeks after his resignation from the Yankees Sept. 30, owe the Yankees nothing.

The same precedent would appear to apply to the Yankees, who in turn signed manager Dick Williams of the world champion Oakland A's. Oakland owner Charles O. Finley has demanded compensation in the form of several players in order to release Williams from his contract, and has threatened to sue if he doesn't get them.

BOSTON (UPI) — Carl Yastrzemski says he did not discuss the possibility of playing baseball in Japan during his recent trip there.

Yastrzemski, who visited Japan with sports attorney Bob Woolf and their wives, said last night he went there to discuss endorsements and to vacation. He said he did not discuss playing with any team in Japan.

The three-time American League batting champion said it was "possible" that "maybe at the end of my career" he would consider playing in Japan. But he labeled as "pure speculation" a report that he was considering leaving the Boston Red Sox to play baseball in Japan in the immediate future.

He said he had met with the new Red Sox manager, Darrell Johnson, for several days in Florida before going to Japan and they discussed the team's future.

World Cup Downhill Crown To Austrian

ZELL AM SEE, Austria (UPI) — Karl Cordin of Austria won the men's World Cup downhill today in a race that was marked by constantly changing weather conditions enforcing a delayed start and a mid-race break because of heavy fog.

Cordin, a 25-year-old veteran from St. Anton am Arlberg, was clocked in one minute, 47.43 seconds on the 2,670 meters long course with a vertical drop of 768 meters.

Switzerland's Roland Collombin, who excelled in the downhill in World Cup competition last season, placed second in 1:47.77, according to provisional results.

Three racers—an unprecedented result in ski racing—were tied for third place: Peter Feyersinger and Josef Walcher of Austria and Manfred Grabler of Australia, all in 1:48.26.

The race was delayed for half an hour because Swiss and Italian competitors demanded an additional practice run to find the best wax on the upper flat part of the course with weather conditions changing from one minute to the other.

But the jury ruled by a vote of 4-1 that the race had to start without a trial run.

The race started after a 30-minute delay when the competitors insisted on a record number of five forerunners preceding the first starter to pave the way through the new layer of snow.

It was the third attempt to stage this winter's second men's World Cup downhill race. Val Gardena in Italy, the original site, had to call it off for lack of snow.

Organizers at Zell am See, who took over at short notice, were forced to postpone the race last Saturday because of an abundance of snow, accompanied by heavy storms and fog.

The race, after finally getting underway, had to be stopped because of heavy fog after the first 43 of 88 entries had completed the course. An additional forerunner was sent down the track before the race was resumed after a 10-minute break.

The best U.S. finish was by Geoffrey Bruce of Corning, N.Y., who was 23rd with a time of 1:52.04. Greg Jones of Tahoe City, Calif., was 37th in 1:53.85 and Andy Mill of Aspen, Colo., was 38th in 1:53.91.

How To Nearly Fool An Expert

I almost had the wool pulled over my eyes a few days ago, and by such nice fellows too! Al Barsotti, Hank Scettrini and Jim Walker, all Marinites have been asking me since last duck season to come up to their 300-acre duck club near Grizzly Island.

They wanted some professional advice on how to improve their aquatic plant growths, water control and things in general that make for a good duck club setup. I was to bring along one of the expert biologists from the Sacramento office.

As an enticement, Barsotti promised us a morning shoot, and a dinner of the fattest mallards we had ever seen. Naturally, I called Howard Leach of Sacramento and gave him the particulars. He readily accepted.

We went up to the club the evening before, met the gang, talked shop, and then bedded down in the ranch house clubhouse. We were up early, eager to go, though there was an intense fog.

We had to be guided down to the double blind assigned to us.

Shooting time was approximately 6:45 a.m., and I guess we saw two mallards go by about 7 a.m. We both missed. All around us, the shooting was pretty intense. We couldn't figure all this shooting, because we saw nothing.

About 10 a.m., we decided to head up to the clubhouse for breakfast. Howard had one bird, a ring necked duck, on his stringer. At the clubhouse, everyone was back. Hank Scettrini was cleaning a bunch of birds, so I walked over to take a look. I asked Hank what he had. When he answered "one sprig, one "roodie" duck and 15 mudhens, I just about passed out. He had been the guy walking around the levees doing all the shooting we had heard. When I looked at his ruddy duck, (it was really a bluebill) I asked him how long he had been hunting ducks. When he answered, "Two years," I answered, "It figures."

Some of the rest of the gang had a real bird or two and two geese, one speck and one cackler. The total take, aside from Hank's, was nine birds. I was quite concerned about this, because I couldn't visualize that fat mallard dinner with what we had. I questioned Barsotti about this. He reassured me by showing me 13 of the fattest, all-picked birds, stored in the refrigerator. After breakfast, we discussed the pros and cons of suggested improvements.

Howard, who is somewhat of a duck food specialist made a number of suggestions, which the fellows readily accepted. My main suggestion to them was to get rid of Scettrini! Howard then hiked the ponds, checked the aquatic growths and promised to make them a detailed plan of improvements. I gave the pond another try in the evening and managed to get one mallard.

Dinner was ready about 7:30. Between 5 and 7:30, lots of ingeneral conversation, plus a little tonic, to warm up the body and the conversation. Scettrini has a language all his own. I've known him for 26 years and always thought he was a quiet fellow. Not so! When Al served the ducks, they were beautiful to see. I looked at mine a long time. I even hated to make the first cut. Then all of a sudden, it dawned on me that the bird had no shot holes visible. I then looked at Howard's and all the rest of them. Not one bird had a shot mark! Then I remembered the tame mallard pond I had noticed behind the ranch barn. These weren't wild ducks, they were barnyard birds! I had almost been had!

I offered anyone 50 cents who could show me just one shot — no one bet me. I couldn't get Barsotti to confess. After that, the fellows started calling him "Fishhook" Barsotti. Then I remembered him telling me about his good wife also feeding 200 mallards in the back of their house on the San Rafael Canal. The boys were insinuating that he might have caught the ducks there on a fish hook, baited with corn.

I never did get the true story, but those ducks were so good, I'm sure they were from the barnyard. I guess I'll never know. But at least the story can't get out that Barsotti really fed us barnyard ducks and the "experts" didn't know the difference.

AROUND MARIN this past week, John Hakin caught a 43-pound sturgeon, and Ron Jerome landed a 19 and a 12-pound bass off the Marin Rod and Gun Club pier.

At Loch Lomond, John Malaspini of Fairfax landed a 73-pound sturgeon which contained 25 pounds of roe. At White House Pool, five anglers fishing had one steelhead. I met 13-year-old David Cooper at Loch Lomond. He says that Keith Fraser gave me incorrect information last week when naming David's dad as the guy who came in with a 50-pound sturgeon. Dave says that he caught it and it was his first. He is taking off his Lord of the Sea shirt for this week just to punish Keith.

CAN YOU imagine this? On Jan. 6, Daylight Saving Time beginning, the shooting time for ducks in the morning will commence at 8 o'clock too?

Devine Not Planning A Shakeup

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Despite his Green Bay Packers falling to a losing season after being NFC Central Division champions last year, Coach Dan Devine rejects the idea of wholesale changes in the coaching staff or among players.

The Packers finished the season Sunday with a 21-0 win over Chicago —their only victory of the year against a division foe —and Devine said the team showed a lot of good qualities.

"We were sharp and alert and eager and well prepared," Devine said yesterday in a news conference attended by only two reporters. He also said he was pleased with the team spirit and hustle shown and the fact that Green Bay ran 65 plays from scrimmage without fumbling.

The Packers haven't had much to be happy about in 1973 as they slipped to a 5-7-2 mark.

That poor season after last year's title-winning one brought grumbles from fans about players and coaches but Devine said there won't be a lot of trades.

Cordin, a 25-year-old veteran from St. Anton am Arlberg, was clocked in one minute, 47.43 seconds on the 2,670 meters long course with a vertical drop of 768 meters.

Switzerland's Roland Collombin, who excelled in the downhill in World Cup competition last season, placed second in 1:47.77, according to provisional results.

Three racers—an unprecedented result in ski racing—were tied for third place: Peter Feyersinger and Josef Walcher of Austria and Manfred Grabler of Australia, all in 1:48.26.

The race was delayed for half an hour because Swiss and Italian competitors demanded an additional practice run to find the best wax on the upper flat part of the course with weather conditions changing from one minute to the other.

But the jury ruled by a vote of 4-1 that the race had to start without a trial run.

The race started after a 30-minute delay when the competitors insisted on a record number of five forerunners preceding the first starter to pave the way through the new layer of snow.

It was the third attempt to stage this winter's second men's World Cup downhill race. Val Gardena in Italy, the original site, had to call it off for lack of snow.

Organizers at Zell am See, who took over at short notice, were forced to postpone the race last Saturday because of an abundance of snow, accompanied by heavy storms and fog.

The race, after finally getting underway, had to be stopped because of heavy fog after the first 43 of 88 entries had completed the course. An additional forerunner was sent down the track before the race was resumed after a 10-minute break.

The best U.S. finish was by Geoffrey Bruce of Corning, N.Y., who was 23rd with a time of 1:52.04. Greg Jones of Tahoe City, Calif., was 37th in 1:53.85 and Andy Mill of Aspen, Colo., was 38th in 1:53.91.

Van Overturns, But Injuries Are Minor

PASO ROBLES, Calif. (UPI) — A van carrying nine members of the Hartnell College basketball team blew a tire and rolled over on the way home from a basketball tournament Sunday afternoon, but the players suffered only minor injuries.

The California Highway Patrol said members of the squad crawled from the vehicle and then lifted the van to free the driver, 18-year-old Mark Holaday.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Little To Gain By Bond Swap

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. In 1968 I bought FNMA 6.20 per cent Participation Certificates dated 8/12/68 at 103¼. These currently trade at 90½. Would I be wise to sell these and invest in Potomac Electric 9½s of 2005?—J.R.

A. Since these certificates were purchased, this agency has been reorganized and your securities, which mature in 1988, are the responsibility of the Government National Mortgage Assn. If you make the exchange you will have a $127.50 capital loss per $1,000 of face value. Some of this loss would be compensated for by your income tax deduction and in addition your interest income would be increased $33 per $1,000 face value annually. Keep in mind, however, that the Potomac bond with 31 more years to maturity is currently trading at $1,085, $180 more than the GNMA issue. By making the exchange at this time you would gain 140 basis points in yield to maturity. All in all, when commissions are taken into account, you are not very much ahead in this type of swap.

Q. I have recently retired at age 68. Please review my holdings and advise me as to any changes that should be made to increase my income.—C.H.

A. Your equity investments are currently worth in excess of $96,000. Yet the 4.9 per cent yield from those holdings provides only $4,700 annually for your retirement income. By selling Eastman Kodak (NYSE) and Xerox (NYSE) which pay modest dividends, you will free over $60,000 for reinvestment. I would also suggest selling P. R. Mallory (NYSE) on the basis of its limited medium-term appeal. The capital realized from these shares should be utilized to increase your holdings of American Brands (NYSE) to 300 shares and to buy various high-yield bonds.

Suggested bond purchases are: 15M Florida Power & Light 8 1/8s of 1975, 20M General Tel. & Elec. 6¼s of 1991, 10M Maine Yankee Atomic 8.5s of 2002 and 15M Westinghouse Electric 8 5/8s of 1995. With the various proposed changes, your portfolio would pay $7,150 in dividends and interest for a current return of 7.4 per cent on your holdings.

Good News Aids Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some encouraging news from an Egyptian ambassador and the Federal Reserve sparked an upswing today on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was fairly active.

After 11 a.m., Wall Street learned Egypt's Ambassador Ashraf Ghorbal expressed hope Arab oil shipments would resume to the United States in the near future.

On the American Exchange, prices moved irregularly in moderate trading. McCulloch topped the actives, unchanged at 4½ on 14,900 shares.

Reacting to the Egyptian ambassador's statement, Big Board oil issues with a stake in resumed oil shipments moved ahead. Exxon rose 1 ⅛, Mobil 1 ½, California Standard a point.

Other oils were mixed. Atlantic Richfield advanced 1 ⅛, while Ohio Standard dropped 1 ½, and Schlumberger 1 ⅛.

Loans For Energy Savers Cost Less

Bank of Marin announced it is offering special loans at lower rates for energy-saving home improvements such as insulation, weatherstripping, or a new efficient heating plant.

A bank spokesman said that rates of interest will vary with the amount of loan and time element, but all "energy saving improvements" will get preferred rates, which means rates lower than the usual home improvement loans.

Custom-Bilt Draperies Opens For Business In San Rafael

Custom-Bilt Draperies, a new firm specializing in semi-custom draperies for homes and apartments, will open this week at 76 Woodland Avenue in San Rafael, near Bret Harte Super market.

The drapery firm is operated by James Dwyer of Kentfield, who has been in the business for about 13 years, the last seven as vice president of Contract Furnishers International in San Francisco. Helping him in the business is his brother, Dan Dwyer of San Rafael.

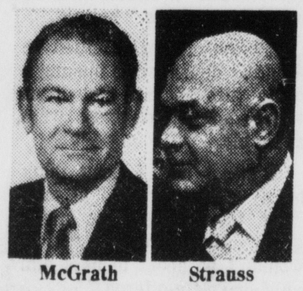
James Dwyer said his Custom-Bilt Draperies will wholesale draperies under contract to homes and apartments. In about two or three months, he may also take in retail trade.

Dwyer's new drapery company bought the building formerly occupied by Angelo Mazza's Unique Antiques. Marin Town and Country Realty in San Rafael negotiated the sale of the building. Mazza plans to reopen his antique shop next door at 72 Woodland Avenue, as soon as Paul Ciampi Distributor Co. moves out to its new building in Novato.

Ciampi, beer and wine distributor, who has been at 72 Woodland Avenue for about 10 years, will relocate next month into its brand new warehouse and office building on Ford Way near Hill Road, next to Novato Ford.



McGrath Strauss

LEO H. STRAUSS of San Rafael and PATRICK B. McGRATH of Belvedere were appointed to the board of directors of Sinco Oil Corporation, Berkeley. Sinco's oil and gas producing fields are in Contra Costa and Solano Counties.

Strauss is a senior vice president and director of Hospital Corporation of America West and president and director of General Management Services Corp.

McGrath is an economic geologist and petroleum engineer. He was with Standard Oil for 21 years and has been in private consulting practice in petroleum and mineral exploration for the past eight years.

MIRACLE NORGE VILLAGE dry cleaning plant and self-service laundry at 2242 Fourth Street (Miracle Mile) in San Rafael was sold yesterday to Daniel V. Boytler of Novato.

It has been operated since 1962 by Mar-West Incorporated, owned by Nina and Richard G. Gable of Fairfax. The Gables will dissolve their small corporation and retire.

Boytler, the new owner, was vice president of Stahl Distributing Co. in San Francisco, where he worked for the past 13 years. Boytler said he got tired of commuting to San Francisco and decided to go into business closer to his Novato home.

Under the new owner, Miracle Norge will offer the same services as in the past, including self-service laundry, dry cleaning and pressing.

WORLD PEACE INC., a new corporation whose goal is to set up international cultural centers to promote world peace, has been established in Marin County.

The new corporation is the brainchild of Los Angeles attorney Ernest L. Graves, who spent many months in Marin County as court-appointed attorney for Ruchell Magee. Other directors of the new corporation are attorneys Joseph A. Forest and David A. Applen, partners in the Novato firm of Carrow, Jones, Applen & Forest.

Forest said that Graves, who heads World Peace Inc., intends initially to write and publish a prospectus, setting out the goals of the corporation, and then establish international cultural centers whenever and wherever feasible.

WESTERN CALIFORNIA Telephone Co., which operates the Novato and Kenwood exchanges, paid $124,908 in first installment property taxes to Marin County for 1973-74, and $14,659 to Sonoma County. The same amounts will be paid again next April as second installment taxes.

A CERAMIC and fiber studio will open next month at 1105 Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael, behind Marin Motorsports.

Owner of the studio is Carol Puck Rinehimer of San Francisco, who plans to move to Mill Valley. Miss Rinehimer attended Rhode Island School of Design and graduated from Kansas City Art Institute in ceramics in 1972. At her San Rafael studio, she will make ceramic and fiber sculpture (mostly abstracts), plus pot holders and aprons, for wholesale, not retail.

William Hoey Company of San Rafael arranged the lease of studio space for Miss Rinehimer. Hoey also negotiated leases for Grund Concrete Construction Company, Walsh Antiques, Zeta Racing and Carter-Riches Imports.

WALSH ANTIQUES, located at 26 Medway, No. 16, in San Rafael got additional warehouse space at No. 7 in the same building. The firm wholesales furniture imports.

ZETA RACING — Dick Zibert of Tiburon, computer salesman who does road racing as a hobby, leased warehouse space at 38-F Hamilton Drive, Hamilton Industrial Park. He and his friends use the place to repair and maintain their personal race cars.

CARTER-RICHES IMPORTS, importer of personalized name plaques, leased more warehouse space at 130 Hamilton Drive, Hamilton Industrial Park. This is the third expansion at that loation for the rapidly growing firm.

Second Check To Family Income

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The working wife has added a second check to family income but disagreement on how it is to be spent can lead to dissension.

So observes W. Scane Bowler, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Pioneer Western Corp., who said the second income "can actually determine how well a husband and wife get along, matrimonially speaking."

With 46 per cent of the adult female population now contributing to family income, Bowler says "the husband and wife who both bring home the bacon both should have a say about how it is cooked."

BUSINESS MIRROR

Trend In Home Loans Gloomy

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The average mortgate granted to the buyer of a new, single-family home last month was at a rate of 8.36 per cent for 26.1 years in the amount of $28,800 or 75.3 per cent of the total purchase price of $38,900.

These figures, from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, add up to rather bad news for those contemplating the purchase of a new home, not merely because of the figures themselves, but because of the trends:

Down payments were rising.

The prices of houses were rising.

Nevertheless, thousands of families will be buying new homes in the coming year because of necessity or choice, the latter often dictated by the fear that prices, like time, wait for no man.

In January, for example, the national average price of new homes was $35,800, but by November it had risen $3,100 to $38,900. Whether the rise will continue is debatable, but the trend is there.

The lowest interest rates were charged by mutual savings banks, with an effective percentage of 8.11, compared with 8.36 per cent by savings and loan associations, 8.37 by commercial banks and 8.67 by mortgage companies.

The longest maturities were offered by mortgage companies. They permitted an average of 29.3 years in which to pay back the loan, followed by savings and loan associations with 27 years, mutual savings banks 26.1 and commercial banks 21.5 years.

Mortgage companies offered the highest loan to price ratio, permitting the home owner to borrow 82.5 per cent of the purchase price. The ratio for savings and loan association was 77.3, mutual savings banks 68.6 and commercial banks 68.3

Despite generally more difficult terms for the borrower, lenders seem willing to continue maturities for relatively long periods. Mutual savings bank maturities have actually risen in recent months.

While industry and government analysts believe that housing starts will drop well below two million units in 1974 after being well over that mark for three years, there are a couple of encouraging signs.

First, the billion dollars in funds that the thrift institutions watched being withdrawn during last summer, the result of vast disparities in interest rates, is slowly flowing back.

Second, incomes and savings rates are fairly healthy, meaning that many families are in a position to make big capital commitments if the general economic climate improves.

Fuel Pacer Cuts Gas Use

DETROIT — A new "Fuel Pacer System", designed to stretch gas mileage by alerting a driver when he's using more fuel than necessary, has been announced by Chrysler Corp., and shown in prototype form.

The fuel pacer is programmed for factory installation first on compact 1974 Dodge and Plymouth cars in March, and then on other makes.

Simply put, it's a device that actuates a light on the left front fender whenever the carburetor begins to enrich the fuel mixture for an increased power demand. If the light goes on, a driver sees instantly he should drive the car at a more efficient operating level.

Rapid starts and accelerations dip into the power reserve. With the aid of the fuel pacer, drivers can develop the right touch, using much the same principle that fuel economy test drivers use, yet emergency power is always available when needed.

No price has been announced although it is expected to be in the $10 to $12 range.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. In 1968 I bought FNMA 6.20 per cent Participation Certificates dated 8/12/68 at 103¼. These currently trade at 90½. Would I be wise to sell these and invest in Potomac Electric 9½s of 2005?—J.R.

A. Since these certificates were purchased, this agency has been reorganized and your securities, which mature in 1988, are the responsibility of the Government National Mortgage Assn. If you make the exchange you will have a $127.50 capital loss per $1,000 of face value. Some of this loss would be compensated for by your income tax deduction and in addition your interest income would be increased $33 per $1,000 face value annually. Keep in mind, however, that the Potomac bond with 31 more years to maturity is currently trading at $1,085, $180 more than the GNMA issue. By making the exchange at this time you would gain 140 basis points in yield to maturity. All in all, when commissions are taken into account, you are not very much ahead in this type of swap.

Q. I have recently retired at age 68. Please review my holdings and advise me as to any changes that should be made to increase my income.—C.H.

A. Your equity investments are currently worth in excess of $96,000. Yet the 4.9 per cent yield from those holdings provides only $4,700 annually for your retirement income. By selling Eastman Kodak (NYSE) and Xerox (NYSE) which pay modest dividends, you will free over $60,000 for reinvestment. I would also suggest selling P. R. Mallory (NYSE) on the basis of its limited medium-term appeal. The capital realized from these shares should be utilized to increase your holdings of American Brands (NYSE) to 300 shares and to buy various high-yield bonds.

Suggested bond purchases are: 15M Florida Power & Light 8 1/8s of 1975, 20M General Tel. & Elec. 6¼s of 1991, 10M Maine Yankee Atomic 8.5s of 2002 and 15M Westinghouse Electric 8 5/8s of 1995. With the various proposed changes, your portfolio would pay $7,150 in dividends and interest for a current return of 7.4 per cent on your holdings.

Good News Aids Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some encouraging news from an Egyptian ambassador and the Federal Reserve sparked an upswing today on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was fairly active.

After 11 a.m., Wall Street learned Egypt's Ambassador Ashraf Ghorbal expressed hope Arab oil shipments would resume to the United States in the near future.

On the American Exchange, prices moved irregularly in moderate trading. McCulloch topped the actives, unchanged at 4½ on 14,900 shares.

Reacting to the Egyptian ambassador's statement, Big Board oil issues with a stake in resumed oil shipments moved ahead. Exxon rose 1 ⅛, Mobil 1 ½, California Standard a point.

Other oils were mixed. Atlantic Richfield advanced 1 ⅛, while Ohio Standard dropped 1 ½, and Schlumberger 1 ⅛.

Loans For Energy Savers Cost Less

Bank of Marin announced it is offering special loans at lower rates for energy-saving home improvements such as insulation, weatherstripping, or a new efficient heating plant.

A bank spokesman said that rates of interest will vary with the amount of loan and time element, but all "energy saving improvements" will get preferred rates, which means rates lower than the usual home improvement loans.

Custom-Bilt Draperies Opens For Business In San Rafael

Custom-Bilt Draperies, a new firm specializing in semi-custom draperies for homes and apartments, will open this week at 76 Woodland Avenue in San Rafael, near Bret Harte Super market.

The drapery firm is operated by James Dwyer of Kentfield, who has been in the business for about 13 years, the last seven as vice president of Contract Furnishers International in San Francisco. Helping him in the business is his brother, Dan Dwyer of San Rafael.

James Dwyer said his Custom-Bilt Draperies will wholesale draperies under contract to homes and apartments. In about two or three months, he may also take in retail trade.

Dwyer's new drapery company bought the building formerly occupied by Angelo Mazza's Unique Antiques. Marin Town and Country Realty in San Rafael negotiated the sale of the building. Mazza plans to reopen his antique shop next door at 72 Woodland Avenue, as soon as Paul Ciampi Distributor Co. moves out to its new building in Novato.

Ciampi, beer and wine distributor, who has been at 72 Woodland Avenue for about 10 years, will relocate next month into its brand new warehouse and office building on Ford Way near Hill Road, next to Novato Ford.

McGrath

Strauss

LEO H. STRAUSS of San Rafael and PATRICK B. McGRATH of Belvedere were appointed to the board of directors of Sinco Oil Corporation, Berkeley. Sinco's oil and gas producing fields are in Contra Costa and Solano Counties.

Strauss is a senior vice president and director of Hospital Corporation of America West and president and director of General Management Services Corp.

McGrath is an economic geologist and petroleum engineer. He was with Standard Oil for 21 years and has been in private consulting practice in petroleum and mineral exploration for the past eight years.

MIRACLE NORGE VILLAGE dry cleaning plant and self-service laundry at 2242 Fourth Street (Miracle Mile) in San Rafael was sold yesterday to Daniel V. Boytler of Novato.

It has been operated since 1962 by Mar-West Incorporated, owned by Nina and Richard G. Gable of Fairfax. The Gables will dissolve their small corporation and retire.

Boytler, the new owner, was vice president of Stahl Distributing Co. in San Francisco, where he worked for the past 13 years. Boytler said he got tired of commuting to San Francisco and decided to go into business closer to his Novato home.

Under the new owner, Miracle Norge will offer the same services as in the past, including self-service laundry, dry cleaning and pressing.

WORLD PEACE INC., a new corporation whose goal is to set up international cultural centers to promote world peace, has been established in Marin County.

The new corporation is the brainchild of Los Angeles attorney Ernest L. Graves, who spent many months in Marin County as court-appointed attorney for Ruchell Magee. Other directors of the new corporation are attorneys Joseph A. Forest and David A. Applen, partners in the Novato firm of Carrow, Jones, Applen & Forest.

Forest said that Graves, who heads World Peace Inc., intends initially to write and publish a prospectus, setting out the goals of the corporation, and then establish international cultural centers whenever and wherever feasible.

WESTERN CALIFORNIA Telephone Co., which operates the Novato and Kenwood exchanges, paid $124,908 in first installment property taxes to Marin County for 1973-74, and $14,659 to Sonoma County. The same amounts will be paid again next April as second installment taxes.

A CERAMIC and fiber studio will open next month at 1105 Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael, behind Marin Motorsports.

Owner of the studio is Carol Puck Rinehimer of San Francisco, who plans to move to Mill Valley. Miss Rinehimer attended Rhode Island School of Design and graduated from Kansas City Art Institute in ceramics in 1972. At her San Rafael studio, she will make ceramic and fiber sculpture (mostly abstracts), plus pot holders and aprons, for wholesale, not retail.

William Hoey Company of San Rafael arranged the lease of studio space for Miss Rinehimer. Hoey also negotiated leases for Grund Concrete Construction Company, Walsh Antiques, Zeta Racing and Carter-Riches Imports.

WALSH ANTIQUES, located at 26 Medway, No. 16, in San Rafael got additional warehouse space at No. 7 in the same building. The firm wholesales furniture imports.

ZETA RACING — Dick Zibert of Tiburon, computer salesman who does road racing as a hobby, leased warehouse space at 38-F Hamilton Drive, Hamilton Industrial Park. He and his friends use the place to repair and maintain their personal race cars.

CARTER-RICHES IMPORTS, importer of personalized name plaques, leased more warehouse space at 130 Hamilton Drive, Hamilton Industrial Park. This is the third expansion at that loation for the rapidly growing firm.

Trend In Home Loans Gloomy

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The average mortgate granted to the buyer of a new, single-family home last month was at a rate of 8.36 per cent for 26.1 years in the amount of $28,800, or 75.3 per cent of the total purchase price of $38,900.

These figures, from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, add up to rather bad news for those contemplating the purchase of a new home, not merely because of the figures themselves, but because of the trends:

Lenders were tending to shorten the pay back period.

Down payments were rising.

The prices of houses were rising.

Nevertheless, thousands of families will be buying new homes in the coming year because of necessity or choice, the latter often dictated by the fear that prices, like time, wait for no man.

In January, for example, the national average price of new homes was $35,800, but by November it had risen $3,100 to $38,900. Whether the rise will continue is debatable, but the trend is there.

The lowest interest rates were charged by mutual savings banks, with an effective percentage of 8.11, compared with 8.36 per cent by savings and loan associations, 8.37 by commercial banks and 8.67 by mortgage companies.

The longest maturities were offered by mortgage companies. They permitted an average of 29.3 years in which to pay back the loan, followed by savings and loan associations with 27 years, mutual savings banks 26.1 and commercial banks 21.5 years.

Mortgage companies offered the highest loan to price ratio, permitting the home owner to borrow 82.5 per cent of the purchase price. The ratio for savings and loan association was 77.3, mutual savings banks 68.6 and commercial banks 68.3

Despite generally more difficult terms for the borrower, lenders seem willing to continue maturities for relatively long periods. Mutual savings bank maturities have actually risen in recent months.

While industry and government analysts believe that housing starts will drop well below two million units in 1974 after being well over that mark for three years, there are a couple of encouraging signs.

First, the billion dollars in funds that the thrift institutions watched being withdrawn during last summer, the result of vast disparities in interest rates, is slowly flowing back.

Second, incomes and savings rates are fairly healthy, meaning that many families are in a position to make big capital commitments if the general economic climate improves.

Fuel Pacer Cuts Gas Use

DETROIT — A new "Fuel Pacer System", designed to stretch gas mileage by alerting a driver when he's using more fuel than necessary, has been announced by Chrysler Corp., and shown in prototype form.

The fuel pacer is programmed for factory installation first on compact 1974 Dodge and Plymouth cars in March, and then on other makes.

Simply put, it's a device that actuates a light on the left front fender whenever the carburetor begins to enrich the fuel mixture for an increased power demand. If the light goes on, a driver sees instantly he should drive the car at a more efficient operating level.

Rapid starts and accelerations dip into the power reserve. With the aid of the fuel pacer, drivers can develop the right touch, using much the same principle that fuel economy test drivers use, yet emergency power is always available when needed.

No price has been announced although it is expected to be in the $10 to $12 range.

Second Check To Family Income

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The working wife has added a second check to family income but disagreement on how it is to be spent can lead to dissension.

So observes W. Scane Bowler, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Pioneer Western Corp., who said the second income "can actually determine how well a husband and wife get along, matrimonially speaking."

With 46 per cent of the adult female population now contributing to family income, Bowler says "the husband and wife who both bring home the bacon both should have a say about how it is cooked."

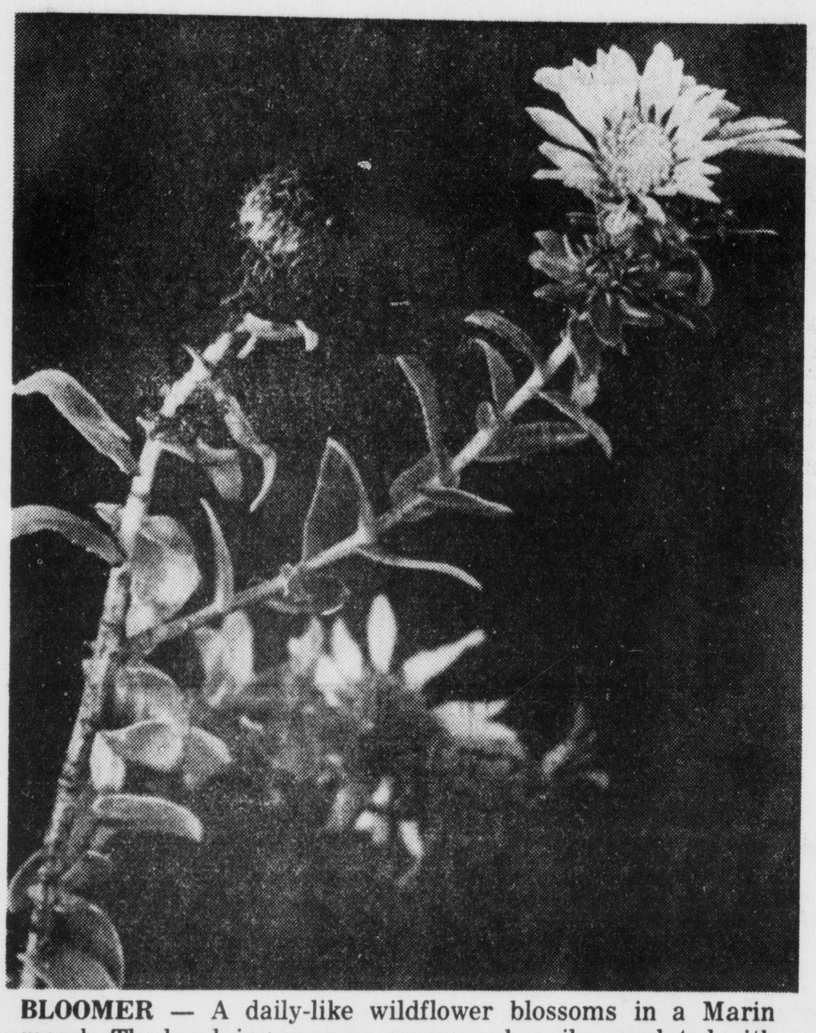
MARIN'S THREATENED MARSHLANDS

The Heerdt marsh beyond these Greenbrae houseboats is one of three recently earmarked by the Marin Audubon Society for preservation efforts. Also chosen was the area near the hills (background) in the San Clemente Creek area, and the Strawberry Spit near Tiburon. The marshes were picked on the basis of wildlife productivity, accessibility and educational value. The study concluded all three are threatened by development pressure.

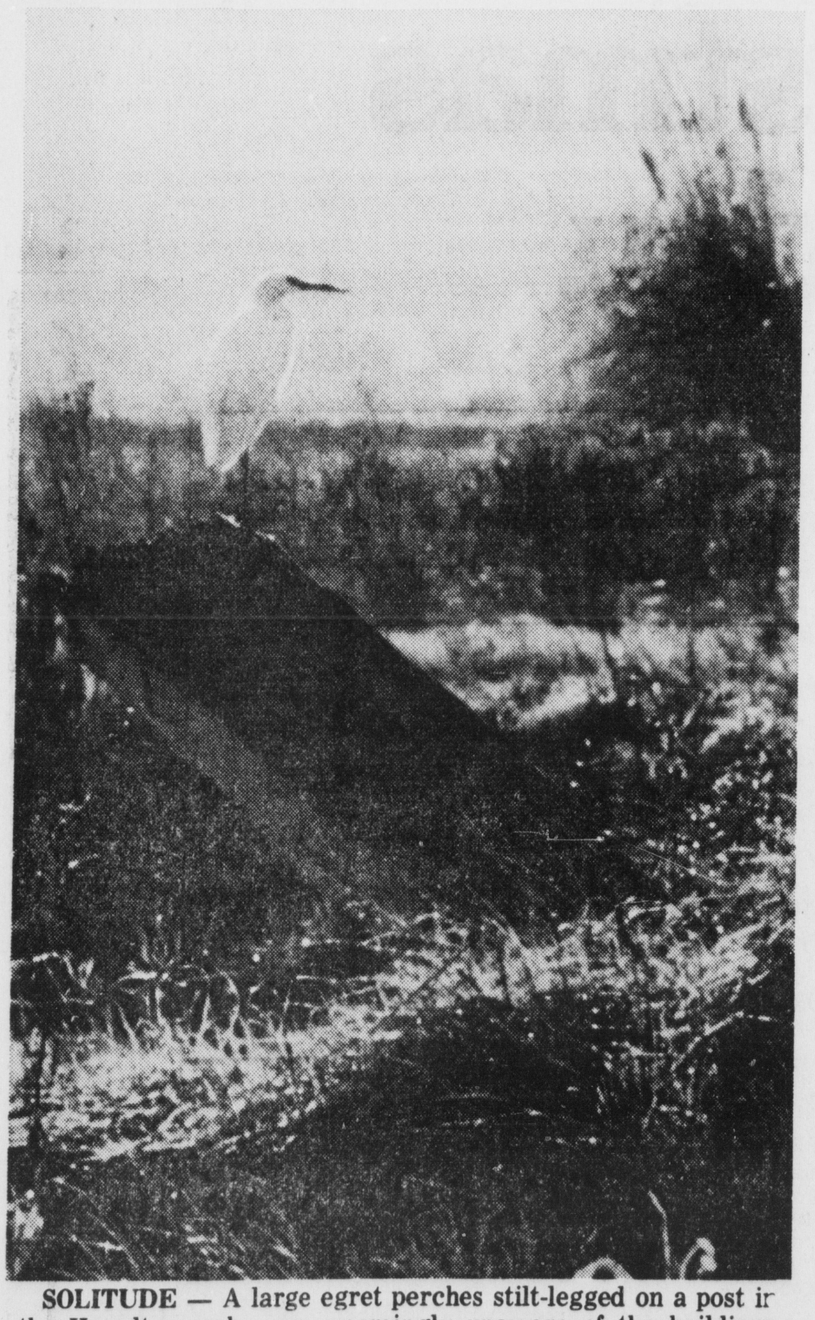
(Photos by Bob Hax)



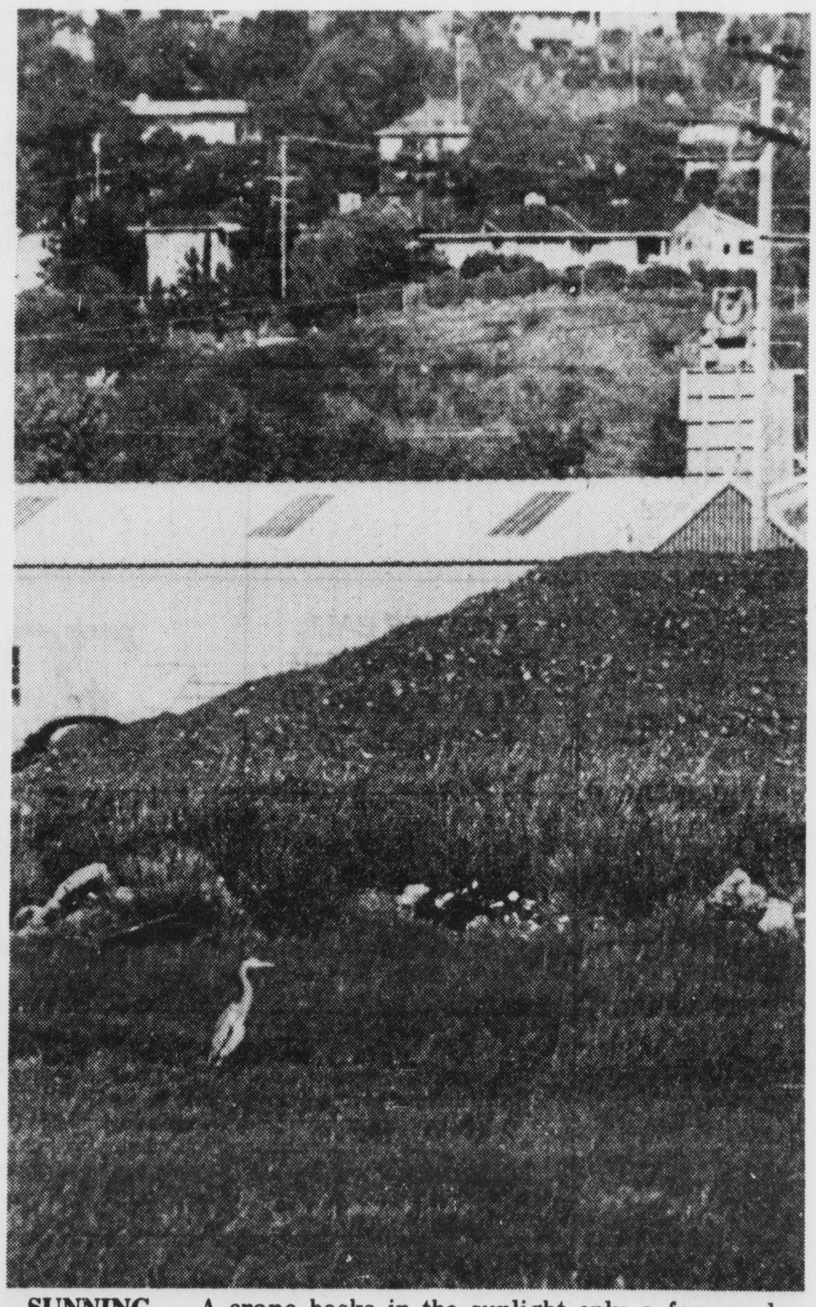
BLOOMER — A daily-like wildflower blossoms in a Marin marsh. The low-lying swampy areas are heavily populated with plants and animals, some of which are found nowhere else in the county.

REFLECTION — An egret, his likeness reflected in the shallow water of a Marin marsh, takes to the air.

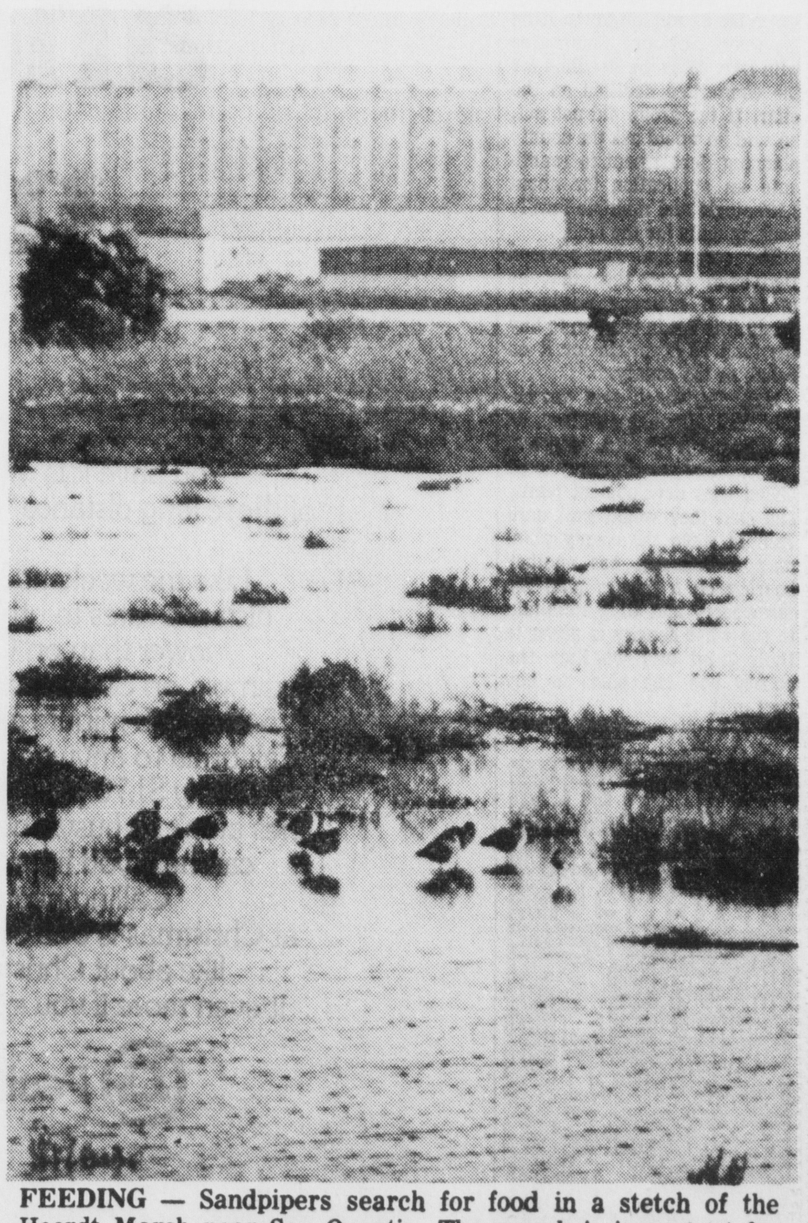
WETLANDS — Stalks of wild fennel growing on a dike frame this view of the marshes of Corte Madera. While dikes make them more useful for man, the local Audubon Society hopes to keep some of these areas in their wild state. San Quentin is on the horizon (center).



SOLITUDE — A large egret perches stilt-legged on a post in the Heerdt marsh area, seemingly unaware of the buildings hovering dimly in the mist behind him. Sierra Club officials aid that the marsh originally covered much of what is now eastern Corte Madera. They hope to attract money to save what is left.



SUNNING — A crane basks in the sunlight only a few yards from encroaching fill in Greenbrae Industrial Park. The park is built on fill in what once was part of the crane's habitat.



FEEDING — Sandpipers search for food in a stetch of the Heerdt Marsh near San Quentin. The marsh is important for many waterfowl which use it as a "rest stop" during migration or live in it year-round. George Ellman, an author of the Audubon marsh report, said Marin's marshes are a vital part of the "Western Flyway," the migration route for many western bird species.

Lease Sales Set In California For Geothermal Steam Sites

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton announced today lease sales would be held next month on three areas in California for development of underground steam as an energy resource.

Morton said lease sales would be held Jan. 22 for some 50,000 acres of federal land in the Clear Lake-Geysers area of northern California, the Mono Lake-Long Valley area in central California, and the East Mesa of Imperial Valley in the southern part of the state.

Geothermal steam already is being tapped in California and some other parts of the nation and world for production of electricity and to heat buildings.

But Morton's action marks the beginning of a major program of research and development of better and more extensive use of natural underground steam.

Super heated underground water usually is brought to the surface where it flashes into steam, which in turn is used to run turbines to generate electricity. But geothermal resources also can be used directly for heating, running air conditioning units and in processing some products.

Interior officials said geothermal resources have the potential for supplying about 2 per cent of the nation's electrical energy needs by the year 2000.

With petroleum and natural gas becoming scarce, development of geothermal resources could free more of these fuels for use as gasoline and to heat homes.

Wilson Sworn In As NY Governor

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Pledging that his administration would "pursue the moderate, middle way," Malcolm Wilson was sworn in today as the 50th governor of New York.

Wilson also pledged that his would not be a "caretaker administration."

"This is going to be a time of vigorous action in serving the people," Wilson said in his brief inaugural address.

Cost Cuts At Terminal To Be Eyed

Plans to cut the cost of the Larkspur ferry terminal back to $10.4 million will be considered by Golden Gate Bridge District directors Thursday instead of tomorrow, as previously announced.

The joint meeting of the building and operating and finance-auditing committees will be at 9:30 a.m. in toll plaza offices.

District architects and engineers have revised plans for the terminal to cut its construction cost from $8.8 to $6.9 million, largely by reducing the complexity of berthing facilities. Other costs are for land and fees for design, engineering and supervision of construction.

Another $888,500 could be cut from the cost if the roof of the terminal were eliminated, the designers said.

The full board will meet at 10 a.m. Friday, also in toll plaza offices. Their session will include a public hearing on an application for federal funds to pay 80 per cent of the cost of 32 new buses.

Peninsula Landowner Will Wait

The owner of 450 acres on Ring Mountain on the Tiburon Peninsula has decided to wait to see how much density the county planning commission assigns to his land before he tries to develop it.

In October, Thomas Deffebach Jr. of Strawberry had offered to sell his land as open space for $2 million to the Ring Mountain Advisory Committee with Dec. 15 as the deadline for the committee decision on the offer. If the group did not act, he said he would ask the county planning department to reactivate an application for about 1,100 single and multiple family housing units for the land.

The committee has advised Deffebach since then that as merely a citizens advisory group it is not in position to buy the land or negotiate for it on behalf of the county.

Mrs. Deffebach said yesterday that although the Dec. 15 deadline has passed, she and her husband are not ready to go ahead with development plans. She said they would wait until Jan. 14 when the county planning commission has another hearing on a master plan for Strawberry and Ring Mountain to see what density is given to their land and whether the county has any plans to buy part of it.

You have lots of time to make lots of those long distance "Merry Christmas" calls beforehand. Like the weekend before, when long distance rates to other states are even lower than on Christmas day. For example, on Sunday between 8 AM and 5 PM, an 8-minute call from anywhere in California to anywhere back East would be only $1.70 plus tax. And the phone lines aren't so busy. The chart at the right can help you figure the cost of a call. Calling people you care about at Christmas is one of the things people like about Christmas. You may like it even more if you spread it out a little.

Lease Sales Set In California For Geothermal Steam Sites

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton announced today lease sales would be held next month on three areas in California for development of underground steam as an energy resource.

Morton said lease sales would be held Jan. 22 for some 50,000 acres of federal land in the Clear Lake-Geysers area of northern California, the Mono Lake-Long Valley area in central California, and the East Mesa of Imperial Valley in the southern part of the state.

Geothermal steam already is being tapped in California and some other parts of the nation and world for production of electricity and to heat buildings.

But Morton's action marks the beginning of a major program of research and development of better and more extensive use of natural underground steam.

Super heated underground water usually is brought to the surface where it flashes into steam, which in turn is used to run turbines to generate electricity. But geothermal resources also can be used directly for heating, running air conditioning units and in processing some products.

Interior officials said geothermal resources have the potential for supplying about 2 per cent of the nation's electrical energy needs by the year 2000.

With petroleum and natural gas becoming scarce, development of geothermal resources could free more of these fuels for use as gasoline and to heat homes.

Wilson Sworn In As NY Governor

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Pledging that his administration would "pursue the moderate, middle way," Malcolm Wilson was sworn in today as the 50th governor of New York.

Wilson also pledged that his would not be a "caretaker administration."

Cost Cuts At Terminal To Be Eyed

Plans to cut the cost of the Larkspur ferry terminal back to $10.4 million will be considered by Golden Gate Bridge District directors Thursday instead of tomorrow, as previously announced.

The joint meeting of the building and operating and finance-auditing committees will be at 9:30 a.m. in toll plaza offices.

District architects and engineers have revised plans for the terminal to cut its construction cost from $8.8 to $6.9 million, largely by reducing the complexity of berthing facilities. Other costs are for land and fees for design, engineering and supervision of construction.

Another $888,500 could be cut from the cost if the roof of the terminal were eliminated, the designers said.

The full board will meet at 10 a.m. Friday, also in toll plaza offices. Their session will include a public hearing on an application for federal funds to pay 80 per cent of the cost of 32 new buses.
